PREFACE.

Throughout the years immediately preceding the World War, a large part of the work of the historical department of the Carnegie Institution consisted in the preparation and issue of comprehensive guides to the materials for American history preserved in foreign archives. The purpose was to provide investigators with manuals that might save them the expenditures and disappointments attendant upon processes of blind and undirected groping, and at the same time to provide students who could not leave the United States with means of securing copies or arranging for searches to be made by other hands. Naturally, by reason of the relations in which the American colonies stood to the British Empire before the War of Independence and of those which have subsisted between the United States and Great Britain since that event, the largest element in the series of volumes then undertaken is that which relates to the materials for American history in the British archives, to which four volumes have been devoted—two volumes of a Guide to the Materials for American History, to 1783, in the Public Record Office of Great Britain, by Professor Charles M. Andrews, a Guide to the Manuscript Materials for the History of the United States, to 1783, in the British Museum, etc., by Drs. Andrews and Davenport, and a Guide to the Materials in London Archives for the History of the United States since 1783, by Drs. Paullin and Paxson; but volumes were also issued which furnished guidance to the American material in the archives of Spain, Germany, Italy, Switzerland, Austria, and Russia, and to the materials for the history of the United States in those of Canada, Mexico, and Cuba. The undertaking of this series of volumes seems to have been justified by the large use which historical scholars have made of those hitherto produced, during the years that have elapsed since their issue.

Fortunately, such guides to the American materials in the national archives of most of the countries whose documents are important to this purpose had been prepared before the fateful days of August 1914, for the war and the attendant disasters would have made it far more difficult to produce them after that date. Guides to the materials for American history in the national archives of France, the Netherlands, and the Scandinavian countries have however been undertaken, the processes of search and note-taking in them have been completed, except in the case of France, and the resultant reports are in course of preparation.

The present volume undertakes to provide special guidance to a body of widely scattered archival materials, for the history of the British colonial empire in America and of the United States in the period before 1815. It may be denoted by the general term "British West Indian." Under this term are embraced not only the repositories of public correspondence and records in the British West Indian islands, in the strict sense of that term, and in the Bahamas and Bermuda, but also the West Indian and allied classes—including those of the Bahamas, Bermuda, British Guiana, and British Honduras—in the Colonial Office Papers preserved in the Public Record Office in London.

MAY 17 '43 Bdg

These classes have, it is true, been inventoried succinctly in the first volume of Professor Andrews's Guide to the Public Record Office, in the course of his description of the Colonial Office Papers; but the object of the corresponding section of the present volume is to treat them on a much larger scale, with much more abundant listing of individual documents.

This account of the West Indian portions of the Colonial Office Papers constitutes the first part of the present volume, the islands being arranged in alphabetical order as they are in the classification of the Colonial Office Papers themselves. Then follows a brief account of the papers of the West India Committee in London, after which follows, as the second main part of the volume, a body of descriptions, in alphabetical order, of the archives of the individual islands and of what they contain for the history of the English colonies and colonial system in America and of the relations of these islands to the United States down to 1815 (and, in a few cases, a little later).

The reasons for preparing so considerable a volume upon the West Indian archival materials for American history rest upon two facts. On the one hand, the history of the British Empire in America and of its administration can not be rightly understood except by taking into the student's view not the continental colonies alone, but the whole series of dependencies, continental and insular alike. At times the island colonies, rich and prosperous, were regarded as a more important element in the Empire than those of the continent. There certainly were times when Barbados and Jamaica were thought more valuable in London than Massachusetts or Carolina. A striking illustration of the estimation in which the islands were held lies in the well-known fact that, in the negotiations preceding the treaty of 1763, the British ministry hesitated for a long time as to whether it were better to give back to France the whole of Canada or to restore to it, as was finally done, the island of Guadeloupe. Students of colonial American history are agreed that its study ought to include much further consideration of the history of the British West Indies than has hitherto been customary. To study the "Old Thirteen" colonies alone is a false method. It is to read into the history of our colonial period a distinction which did not then exist, and in so far to distort and mutilate that history.

In the second place, the commercial relations between the island colonies and those of the mainland form an important part of the economic history of the latter; and even down to 1815, though commercial intercourse after the Revolution was subject to severe restrictions, yet in the commercial, military, and naval fields the history of the islands still remaining under the dominion of Great Britain has many points of contact with that of the new republic. Moreover, it is not to be expected that these now small communities should each be able to put into print the materials for its early history (which some of our richest states have done to but a small extent), or that they should do this in so uniform a manner as to serve the needs of those who wish to study, not a single island, but the Empire as a whole.

The reason for combining in one volume the treatment of the island archives and of the corresponding masses of material in the Public Record Office in London rests mainly upon the fact that the archives in the islands have suffered many losses by reason of wars, hurricanes, earthquakes, fires, peculiarities of climate, the ravages of insects, and the want of care natural in the custody of small collections, while on the other hand, colonial governors having been required by their instructions to transmit copies of certain series (especially minutes of councils and journals of assemblies) to the home government, some of the most important series are found to be more complete in the Public Record Office than in the islands. The transcripts which arrived in London are in almost all cases still there, while the originals which remained in the islands often perished. Thus the two collections are mutually complementary. Many of the series in the islands are to be found nowhere else, copies of them not having been transmitted to London; there are, as in the case of the continental colonies, many sorts of colonial documents in London that are not to be found in the islands; and some of the most important series are to be found both in London and in the islands, but as a rule are more complete in the former case.

To explain the widely differing chronological limits within which the different sections of the volume are contained, it may be well, without entering too minutely into the intricacies of West Indian history, and especially without regarding those which belong to the years before 1711,¹ to indicate the periods during which the respective islands were in British hands; for other periods their papers must often be sought in French, Dutch, or other archives. It may be said that, aside from partial exceptions lying well before 1711, Antigua, the Bahamas, Barbados, and Bermuda have been continuously under British rule from their first settlement by British subjects until the present time; that Montserrat, Nevis, and St. Kitts were in French hands from 1782 to 1783, but otherwise always British; and that Grenada and St. Vincent were taken from the French in 1762, were in British hands from that date to 1779, in French possession from 1779 to 1783, and since 1783 continuously British. Dominica was taken from the French in 1761, and was British from 1761 to 1778, French from 1778 to 1783, British since 1783. St. Lucia, taken from the French in 1762, was British from 1762 to 1763, from 1778 to 1783, from 1794 to 1795, from 1796 to 1802, and since 1803. Tobago passed from a sort of neutral status to that of a British colony in 1762, and was such from 1762 to 1781, from 1793 to 1802, and after 1803. Trinidad was taken from Spain in 1797. Of islands which are not now British, but which figure to some extent in the classification of the Colonial Office Papers, Guadeloupe was taken from the French in 1759, was restored in 1763, and was held by Great Britain briefly in 1794, and at greater length in 1810-1815. Martinique was in British possession from 1762 to 1763, from 1794 to 1802, and from 1809 to 1815; Curaçao (taken from the Dutch) during part of 1798 and from 1807 to 1814; and St. Eustatius (also Dutch) during a part of 1781. It should also be mentioned that from 1761 to 1770 Dominica, from 1762 to 1776 St. Vincent, and from 1762 to 1781 Tobago, were included in the government of Grenada, while from 1671 till after the end of the period included in the scope of this volume there was a general government of the Leeward Islands, embracing Antigua, Montserrat, Nevis, and St. Kitts. British Guiana was first in British hands in 1781-1782, and again in 1796-1802, and was permanently lost by the Dutch in 1803.

Owing to war-time conditions and other sources of difficulty, the preparation of this volume has extended through a number of years, and it has been prepared by various hands. A beginning was made in 1916, when Mr. Luis M. Pérez, now commercial attaché to the Cuban embassy in Washington, but at that time librarian of the Cuban House of Representatives, went to Jamaica and took notes for an inventory of the various series of public records of that colony. Even before this, Mr. James M. Wright, who in 1903 had accompanied the expedition sent out to the Bahama Islands by the Geographical Society of Baltimore and while there had prepared an account of the archives of that colony, as an incident to the preparation of his published history of it, had kindly presented that account afterwards to this Department of the Carnegie Institution. Accordingly, the Department sent no special expedition to these islands. Mr. Wright's account, abbreviated, has been incorporated in the present volume, despite the possibility that some of his statements may not now be exact; efforts to have it brought to date came to unexpected failure, too late for remedy. In the years from 1919 to 1922, Professor Herbert C. Bell carried out in the Public Record Office the examination and description of those West Indian portions of the Colonial Office Papers which are classified as Original Correspondence and Entry-Books, down to the year 1775, and also, with Miss Cornelia M. Pierce, secretary of the Department, examined the archives of Bermuda; Miss Lillian M. Penson, now lecturer in history in Birkbeck College, London, prepared a report upon the Original Correspondence and Entry-Books for the period from 1775 to 1815; Miss Edith Moodie, of London, listed, in the form in which they appear in this volume, the West Indian Sessional Papers and printed Acts; and Mr. J. E. Neale took the needful notes from the Shipping Returns. Miss Ruth A. Fisher has also given assistance in London in miscellaneous particulars. Finally, Mr. David W. Parker, formerly chief of the manuscripts room in the Public Archives of Canada, spent the months from September 1924, to January 1925, in a tour of the British islands from Trinidad northward to St. Kitts, examining the archives of all the Lesser British Antilles, and thus completing the work upon the island repositories which had been already carried through in the cases of the Bahamas, Bermuda, and Jamaica. Mr. Parker has also, since his return, prepared the manuscript of the whole volume for publication. That some inequalities and irregularities should appear in a volume prepared by so many different hands and in so many different places was hardly avoidable, but it is hoped that they will be excused.

For aid to the searches made in London thanks are due, and are cordially rendered, to the officials of the Public Record Office, and to Mr. Algernon Aspinall, C.M.G., secretary of the West India Committee. In Jamaica, the investigations of Mr. Pérez were assisted, with the utmost kindness, by Mr. Frank Cundall, secretary and librarian of the Institute of Jamaica, and by his assistant, Miss Morrison, in charge of the library. The inquiries made in Bermuda were greatly helped by Mr. F. G. Gosling, assistant colonial secretary. Especial thanks are due to the British Ambassador in Washington, Sir Esmé Howard, G.C.M.G.; in preparation for Mr. Parker's expedition, he brought it about through the Foreign Office in London that the Secretary of State for the Colonies sent such instructions to colonial officials as procured for Mr. Parker all possible facilities for his work in each one of the nine islands that he visited. The uniform helpfulness of their governors, administrators, and secretaries is gratefully acknowledged. We also thank Professor Charles H. Hull, of Cornell University, for kindly lending to us a general report on the archives of the British West India islands which he drew up after visiting many of them in the winter of 1905-1906.

COLONIAL OFFICE PAPERS: WEST INDIES.

The Colonial Office Papers have already been described by Professor Charles M. Andrews, in volume I. of a Guide to the Materials for American History, to 1783, in the Public Record Office of Great Britain (Washington, Carnegie Institution, 1912). The following section merely treats in greater detail those series which deal with the West Indies and with certain adjacent areas of Central and South America with which the British islands always had close relations. As Professor Andrews's Guide is in the same series of volumes as the one here presented, it seems needless to offer here an extended introduction which would inevitably be constructed along the same or parallel lines. The method adopted is much simpler, namely, frankly to plagiarize some of the parts especially applicable to the present book. A careful perusal of all introductory material in Professor Andrews's first volume, and particularly of pp. 78-81, 96-112, is strongly recommended.

One recent change in the conditions described by Professor Andrews may be noted here, even though it lies beyond the limits of this book. The Colonial Office records are now open to public inspection to the close of 1860, instead of 1837 as formerly. "No permits are required for the inspection of volumes consisting of printed Gazettes, Minutes of Legislative Councils, Journals of Houses of Assembly, Colonial Sessional Papers, and other similar Papers which may be presumed to have been made public in the Colonies."¹

The Colonial Office Papers, as arranged under the recent reclassification, are a mixture of the records of the Board of Trade with those of the Secretary of State, including the old "America and West Indies" series. The archives of the Board of Trade have thus been submerged in an artificial arrangement, and their historical identity has been considerably impaired.²

In the present classification of these papers in the Public Record Office, the islands find their places in the alphabetical order of the British colonies, while under each island the papers are, as a rule, arranged in eight classes: (1) original correspondence which came to the Board of Trade; (2) original correspondence which came to the Secretary of State; (3) entry-books of outgoing despatches from the Board of Trade; (4) entry-books of outgoing despatches from the Secretary of State; (5) acts; (6) sessional papers, comprising transcripts of the minutes and journals of the colonial councils and assemblies; (7) shipping returns, or naval office lists; and (8) miscellaneous. This order of arrangement has been followed in the present book. It should, however, be borne in mind that many papers relating to Antigua, Montserrat, Nevis, St. Kitts, and the Virgin Islands are to be found under "Leeward Islands", and that some papers of a general nature are classed under "West Indies".

In the notes which this volume presents respecting papers in the first four of the eight classes named above, the original correspondence and the entry-books, no data will be found regarding papers earlier than July 1, 1711, since all such papers are described, with much greater fullness than would be possible in this work, in the twenty volumes of the Calendars of State Papers, Colonial, America and West Indies, which have been published by the British government, and of which the twentieth, the last volume thus far published, ends with June 30, 1711. The Colonial Office Papers of these four classes have been searched from 1711 to 1815, but a larger scale of treatment has been used for the period from 1711 to 1775 than for the period from 1775 to 1815. From the time of the American Revolution, one of the two chief reasons for encouraging American study of West Indian history, that which is deduced from the position of the Thirteen Colonies as a part of the British Empire, falls away. The papers of the period from 1775 to 1815 are dealt with on a reduced scale, yet with the intention of including all items relating to the United States.

In the case, on the other hand, of the classes devoted to acts, sessional papers, shipping returns, and miscellaneous papers, the data presented in this volume run from the beginning of such classes to the end of the year 1783. Although after 1783 the several series dealing with sessional papers and shipping returns were not examined, any records of those characters which were found in the volumes of original correspondence, up to 1815, were listed.³

The Public Record Office also contains several general series in which there is material relating to West Indian along with other colonies, and especial mention should be made of the classes C. O. 323-326 ("Plantations General"), C. O. 388-390 ("Board of Trade, Commercial"), and C. O. 391 ("Board of Trade, Journal"); but these have been treated with considerable fullness in Professor Andrews's Guide to the Public Record Office, I. 225-267, and have not been included in the scope of the present volume.

ORIGINAL CORRESPONDENCE.

Duplication of material between the Board of Trade and the office of the Secretary of State for the Southern Department is a subject about which it is very difficult to generalize. It varies widely according to period, subject, and the individual governor.⁴ In general, military affairs and matters of policy lay outside the province of the Board, which concerned itself mainly with colonial administration and trade. A governor might address despatches of the same date to both the Board and the Secretary of State, which would be (a) exact duplicates, or (b) utterly dissimilar, or (c) would vary only as to certain paragraphs. Similarly, enclosures are found in both series; but they are not always the same enclosures. Needless to say, volumes forming a part of the regular series for any colony will show more regularity in form, etc., than those which consist of papers brought together at a later time from different bundles and volumes, but even the regular series show variations sufficient to make generalization difficult.

ENTRY-BOOKS.

Entry-books sometimes contain orders in Council not found in original correspondence. Many of these books have tables of contents.

ACTS.⁵

Printed volumes among the acts were examined. Other portions of the lists of acts were compiled from the List of Colonial Office Records.

⁴ See Andrews, op. cit., I. 79-80.

SESSIONAL PAPERS.

These series, embracing "minutes of council" (executive), "minutes of council in assembly" (legislative), and journals of assembly, have been treated in the same manner as was done for the mainland colonies in the Annual Report of the American Historical Association for 1908, I. 403-509.

SHIPPING RETURNS (NAVAL OFFICE LISTS.)⁶

The headings of the forms employed vary considerably according to date. Returns for vessels entered usually give the following particulars: date of entry; names of ship, master, and owner; tonnage, number of guns and men; when and where built; date and place of registration; class of vessel; whence arrived; destination; when and where bond was given; and character of cargo. Mutatis mutandis outward returns carry the same information, while lists containing both entries and clearances are a merger of the separate returns. While there is general uniformity as to headings, yet it is far from complete. The earlier returns often omit one or more of the heads given in later lists. Attention needs to be drawn to the confusion in the sequence of returns. The lists compiled for this book overcome this as between one volume and another, but within a single volume returns are often not found in chronological order.

Many volumes contain miscellaneous statistical information. This has been listed according to colony, at the close of shipping returns.

REFERENCE AIDS.

Two typed and bound copies of a "General Catalogue of the Lists, Indexes, Calendars, and other means of reference to the Records of the Public Record Office", are in the Literary Search Room. This "General Catalogue" is not complete, as it does not note the existence of tables of contents in certain volumes.

Index no. 10663 contains tables of contents of certain volumes relating to the Bahamas, Barbados, Jamaica, and the Leeward Islands. They have been taken from their former locations and placed under one cover.

The earlier registers or "calendars" of Board of Trade correspondence cover the years 1703-1759, and comprise vols. 16-51 of C. O. 326. As regards original correspondence they list all despatches from governors and all important enclosures. The endorsement on each document is copied into the "calendar", and the letter of the bundle and number of the document are added. The arrangement follows exactly that of the papers referred to, and the order is that in which they were dealt with by the Board. In cases where the governor's despatch is accompanied by an abstract the latter is sometimes listed. Where this occurs it is sometimes impossible to determine from the index whether a given entry represents an abstract or a separate letter of that date. This, however, arises merely from the faithful copying of the endorsement. Again, it is difficult in some cases to determine from the index whether a certain document is enclosed or not; and, if so, of what letter it is an enclosure. But in general the enclosures are lettered and numbered in the same manner as the original correspondence. In the case of out-letters the entries correspond in general to marginal notations of the entry-books.

These registers are complete and accurate for the earlier years, but progressive deterioration is shown towards the end. Since the entries give only the most meagre indication of the contents of the documents they could in no case be used as substitutes. On the other hand, in so far as they are complete and accurate, they may make possible some economy of time, in giving a concise statement of the kind of material that a given volume contains.

The secretary or clerk of the Board made abstracts of the governors' despatches, either on the backs of the documents or on separate slips, and arranged these abstracts in alphabetical order. The paragraphs or sections of the letters themselves were frequently lettered A, B, C, etc., and corresponding letters placed on the corresponding sections of the abstracts. In many cases the abstracts were bound and placed among the volumes of a given colony. While showing some inevitable variation in quality, the abstracts of earlier volumes are clear and faithful. The work of dividing letters and abstracts into groups and paragraphs is also conscientiously done. Although the very brevity of the abstracts tends to give them a positiveness of statement which the originals with their usual qualifying phrases do not possess, the abstracts give quite sufficient indications as to the nature of each document thus noted.

- Order in Council, for bringing writ of scire facias against charter. Aug. 2, 1720.
- Three memorials from copartners, on desire to complete settlement of islands. Apr. and May, 1721.
- Letter from Rogers: "It is Impossible I can subsist here any Longer on the foot I have been left ever since my Arrivall." Was left with "a few Sick men to encounter Five hundred of the Pirates", and has no support in men, supplies, or warships. Has contracted great debts through having to buy provisions and clothing in North America at extravagant rates and his bills are protested. "This place so secured by my Industry, Indefatigable pains and the forfeiture of my health has since been sold for Fourty Thousand Pounds and my Self by a manager at Home, and Co-partners' Factotem here thought not to Deserve any share of it." Instead he has been very badly used and all expense thrown on him; "but that I have Intire Relyance on the Honour and Justice of my Lord Londonderry, Mr. Wm. Chetwind, and Mr. Docminicque, the only Surviving of the Copartners worth mentioning". Is leaving at once for England to save colony. Feb. 25, 1720/21.
- Letter from Carteret, referring request of governor, council, and principal inhabitants for calling of assembly. Apr. 28, 1722.
- Letter from Phenney, stating need of an assembly to raise money for rebuilding of forts, which are in ruins. Dec. 26, 1721.
- Minutes of council, Dec. 14-18, 24-29, 1721.
- Copy of record of court proceedings in case of Mr. Gohier, relating to capture of seal fish and payment of tenths of oil, at first to proprietors, and now to copartners, lessees from proprietors. 1721.
- Account of ordnance stores. 1721.
- Memorial of Nicholas Trott, governor of Bahamas 1694-1697, on his claims to lands: these claims being now threatened by lease given to copartners for 21 years from 1717, 1721, or 1722. Contains interesting information on land system.
- Letter from Phenney, on need for assembly, establishment of militia, and work on forts. Feb. 10, 1721/2.
- Id.*, on same matters, rates of local currency, and pirates. Sept. 14, Dec. 24, 1722; Mar. 2, 1722/3. - Answers sent by Phenney to queries of Board. Dec. 24, 1723, Dec. 3, 1724, Apr. 16, 1725.
- Treasurer's accounts for 1724.

Papers on Spanish depredations. 1725.

Copy of commission issued by the governor of Santiago, Cuba, to Spanish guarda costa. 1724.

Depositions on piracy. 1725.

2. 1726-1731.

Letters from Gov. Phenney. Jan. 26, 28, 1725/6. Encloses: treasurer's account, 1725; draft of patent for granting land in Bahamas, 1726; answer to queries of Board; list of fees to be taken by various officers; deposition on Spanish depredations; correspondence with the governor of Havana; account of christenings, marriages, and burials; stores on hand and required.

Papers on rumor of approaching war, preparations by Spaniards, and need for better protection.

"Copies of Several proceedings relating to the ill-behaviour of Lieut. Ferrall"; and papers asking for his removal as commander of independent company in Bahamas. Details of condition of troops.

Report of proceedings in trial of Michael Bevan, master of sloop Swansea, which put into the Bahamas to refit while proceeding from Bristol to New York, and was seized and condemned for lack of register and certificate of lading. Case tried by jury in court of common pleas. Appeal allowed to chancery, but heard in council. Feb. and Mar., 1721/2.

Papers on establishment of an assembly, and on eviction of settlers, 1721 and 1722, supply varied information on conditions.

Letter from Phenney, on quit-rents paid to proprietors. Apr. 20, 1727. Encloses: treasurer's account of cash, 1726; affidavits on plundering of vessel by Spaniards, 1727; answers to customary queries, 1726; accounts of ordnance; and accounts of christenings, marriages, and burials, 1726-1727.

Id., with answers to customary queries of Board. Mar. 16, 1727/8.

Letter from Townshend, on system of land tenure, and misgovernment by Phenney. Copartners have tenure of twenty-one years, of which half is nearly expired; but have power to grant land for ninety-nine years. Have spent £35,000, but much wasted or embezzled. "The Governour ingrosses all the Trade. Mrs. Phenney sells Rum by the Pint and Biscuit by the Half Ryal." Aug. 13, 1728.

Other papers on Phenney and his wife. In particular, memorial from Mrs. Vere. "She [Mrs. Phenney] had the Opportunity of keeping the very Life of every body there in her Mercy, who could not have any Provisions or Subsistence whatsoever without paying her own exorbitant prices. . . . The Sd. Governours wife has frequently Brow beaten Jurys and Insulted even the Justice on the Bench." She buys produce and goes to England, saying the governor will pay, but he, when applied to, answers that he never meddles in her affairs.

List of men capable of bearing arms in New Providence Island, Eleuthera, and Harbor Island. One hundred and sixteen in all, of whom "seldom above seventy at home at a time".

"To the Honourable Collector Bladen, the Representation of Cuthbert Jackson of London, Mercht., in relation to the Bahama Islands", giving their history. In 1717 proprietors surrendered civil and military government to the crown, with reservation of quit-rents and royalties. These they leased in the same year to Capt. Woodes

- Rogers for twenty-one years at £50 per annum for first seven years, £100 per annum for second seven years, and £200 per annum for last seven years. The "old Lessee" had power to grant patents of lands at a yearly rent of 1 d. per acre and to demand one-tenth of all brazilletto, salt, whale oil, wrecks, and ambergris during term of twenty-one years. Rogers, appointed governor, assigned his lease to copartners. Much money was put in, but sunk without adequate return on account of operations of pirates and laziness of inhabitants. Lessees revised partnership, with new partners and capital, in 1720, but distress continues; and inhabitants have been saved from starvation only by assistance from Carolina. Principal needs now are civil government, abolition of lessees' tenths, and measures to make possible acquisition of firm title to land.
- Orders in Council, representations, and other papers issuing from Privy Council and Board on proposal for buying out proprietors. 1729.
- "Mr. Fane's Report relating to the Exercise of Admiralty Jurisdiction by the Lds. Proprietors of the Bahamas in view of their Charter." May 16, 1729. [Printed in Chalmers, Opinions, ed. 1858, p. 507.]
- Letter from Phenney. Encloses: answers to queries of Board, 1729; treasurer's account, 1728; report of christenings, etc., 1728; and account of stores. Mar. 10, 1728/9.
- Letter from Gov. Rogers, on first meeting of assembly, Sept. 30, 1729, and on bringing of independent company of soldiers from Bermuda. Nov. 12, 1729. Encloses list of ten acts recently passed.
- Letter from five of proprietors, Berkeley, Beaufort, Craven, J. Colleton, and Robert Abdy (as one of the executors and devisees for Sir John Tyrrell, deceased), offering, in response to suggestion from the crown, to sell out for 1,000 guineas each, clear of all fees, and reserving arrears of rent due from lessees or assignees of proprietors' lease. Apr. 11, 1730.
- Letter from Shelton, secretary to proprietors, giving particulars of lease by proprietors to Woodes Rogers, and by him to W. Chetwynd, Adam Cardonnel, and Thomas Pitt, Esqs.; "but the right and interest of the term, is by mean assignments now vested in Sir Charles Wager, Mr. Hide, Mr. Harris, etc." Lease dated Oct. 28, 1717, and to operate from Dec. 25, 1717. Lessee to have right to grant lands for not less than 1 d. sterling per acre. Sept. 9, 1730.
- Letter from John Hyde, explaining what lessees receive and pay, and price which they will demand to sell out. Apr. 3, 1731.
- Plan of Fort Nassau on island of New Providence. 1731.
- Letter from Rogers. Continued poverty and difficulties; attempts to promote cotton and sugar planting, and ship-building; plans to supply salt to North American colonies, and to secure settlers from Bermuda and other colonies; poor condition of forts (iron work of which was all sold by Phenney) and of militia; and condition of independent company of troops. Oct., 1730.
- Id.*, on difficulty with assembly which desires to exclude officers and soldiers who are freeholders from franchise. Feb. 10, 1730/1.
- Copy of letter from Richard Fitzwilliam to Carkesse. Fitzwilliam, having gone to the Bahamas "to inquire into its Trade and management of Customs", sends general description of colony and its trade. New Providence, June 30, 1729.

3. 1732-1737.

Letter from Rogers, on general weakness of island, and necessity that the crown take it over and put an end to discouraging contests on titles to land. Oct. 14, 1731. Encloses: classified statistics on all classes of population, 1715; public accounts, 1730-1731; and answers to customary queries.

"The Charter of the Bahama Islands", as granted to proprietors, Nov. 1, 1670.

Copy of lease by proprietors to Woodes Rogers. Oct. 28, 1717. Other formal papers.

Memorial of Richard Fitzwilliam, appointed governor of the Bahamas, reviewing its history and describing conditions.

Opinion by Fitzwilliam and J. Eden, agent to Gov. Rogers, on ten acts; in particular, on act to forbid export of planks and other materials for shipbuilding. 1730.

Order in Council, directing commissioners of Treasury to complete bargain for purchase of proprietors' and lessees' rights. Aug. 2, 1733.

Letter from Fitzwilliam. Threatened negro insurrection; lack of produce for building up commerce; and unwillingness of members of assembly to raise money, "such a sett of head-strong, simple, ungovernable Wretches were never convened in legislative Capacity". Sept. 7, 1734.

Various papers on transfer of titles of proprietors and lessees to the crown.

Letters from Fitzwilliam. Weakness, discouragement, and threatened diminution of population; recovery of property from Spanish wrecks; removal or concealment of all but one of acts of assembly after Rogers's death; and attempts to collect tithes of salt and wood for the crown. Dec. 5, 1733, Feb. 10, 1733/4, July 2, 1734, and Mar. 11, 1734/5.

Id., complaining that he has not received any communication from Board since arrival, and enclosing: list of acts passed at session of assembly commencing Aug. 20, 1734; treasurer's accounts, Dec., 1733-June, 1734, and Midsummer-Christmas 1734; and list of families, 1735. Mar. 11, 1734/5.

Id., sending depositions on seizure of vessels by Spaniards without excuse. Aug. 20, 1735. Other papers.

Id., reporting that soldiers of independent company receive no allowances such as given elsewhere, and are dying for want of medicines and starving on account of price of provisions. Ordnance stores also lacking, and company has only twenty muskets. Duties, including that of 1 d. per bushel on salt exported, have been laid by assembly in place of tenths. Dec. 22, 1735.

Id., on seizure of vessel by Spaniards. Dec. 22, 1735. Encloses "an Account of the Duty-Laws in Force, etc., in the Bahama Islands", 1735.

Memorial of Chaloner Jackson, collector at the Bahamas, complaining that Fitzwilliam interferes with officers of customs, monopolizes trade in colony, and commits various malicious and arbitrary acts. Oct. 7, 1736.

Letters from Fitzwilliam to Board, and to Sir William Strickland and Sir William Yonge, secretaries at war, on distressing condition of troops. Describes mutiny due to hardships, attempts of mutineers to escape by sea, their capture, and execution of twelve on charge of piracy. Aug., 1734–Mar., 1735/6.

Account of royal revenues, Christmas 1734 to Christmas 1735.

Affidavits on misbehavior of Fitzwilliam in monopolizing all trade by compelling merchants to sell only to him. 1736. Memorial of Henry Popple, and address of grand jury in defense of Fitzwilliam, 1736. Other papers.

Letter from Burchett, sending copy of instructions to sloop-of-war stationed at the Bahamas. Nov. 5, 1736.

Letter from Fitzwilliam, asking for instructions on escheats and treasure trove; and urging annexation of Turks Islands to the Bahamas as necessary for prevention of illicit trade between British and French colonies, and introduction of French goods. Nov. 12, 1736.

Papers on complaints against Capt. Symonds of H. M. S. Shark, showing methods used in recruiting seamen. 1736–1737.

4. 1737–1742.¹

Letter from Fitzwilliam, on weakness of colony. "It will be impossible for me to answer the Ends of my being sent hither without your Lordships' Interposition in Favour of this miserable Place." Mar. 26, 1736.

Treasurer's accounts, Christmas 1735 to Christmas 1736, so detailed as to give information on population, shipping, etc.

Letter from Fitzwilliam, answering Chaloner Jackson's complaints, and charging that Jackson levies extortionate fees and excuses some persons from paying enumerated duties. Apr. 18, 1737. Other papers contain information on security given on bonds, and other phases of enforcement of acts of trade.

Memorial of Henry Popple, agent to Fitzwilliam, on behalf of latter.

Letter from Fitzwilliam, complaining that fear of Spaniards prevents raking of salt; that other colonies, knowing that no salt is to be had, send no provisions; and that population is consequently compelled to subsist on crabs, fish, and wild fruit. Oct. 28, 1737.

Treasurer's accounts, Christmas 1736 to Midsummer 1737.

Letter from Pres. Howell, picturing growth of law and order, and showing that troops are driven by distress to robbing of plantations. Aug. 8, 1738.

7. 1760-1768. (No papers for 1765 nor for first seven months of 1766.)
Papers on Monte Cristi trade (principally duplicates of those in C. O. 152:46).

Letter from Shirley, on reasons for removing Samuel Gambier (son of president of council) from council and court of vice-admiralty. Oct. 23, 1760. Encloses declaration of William Mowat, advocate general of the Bahamas, on alleged statements by Gambier that he was being paid by merchants of Philadelphia, engaged in the "Flag of Trucing Trade" with French islands, to do all he could for such vessels as were carried into the Bahamas as prizes, and that he did not consider such trade illegal. Oct. 23, 1760. Other papers on Gambier case.

Petition to Shirley from "Sundry Owners of Privateers, Merchants, and Others, Inhabitants of said Bahama Islands", on illegal trade by northern colonies, and protection given it by Gambier. Alleged that Gambier was contracting to send provisions to Monte Cristi. Oct. 12, 1760.

Papers on seizure, and trial in court of vice-admiralty, of the snow Thomas and Waddle, seized by a Jamaica privateer because laden with French sugar, rum, and other produce. Release granted by Daniel Laroche, surrogate of court of vice-admiralty, on grounds that, on purchase, title to goods became British; and that, consequently, no law exists restraining such trade, even after declaration of war. 1760. Judgment given in extenso.

Many papers on flags of truce, largely from northern colonies, going to Monte Cristi and other points in Santo Domingo. Wholesale charges of bribery and corruption against governor, judges of admiralty court, and other officials. Further information on the Thomas and Waddle. Among these papers is a copy of certificate granted by Shirley, July 22, 1760, to flag of truce going to Monte Cristi with seven French prisoners.

"Address of sundry merchants of New Providence and Others, Commanders of or interested in Privateers: . . . the Business of Privateering is the most beneficial and almost the only profitable Trade carried on in these Islands." 1760.

Articles of complaint against Shirley by Richard Derby of Salem, owner, and George Crowninshield, master, of ship Ranger, captured after clearing from Monte Cristi for Leghorn, and condemned at New Providence. Also, answer to these articles of complaint by James Bradford, judge of court of admiralty at New Providence. Other papers, showing that the Ranger was former French privateer, sold at Gibraltar, and commissioned as British privateer in 1761.

Letter from Halifax, on French raid on Turks Islands. Aug. 10, 1764. Other papers on raid.

Proceedings in trial, in admiralty court, of John Bishop, accused of piracy in seizing Spanish vessel Nuestra Señora de la Soledad. Correspondence with Spaniards on same.

Papers on appointment of agent for Turks Islands.

Proceedings in murder trial in court of oyer and terminer. 1767.

"Heads of Rules and Orders for regulating His Majesty's Ponds on the Turks Islands." 1767. "Heads of regulations" made for administration of Turks Islands. 1767.

Letter from Shirley on Turks Islands, and on "break up" of Monte Cristi trade. Apr. 19, 1767.

8. 1768-1771.

Apparently nothing of importance not found in C. O. 23:18.

9. 1771-1779.

Order in Council, for disallowance of act of 1769 for establishing and regulating courts.

Reports of Richard Jackson on acts passed 1770-1777, relating to: courts; governor's salary; making of cotton and coffee grown in islands legal tender to receiver general, assessors, and collectors; creation of parishes; governing of negroes, mulattoes, and Indians; education; security given by masters of ships; clearance of vessels to other British colonies; proceedings on attachments entering out of court of judicature; import and export duties; poll tax; and regulation of salt ponds.

Letter from Lieut.-Gov. Gambier, on supplying North America with salt from Turks Islands. June 15, 1778.

Id., complaining of false accounts of seizure of Fort Nassau, printed in North American papers and reprinted in London. June 16, 1778. Encloses minutes of Council, return of stores at Fort Nassau, etc.

Many papers on American attack of Mar., 1776, when island of New Providence was taken. Mutual recriminations between Gov. Browne and council, council blaming Browne for indifference to intelligence received, and for easy surrender, and Browne complaining of disaffection in colony, and of open encouragement and entertainment offered to Hopkins and his followers by attorney general, collector, and other persons.

Papers on Browne's refusal, on returning from North America, Dec. 16, 1778, to continue licenses for trade with America granted by Pres. Gambier; claiming that, while licenses were ostensibly for supply of necessary provisions, they covered in reality illegal trade. Many dismissals and replacements of officers involved.

10. 1779-1780.

W. Knox to R. Cumberland enclosing letters, etc., from Gov. Browne and others containing references to trade with America. Aug. 18, 1780.

Letter from J. Maxwell, no. 10. Encloses "A list of Vessels Captured and Libelled in the Court of Vice-Admiralty in New Providence from the 1 June 1779 to 30 June 1780", including 37 American vessels. June 30, 1780.

"A Narrative of the Transactions etc. on the Invasion of the Island of New Providence by the Rebels in 1776." Followed by depositions, etc., on the same subject and also on trade with America during the war.

Letter from W. Knox. Encloses letter from Lord G. Germain to Gov. Browne, relating to rebel attack on the Bahamas. Dec. 21, 1780.

The volume contains also some unnumbered papers at end relating to Gov. Browne's defense, including 2 printed certificates:

- (1) for clearing out a vessel from Beaufort, N. Carolina;
- (2) a privateering commission signed J. Jay President.

11. 1721-1754.

Abstracts of letters from governors. (Incomplete.)

C. O. 23: 12-62, 152: 46. SECRETARY OF STATE: ORIGINAL CORRESPONDENCE. 1696-1815.

12. 1696-1731.

Letter from Board of Trade on orders received for drafting commission and instructions for Roger Mostyn. Cannot "see how a Commission and Instructions can be properly prepared for a Governor of a Place where there are but twelve dispersed families". Asks that Stanhope receive his Majesty's pleasure on Board's representation of Dec. 14, 1715, showing unfortunate conditions in colony, need for writ of quo warranto or scire facias, and for proper settlement and fortifications. Mar. 24, 1715/6. Copy of representation, Dec. 14, 1715, appended.

Id., on pirates. Sept. 13, 1716. Enclosures: (1) representation on desertion of islands by proprietors, ruin of forts, and departure of population; points out importance of islands, and advises that government be resumed by the crown. Feb. 2, 1708/9. (2) Extract of letter from Spotswood to Board on pirates. July 3, 1716. (3) Deposition of John Vickers of New Providence on pirates.

Id., enclosing copy of representation of Board, of same date, on petition of Woodes Rogers for settlement of the Bahamas. Sketches early history of colony, and advises scire facias "in the Court of Chancery on the Patent" or quo warranto in King's Bench. Recommends acceptance of Rogers's proposal to go out in his own ship, spending at least £4,000, and taking out artificers. Suggests that Rogers, who is well recommended by many of best merchants of London and Bristol, be made governor and furnished with soldiers and large guns. July 26, 1717.

Representation, advising resumption of government of colony by the crown, and sketching previous history. Dec. 14, 1715.

Computation of expense of transporting five hundred Palatines to the Bahamas. 1717. Interesting for current prices.

Memorial of sundry merchants, complaining of neglect of colony by proprietors, and recommending Rogers. 1717.

Several letters relating to Rev. Mr. Curphey, who desires to be chaplain of independent company in the Bahamas, and affording information on religious and other social conditions. 1722. Also memorial from Phenney, asking that his Majesty give "a Service in Plate with Furniture for the Communion Table", pulpit, desk, etc., as to other colonies.

Papers on Spanish designs, depredations, and piracy. 1723-1728.

Two memorials from lessees, showing what they have done in settlement, and requesting help. 1723, 1724.

"The Case of Capt. Woodes Rogers", picturing conditions in colony. July 15, 1726. Petition of Woodes Rogers on same. Aug. 13, 1727.

Answers to customary queries. 1727.

13. 1718-1727.

Letter from Rogers, on use of reformed pirates to catch those unreformed; sending to England for trial of three persons accused of piracy; work on forts; and other preparations against Spaniards. Dec. 24, 1718.

Id. Character of settlers, French, Palatines, and others, whom he brought to the colony; discovery of conspiracy of settlers to desert island, and flogging of three convicted; neglect of the Bahamas by war vessels at Jamaica; poverty and high prices. Jan. 24, 1718/9.

Id., on same matters, and the friendship of inhabitants for pirates. Jan. 30, 1718/9.

Id., on Capt. Dennis, who was sent by governor and council of Jamaica to Havana, to demand release of Englishmen held prisoners there and made to work on forts; and who, returning unsuccessful, reports fitting out of Spanish expedition. Feb. 10, 1718/9.

Proceedings, on indictment for felony, in court of oyer and terminer and general jail delivery at New Providence.

Minutes of council, Nov. 14, 1718-May 26, 1719.

Letters from Rogers on pirates; Spanish preparations; poverty and misery of colony; and lack of both protection and direction from home government. 1720-1723. (Distinctly more valuable than corresponding letters addressed to Board.)

Copies of correspondence between Phenney and governor of Cuba on piratical acts by Spaniards. Mar., 1722/3.

Plan of harbor at New Providence. 1723.

Sketch of church now building. 1723.

Accounts of trials in admiralty court, convictions, executions, and pardons of persons accused of piracy. 1722.

Letters from Phenney on fortifications; relations with Spaniards; and prosperity of the "remaining Palatines" in colony. Aug.-Dec., 1723. Encloses: plan of Hogg Island, accounts of ordnance stores, and abstract of treasurer's accounts.

Id., on calling of assembly. Many inhabitants are pardoned pirates; but, as few of these have taken up lands, they have not much influence in assembly. Suggests that property qualifications for assemblymen and voters be made high. Jan. 2, 1723/4.

Engineer's report on the Bahamas. 1724.

Form used in grant of land. 1724.

Papers on Augustine Blanco and other pirates. 1724.

Letter from Phenney on difficulties of government. "The other Councillors being so frequent at Sea among the Islands following their Employments, We have been sometimes Six Weeks and Two Months without a Number sufficient to make a Quorum." Sends list of persons suitable for appointment to council. "Several of them are very illiterate, which is unavoidable here." Jan. 28, 1725/6.

Letter from governor and council. "The Bahama Society" compel payment of tenths; while, in so far as known, the proprietors turned back tenths for service of colony. Also, inquire how land grants should be made. Jan. 26, 1725/6.

List of fees appointed to be taken in the colony. 1724.

Plan of Fort Nassau.

Naval office lists for New Providence, inwards and outwards, Nov. 13, 1721-Mar. 25, 1727.

Minutes of council, Nov. 14, 1721-Feb. 1, 1726/7.

Accounts of stores, and abstract of treasurer's accounts.

14. 1728-1746.

Minutes of council, Mar. 10, 1726/7-Dec. 16, 1727, Jan. 9, 1727/8-Jan. 2, 1728/9, Aug. 25, 1729-June 15, 1730, Aug. 19, 1730-Sept. 28, 1731.

Naval office lists, inwards and outwards, Sept. 30-Dec. 25, 1727, Mar. 26-Sept. 29, 1728, Dec. 26, 1728-Mar. 25, 1729.

Births and burials. 1727.

Treasury accounts. 1728.

Testimonial sent to Walpole and Newcastle by Hans Sloane, Montagu, Heathcote, Micajah Perry, Alex. Spotswood, E. Vernon, F. Fane, Edward Southwell, Benj. Bennet, Samuel Shute, and others, recommending Rogers for second appointment as governor. Feb. 29, 1727/8.

- Letter from Gov. Tinker, on importance, weakness, and neglect of islands. Apr. 4, 1748.
- Adm. Knowles to Tinker, describing taking of Port Louis. Mar. 13, 1747/8.
- Tinker to Board, on piratical seizures of Spanish vessels by British privateers. "I must say that hitherto the Spanish in these parts have maintained a perfect neutrality, and preserved a due observance of the treaty. . . . I cannot say as much for the procedure of the Dutch and Danes." June 20, 1757. Enclosures include letter from governor of Havana.

Pres. Gambier to Board, on trade of North American vessels with French in Monte Cristi under commissions as privateers. Sept. 30, 1758.

Letters from Shirley to Board, on same as foregoing. Mar. 29, Aug. 1, 1760. Enclosures include deposition of William Taggart of Newport, R. I., Apr. 21, 1760, and copy of Spanish let-passes.

C. O. 23:16. 1762-1767. (No papers for 1765 or first seven months of 1766.)

Letter from Shirley, on insecure state of colony, and inadvisability of reduction in garrison now being executed. May 29, 1764.

Representation from Board of Trade: "Stating His Majesty's Right to the Turks Islands as part of the Lucayos or Bahama Islands", and showing to what extent title has been asserted. Aug. 15, 1764.

Letters from Shirley, on French raid on Turks Islands, on the importance of those islands. July 19, 20, Sept. 3, 23, 1764.

Halifax to Shirley, pointing out that colonies must put forts in best condition and provide for regular up-keep before requesting ordnance; stating that fleet must always provide principal protection; and reporting that French have disavowed raid on Turks Islands and promised full reparation. Nov. 8, 1764.

Other papers on French and Spanish claims to the Bahamas and Turks Islands. Depositions, letters, etc.

Letter from Shirley, describing illegal trade with Hispaniola permitted by his predecessors. Feb. 25, 1765.

Papers on Nuestra Señora de la Soledad and acquittal of Bishop, who seized her, on his trial for piracy.

Memorials and letters, of various dates, by Andrew Symmer, appointed agent for Turks Islands, on their importance.

Treasury accounts, 1761-1764.

Letters relating to "phare", with an iron fleur-de-lis above and "choiseul" in iron letters below, set up at Turks Islands by French, and taken by British. Shirley accedes to D'Estaing's demand for its return after D'Estaing has renounced his claim.

Letter from Shirley, forwarding address of thanks from assembly for repeal of Stamp Act, and asking to have New Providence made a free port. Arguments advanced give much information on trade. Jan. 24, 1767.

Shelburne to Shirley, stating that, on account of loss which Shirley has incurred through break-up of independent company of which he was commander, he is now allowed additional salary of £300, "payable out of H. M. 4½ per cent Duties from the Leeward Islands". June 20, 1767.

Correspondence of Symmer with Shelburne, showing that idea of appointing agent for Turks Islands was not only to give protection, but to encourage French and Spanish trade there, and to procure intelligence of conditions in French and Spanish settlements. According to Symmer this is "the most favorable opportunity to ruin the Monti Christo trade". 1767.

17. 1768.

Papers on Turks Islands. Letters from Symmer, describing progress of settlements, attempts to improve salt pans, and emphasizing strategic importance of islands. Papers on salt-raking, 1767. Correspondence on refusal of Spaniards to deliver fugitive slaves from islands, 1767. Account of salt shipped from Turks Islands, May 11–Nov. 29, 1767. Representation on Turks Islands, May 3, 1768.

Memorial from Shirley, on advantages of making New Providence a free port. 1768 (?).

Letters from Symmer, on suppression of Monte Cristi trade by Spanish authorities, and on transfer of part of same to Turks Islands.

18. 1768–1769.

Letter from Shirley. Decline of colony; lack of staple, and consequently of trade; unfortunate nature of land system; and disastrous condition of local finances leading to removal of inhabitants. Dec. 9, 1768. Encloses answers to customary queries, statement of reasons for establishment of free port at New Providence, and plans of various forts and batteries constructed or projected.

Memorial of Richard Cumberland, agent for the Bahamas, begging for assistance in defense.

Letter from Symmer, describing trade with Turks Islands. North American vessels with cash go directly to Cape St. Nicholas, but those with produce stop at Turks Islands to trade with French there, French having placed heavy restrictions on trade by British vessels. English rice bought and shipped as French from Monte Cristi. Encloses account of goods landed at Turks Islands from North America since Nov. 7, 1768. Jan. 17, 1769.

Id. Has received orders to submit in all things to governor of the Bahamas and will obey. But “the settlers here are alarmed to the greatest degree for fear they must . . . be Subject to the Legislative Authority of Providence, in which case they are unanimously determined to leave the Islands”. Jan. 17, 1769.

Address from inhabitants of Turks Islands asking for independent legislature. Mar., 1769.

Letter from Shirley, on administration of Turks Islands, and sending copy of instructions given by Shirley and council of the Bahamas to Symmer. Apr. 28, 1769. Many other papers on Turks Islands.

Letter from Symmer, on Shirley’s decision to extend to Turks Islands all laws of the Bahamas, including those for raising money. This will ruin settlers, extinguish commerce, and depopulate the islands. May 10, 1769.

Letter from Shirley, on seizures of British vessels by Spaniards. June 12, 1769. Encloses correspondence with governor of Cuba.

Hillsborough to Shirley, on suspension of illegal trade in Turks Islands, and Shirley’s relations with Symmer. Aug. 4, 1769.

19. 1769–1770.

Papers on fortifications and reinforcements.

“Public revenue” of the Bahamas. 1768–1769.

Letter from Symmer, on trade at Turks Islands. Jan. 5, 1770. Other papers on relations between Shirley and Symmer, and showing amounts collected by Symmer as agent for the crown.

Hillsborough to Shirley, on decision of the crown that Turks Islands are to be part of government of the Bahamas. Fact that inhabitants of Turks Islands have no representation in assembly of the Bahamas makes no difference in legislature. “As the whole body of People belonging to the British Empire are represented by the Commons of Great Britain, so are the inhabitants of the Bahamas, in general, represented in the Assembly of that Government." Apr. 14, 1770.

Letter from seven settlers and salt-rakers of Turks Islands, "being a Committee Chose by the Inhabitants", expressing apprehension of result of administration of Turks Islands by governor and council of the Bahamas. They and their fathers resorted to Turks Islands for ninety years, mainly from Bermuda. Interference by Shirley and council with local regulations for raking salt will ruin pans. Mar. 10, 1770.

Letter from Symmer, complaining that governor and council of the Bahamas seize trading vessels without warning, and attempt to compel all vessels to enter and clear from Turks Islands through New Providence. Mar. 5, 1770. Encloses copy of regulations for working salt-ponds adopted in the Bahamas. Mar. 5, 1770.

Letter from Shirley, complaining of illegal commerce carried on in Turks Islands, under cover of salt trade, since Symmer's arrival, and of Symmer's refusal to admit Turks Islands as being dependency of the Bahamas. Encloses list of vessels entering Turks Islands from Boston, New York, and other places, Mar. 2–Sept. 25, 1769, with names of captains, ports from which arriving, detail of cargoes, etc.; and depositions, decrees of court of vice-admiralty, and other papers relating to latter. Feb. 13, 1770.

Numerous other papers on Turks Islands, salt trade, and disputes between Shirley and Symmer.

20. 1770–1771.

Letter from Symmer, reporting success from threats to French and Spanish governors in Santo Domingo, that privilege of loading salt at Turks Islands will be withdrawn if runaway slaves are not restored or paid for. Nov. 12, 1770. Correspondence enclosed.

Id., complaining that, largely on account of Shirley, "nothing but Confusion and Oppression prevails here at present", and asking for other employment or increase on his salary of £100 sterling per year. Complains also of insinuation in letter written him by Shirley, June 20, 1770: "while the Nights are dark and the Bar is smooth, you will not want your usual Night Cap". Nov. 12, 1770.

Hillsborough to Shirley, stating that papers on Symmer's contention have been laid before Board of Trade; and suggesting election of one or two representatives from Turks Islands to sit in assembly of the Bahamas. Feb. 11, 1771.

Letter from Shirley, complaining that Capt. Thomas Hodgson, in command of recently arrived reinforcement to garrison, refuses, in defiance of sign manual, to recognize Shirley's authority to command all garrison troops. Jan. 29, 1771. Correspondence enclosed.

Hillsborough to Shirley, confirming him in command of all garrison troops, except in matters of regimental detail. May 4, 1771.

Letter from Symmer, on his service in Turks Islands, and on legality of legislation for Turks Islands by assembly of the Bahamas. Encloses copy of act of the Bahamas intended to apply to Turks Islands. Feb. 19, 1771.

Representation by Board of Trade, on Turks Islands, censuring Symmer for insubordination and for permitting illegal commerce. May 31, 1771. Hillsborough to Symmer sending representation and reprimand. June 8, 1771.

Letter from Shirley, enclosing copy of proceedings in court of admiralty, sitting for trial of piracies, felonies, and robberies committed on high seas, in case of the Matty, bound from Jamaica to Liverpool, which was seized by her crew. May 30, 1771.

Id., appealing for assistance in payment of judges and other officials. May 30, 1771. Encloses papers showing their salaries and perquisites.

21. 1771-1772.

Shirley to Hillsborough. Persistent denial of his authority at Turks Islands; continuance of illegal commerce there; embezzlements by Symmer; and reluctance of council of the Bahamas to support him in the use of force to correct these abuses. Also, on unfortunate effects of uncertainty concerning land titles in the Bahamas. Oct. 10, 1771.

Hillsborough to Shirley, reaffirming authority of governor of the Bahamas over Turks Islands, and empowering legislature of the Bahamas to decide what proportion of total taxes shall be paid by inhabitants of Turks Islands. Apr. 1, 1772.

Letter from Shirley, defending himself against various charges of misgovernment. In particular in cases of John Green and William Taylor, members of assembly. Green's original complaint was against writ of ne exeat, issued to prevent him from leaving island without settling suit brought against him in chancery. Having taxed court of chancery with injustice, he was committed for contempt, Feb., 1767. Complained to assembly, but was ordered to make submission on pain of expulsion. Taylor being made a prisoner on an execution issued by admiralty court, delivered to council paper of complaints "so infamous and subversive of government" that he was condemned to six months' imprisonment; but, on intercession of assembly and his personal apology, was restored to marshal of court of admiralty. Many enclosures. May 9, 1772.

Id., on pirates. May 15, 1772. Encloses copy of proceedings in court of admiralty against pirates.

Letter from Symmer, on disorder in Turks Islands through disobedience of salt-rakers to regulations; and on refusal of Shirley to give assistance in suppressing disorders until full submission is made to government of the Bahamas. Oct. 3, 1772.

22. 1773-1774.

Letters from Symmer, complaining that Shirley refuses assistance and exacts high fees; and reporting increasing defiance of regulations on salt-raking by armed vessels from Bermuda. "Their crews had Paste Board Caps in the Grenadier Fashion with the word 'Experiment' printed on the Caps." 1772-1773.

Letter from Shirley, sending and endorsing petition from council and assembly. Apr. 17, 1773. Encloses petition: through grant of exclusive charter to private adventurers "who have long since abandoned the care of them", inhabitants are debarred from agriculture and land improvement. Revenues formerly secured from turtle fishery and woods, and from import duties levied. Exhaustion of woods and prohibition of import tax on British manufacturers have extinguished revenues. Courts closed because judges cannot be paid. Begs royal bounty for payment of salaries; and notes that Georgia became flourishing when charter was revoked and colony taken under royal protection.

Papers on case of John Green, still held in custody. Alleged that no court was held when ne exeat was granted. Other charges against Shirley.

Letter from Shirley. Nov. 6, 1773. Enclosed letters from Symmer, on fresh disorders and illegal trade at Turks Islands, and papers on complaints from Bermuda of fees taken at Turks Islands by deputy of collector at the Bahamas.

Dartmouth to Shirley, announcing his promotion to be governor of Dominica as reward for merit. Feb. 5, 1774.

Letters from Shirley, on Green's case, and on prosperity of the Bahamas at time of war and decline in time of peace. Nov. 26, 28, 1773. Encloses answers to customary queries.

State of Capt. Blackett's company of the 14th Regiment on arrival at New Providence. July 4, 1773.

Letter from Shirley, sending acts revised and repassed according to instructions sent him; one containing suspending clause. May 13, 1774.

23. 1775-1777.

Dartmouth to Gov. Browne, ordering that case of Green be disposed of, and Green treated with all leniency possible. Aug. 2, 1775. Joseph Green to Dartmouth, sending John Green's statement of his own case, dated Nov. 30, 1774, and including attack on Shirley: "the Governor Selling Soldiers and Selling Justice publicly, his Officers did as he set them the example . . . smuggling was continued as before with his approbation; of this I wrote to the Boston Commissioners". Council was in connivance with governor and for a private man to make accusations "was as much as his life was worth". Aug. 5, 1775.

Letter from Browne, reviewing conditions. "The Bahama Islands can never arrive to any state of real advantage to the Crown until the propriety of the Lands can be secured to the Planters." At present inhabitants wander from place to place, cutting timber, selling it abroad, burning land over, raising a couple of crops, and moving on. "The vegetation is so totally destroyed that it can scarcely recover itself in ten years." Suggests that negotiations for buying out proprietors be renewed. Settled conditions of land tenure would also discourage "the abominable practice of wrecking", and illicit trade. May 6, 1775. Encloses statements on produce, ship-building, fortifications, military stores, etc.

Letter from Gov. Browne, written from Pensacola. Describes conferences with Mr. Gauld, surveying engineer for the district, and engineer Hutchins, and others on situation of "the intended Town of Dartmouth on the Mississippi". June 12, 1775.

Letter from Pres. Brown. Has received letter from Gen. Gage, dated Boston, Aug. 29, 1775. Gage states that American vessels are fitting out for hostilities against West Indies; and has also heard of plan to seize government property at New Providence "as they have done in many places". Gage has consequently sent two vessels under convoy of man-of-war to remove all artillery and military stores from New Providence, these to be returned when island can be protected. Council of the Bahamas, on considering letter, declares that all forts, garrisons, and military stores are under sole direction of commander-in-chief of islands; that compliance with Gage's request would expose island and its commerce to attack; and that "the inhabitants of these Islands have upon all Occasions given every possible proof of their inviolable attachment and loyalty to H. M. Person and Government". Brown consequently notifies Gage, Sept. 29, 1775, that he cannot allow military stores to be removed. Nov. 7, 1775.

Important group of papers on raid on the Bahamas by expedition organized in Philadelphia under leadership of Esek Hopkins. Ships Alfred, Columbus, Cabot, Andrew Doria, Wasp, Fly, and Providence, commanded by Saltonstall, Whipple, Hopkins, Biddle, Hallock, Hacker, and Hazard, carrying 130 guns and 1170 men, participated. All military stores (except some powder sent to St. Augustine by governor on approach of raiders) seized, forts dismantled, and prisoners, including Gov. Browne and Irving, receiver general of North Carolina, carried off. Papers relate not only to raid, but to attitude of people of the Bahamas, to conditions and events observed by Browne in North America, to case of William Taylor (supra), and to operations of American privateers. Among more important are:

Letter from Chief Justice Atwood on failure of Gage to remove supplies before raid, events of the raid, and treachery of people of the Bahamas in notifying North Americans of weakness of colony, and inviting them to raid it. Mar. 22, 1776.

Letter from Gov. Browne, on board Alfred, on sending of powder to St. Augustine, and treachery of Bahamians. Mar. 17, 1776.

Letter from Pres. Brown, describing raid. May 2, 1776.

Memorial from William Taylor, describing raid and release of John Green and himself by Hopkins. Also, bringing serious charges against Gov. Shirley. Shirley caused acquittal of two Spanish prizes captured by Taylor's privateer, "who were Carriers to the French before the Spanish War broke out"; the Spaniards selling the cargoes of fine white sugars to governor and judges at very low prices before decision pronounced, on condition that decision should be favorable. Sugars were shipped away "without paying the King's Duties" and the Spanish captains taken into governor's service to bring him sugar, coffee, and wine from French. On return of Spaniards, governor libelled the vessels and pocketed all proceeds. May 20, 1776. Enclosures include statements of accounts, useful for current prices.

Memorial from John Green, complaining that though entirely innocent, he has been persecuted for fourteen years. Nov. 5, 1775.

Letter from Taylor, sending copy of commission and instructions issued by Continental Congress to John Adams of privateer Chance, fitted out at Philadelphia; danger incurred by any person informing on co-operation given to North Americans by Bahamians. June 16, 1776.

Letter from Gov. Browne, describing raid, and seizure of Irving as "mandamus councillor of South Carolina". Describes fight of American privateers with the Glasgow, and heavy casualties among American wounded: "I suppose on acct. of the unskillfulness of their Surgeons, and the want of Cloaths and other necessarys at their Hospital". Also, on his exchange "for that rebel who calls himself Lord Stirling"; and on assistance given to rebel privateer outside Providence harbor by James Gould, speaker of assembly, who "mutinied" on Mar. 3, and took eighty of militia with him. Rebels are also "countenanced and encouraged by some of the members of H. M. Council and officers of the Crown and Customs".

Letter from Brig.-Gen. McArthur, describing position at island of Abaco, “where the Colony of Refugees sent in September last from New York has settled”. Quarrels among them. Another small colony from New York (61 persons) settled on Cat Island. “The numbers at Carleton and Marsh’s harbour are 658 souls, . . . six hundred souls have been brought here from East Florida at the expense of Government, and about fifty at their own. Two settlements are formed near the south end of Abaco and a good number are going to Exuma.” Mar. 1, 1784.

Letter from Gov. Maxwell, no. 2, enclosing a memorial from Loyalists. They number “about five Hundred Whites and one Thousand Blacks. . . . There are two Classes of Loyalists: the first consists of Farmers, who have set themselves down on the out-Islands with large Families and ten, twenty or one Hundred Slaves. . . . The second Class is composed of the officers Merchants, and People under a certain Description, who hope to return to the American Continent, when they have made their peace there. Nothing can satisfy these People. . . . Flour being very scarce, I have permitted the Americans to supply us . . . some of them have attempted to tear down the American Colours". The memorial follows.

C. O. 24:1-5, BOARD OF TRADE: ENTRY-BOOKS. 1717-1784.

C. O. 326:33. INDEX TO BOARD OF TRADE CORRESPONDENCE. 1717-1759.

1. 1717-1742.

Draft of commission for Woodes Rogers. Nov. 21, 1717.

Draft of instructions for Woodes Rogers. Brief, but accompanied by copy of instructions given to governor of Jamaica, for his general guidance. Marginal note: "June 3, 1731. Capt. Phenny said at the Board that the Copy of these Jamaica Instns. mentioned in this Article, was of those given to Sr. Nic. Lawes." Rogers is not to call an assembly, but report on proper number to constitute one; and is not to make laws until assembly has been called. Nov. 21, 1717.

Letter to Addison, sending attorney general's opinion concerning surrender of proprietors. Dec. 11, 1717.

Letter to Craggs, endorsing petition of Gohier, Buck, and other undertakers on sending of soldiers to the Bahamas. Jan. 2, 1718/9.

Letter to Rogers, answering his request for confirmation of appointments to council. "I believe you have not considered what the expence will be, it will come to at least £9 15 s. a head which will be in the whole about £117, And, as there is no Person here that I know of authorized and enabled to disperse that Money it will be to no Purpose to recommend them to His Majesty, since the Warrants will lie in the offices for want of Fees, which ought to be paid indeed proportionably by each Person put into the Council as in other Plantations." Jan. 15, 1718/9.

Letter to Craggs, on necessity of sending troops, military stores, and warship to the Bahamas without loss of time. Feb. 4, 1718/9.

Id., on request for reimbursement by copartners, who own ship Delicia which is used as guard-ship by governor pending construction of forts. Also recommending sending of troops and stores, and the extension of settlements in Florida. Dec. 4, 1719.

Representation on Lord Craven's petition. July 25, 1720.

Id., on state of the Bahamas and on what has been done by lessees in sending out artificers and other settlers (including some Spanish prisoners of war), in driving off pirates, in furnishing guard-ships, in fitting out sloops and constructing forts, and in repulsing Spaniards. Sept. 9, 1720.

Draft of commission for George Phenny. Introduction alone given, remainder, according to subjoined note, being identical with that of Rogers. June 20, 1721.

Letter to Carteret, with representation on memorial of copartners praying for charter of incorporation. Memorial shows expense and trouble involved by lack of proper incorporation, and need for royal bounty for support of troops and payment of governor's salary. Board, in representation, endorses memorial, but lays down instructions for regulation of capital and dividends of corporation; designed mainly to prevent "stockjobbing and those other inconveniencies" which have lately arisen from misapplication of charters. Specifies also amount of shipping to be employed, and facilities to be extended for commerce. Advises that "all powers of government" be retained by the crown. June 30, 1721.

Letter to Phenney, requiring that plans for an assembly be sent. June 26, 1723.

Representation, on calling of assembly. Nov. 10, 1726. Other papers. Id., censuring Phenney, and reporting on state of the Bahamas. Oct. 1, 1728.

Draft of commission for Woodes Rogers. Nov. 29, 1728.

Draft of instructions for Woodes Rogers, showing alterations comprised in temporary provisions for election of assembly. May 13, 1729.

Report to committee of Council, on value of lands in the Bahamas, and amount which the crown should pay for them. Sept. 8, 1730.

Letter to Rogers, on powers and procedure of legislature. "It would be proper that the Proceedings of the Assembly also should resemble those of the Parliament of Great Britain so far as the Circumstances of the Colony and your Instructions will permit. . . . We may observe to you that the Constitution of England owes its preservation very much to the maintaining of an equal Ballance between the branches of the legislature." June 29, 1731.

Representation to lords of committee on purchase of islands. Mar. 9, 1731/2. Other papers on purchase.

Introduction of draft of commission for Fitzwilliam; remainder omitted as identical with that of Rogers. Jan. 10, 1732/3.

Draft of instructions for Fitzwilliam. Mar. 21, 1732/3.

Representation recommending purchase of islands. Mar. 7, 1732/3.

Letter to Fitzwilliam, stating that his Majesty, in purchasing, will purchase all rights of proprietors including tenths, which governor should therefore collect. Aug. 8, 1735.

Representation on complaints of Chaloner Jackson against Fitzwilliam. Mar. 2, 1737/8.

Draft of Gov. Tinker's commission. Apr. 2, 1740.

Draft of Gov. Tinker's instructions. July 24, 1740.

2. 1743-1760.

Letter to Tinker, on act of 1745 for settling and extending current rates of foreign gold. Points out that act should have had suspending clause, and clause distinctly providing that provision should not restrain his Majesty from settling rates by proclamation or instructions to governor. July 14, 1749.

Id., on sending of ordnance stores; showing recent policy in this matter, amount sent, etc. June 7, 1753. Other papers on military stores and fortifications.

Draft of commission for Shirley. Nov. 7, 1758.

Draft of Shirley's instructions, showing no important alterations. Feb. 20, 1759.

3. 1761-1774.

Letter to Admiralty, on Shirley's removal of Samuel Gambier as judge in admiralty court. Mar. 10, 1761.

Draft of Shirley's commission. May 29, 1761.

Draft of Shirley's instructions (including trade instructions). June 23, 1761.

It has not been thought needful to list here the journals of the assembly. All that exist from the beginning in 1729 to 1794, whether found in the Colonial Office Papers or in the island archives in Nassau, have been put into print, in one consecutive series, by the care of the speaker, Mr. Harcourt Malcolm. They are entitled: Votes of the Honourable House of Assembly of the Bahama Islands, and run as follows: I. 1729-1753 (Nassau, 1910); II. 1760-1765 (1910); III. 1766-1770 (1911); IV. 1770-1776 (1911); V. 1779-1786 (1912); VI. 1787-1790 (1913); VII. 1791-1794 (1913). With the brief session of Sept. 19-29, 1794, contemporary printing began. It is understood that the library of the assembly in Nassau contains a set of these printed journals from 1794 till long past the date (1815) with which this Guide closes.⁴ The British Museum has the following:

Votes, etc., Sept. 19, 1794-Mar. 19, 1796 (Nassau, 1796).
 Apr. 30-Dec. 18, 1800 (ibid., 1800-1801).
 Oct. 6-Dec. 10, 1801 (ibid., 1801).
 Nov. 13, 1804-Jan. 14, 1805 (ibid., 1805).
 Feb. 26-Apr. 5, 1805 (ibid., 1805).

And a few, as has been shown on previous pages (pp. 36, 39, ante), are in C. O. 23:36, 39, and 54.

Letter from Mr. Lightfoot of Barbados, complaining of governor's choice of persons for grand and petty juries, and sending lists of persons with number of negroes and amount of other property owned by each. Dec. 30, 1728.

Papers relating to Tobago and St. Lucia.

State of public debts, Jan. 19, 1728/9; statements of various public accounts, 1726-1729.

Opinions of Worsley and Fane on act for reducing the rate of interest from 10 to 8 per cent. Nov. 8, 1728; July 17, 1729.

21. 1729-1731.

Numerous letters from Worsley, and other papers, concerning refusal of inhabitants of most parishes, from 1727 on, to pay poll tax on negroes and mills by which governor's additional salary was provided. It is contended by those refusing to pay, and denied by law-officers of colony and crown, Board and Privy Council, that act instituting tax expired with Worsley's first commission on death of George I. Other questions arise, such as liability incurred by vestrymen and assemblymen in not presenting returns. Attempts of the crown to secure payment of arrears of additional salary claimed by Worsley extend over a number of years. Leader of party refusing payment is Mr. Haggett of council, who, so governor is informed, "Laid the Foundation of the disturbances that happened in New England whilst Col. Shute was there". Enclosures in Worsley's letter of Apr. 24, 1730, include detailed accounts of amounts raised by tax in 1729, lists of all slave-owners in each parish, and lists of all who paid, with numbers of slaves, windmills, and cattle-mills owned by each.

Letters and addresses on failure of Duke of Montagu's settlement at St. Lucia, French activity at St. Lucia and St. Vincent, conferences at Paris concerning these islands and Dominica, agreement for evacuation of all three islands, and possible retention of Tobago and St. Croix.

Minutes of court of chancery, Jan. 1728/9-July, 1729.

Various reports on act for reducing rate of interest in Barbados.

Order in Council referring petition of Dunbar, surveyor general for Barbados, the Leeward Islands, and Bermuda, that he be made a member of council in each of said governments. May 22, 1733. Order in Council approving favorable report of Board on Dunbar's petition, and commanding that an additional instruction be sent to each of the three governors to admit Dunbar as "councillor extraordinary" during residence. July 3, 1733. Order in Council referring petition from Dunbar that he be made a "councillor in ordinary", since any inferiority of position would hinder him in "preventing the passing of any acts or orders any ways tending to the Prejudice of His Majesty's Revenues". Nov. 23, 1733.

Memorial of governor, council, and assembly praying that a British statute, "for the More Easy Recovery of Debts in His Majesty's Plantations and Colonys in America", be not applied to Barbados; reviewing legislation passed there for recovery of debts; and describing conditions with reference to trade and currency. 1733.

Letters from Viscount Howe, governor of Barbados, on evacuation of St. Lucia, St. Vincent, and Dominica, publication of his commission in those islands and in Tobago, and seizure of British sloop at Tobago by Spaniards. July 1, 1733.

Treasurer's accounts and lists of stores. 1730-1732.

Extensive and important papers on attempts to secure payment of arrears of Gov. Worsley's additional salary.

24. 1734-1737.

Letters from Howe and Fane on act to regulate fees collected by patent officers. Feb. 4, 1733/4. Apr. 6, 1734. Orders in Council for the disallowance of act and forwarding by governor of table of fees as collected in Queen Anne's time. Feb. 12, 1734/5; Apr. 3, 1735.

Papers on requests of island for ordnance stores, and measures taken locally to provide for defence, including order in Council, Apr. 3, 1735, directing sending of stores and providing what proportions of cost shall be borne by home and colonial governments.

Order in Council for appointment of Surveyor General Dunbar as a councillor in ordinary. July 11, 1734.

Letter from Howe, on declining trade, prosperity, and population of the island, flight of debtors to South Carolina, and seizure of vessels belonging to Barbados and Virginia by Spaniards; suggesting that Spanish vessels be admitted to trade; and that planters be allowed to send "at least their improved sugars" directly to foreign markets. Nov. 7, 1734.

Id., pointing out that, while commissions of earlier governors declared that a law should not be in force for more than two years unless confirmed, there is still in force a law of 1676 concerning which no evidence of confirmation is to be found. Nov. 23, 1734. Opinion of Attorney General Blenman of Barbados on this and on several questions relating to early constitutional history of the island. Nov. 20, 1734.

Letters, memorials, and depositions of various persons on British and French claims and activities with respect to St. Lucia, St. Vincent, Dominica, and St. Croix; also on attacks on British vessels by Spaniards.

Letter from Dottin, president of council, describing declining prosperity of Barbados and depreciation of its currency; and complaining that the island is asked to spend more on defense than it can afford, because the large proceeds of the $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. tax, which should provide for defense, go largely into pockets of collectors. Oct. 21, 1735.

Id., concerning judicial appeals to Privy Council. June 14, 1736.

Papers on the land system.

Further papers on arrears of Worsley's salary.

Accounts of ordnance stores and of population, distinguishing age, sex, and color.

25. 1737-1742.

Two memorials from John Ashley, "one of the Deputys of the Rt. Honble. Horatio Walpole Esqr. as Surveyor and Auditor General of All His Majesty's Revenues arising in America, late member of His Majesty's Council of the Island of Barbadoes", on decay of sugar trade. The remedies proposed are permission for direct exportation of sugar to foreign markets, measures for relief of debtors and preservation of their estates, and lowering the rate of interest. Among the accompanying papers are: "Settlement and Insolvency Bill as proposed for Barbadoes and An Explanation of the Fall of the said Island", 1737; "The Fall of Barbados since the French Edict of 1726 permitting a Direct Exportation of their Clay'd Sugar, and other Produce from their Sugar Plantations to Several Parts of Europe"; a table showing fall from 1723 to 1734 in yield of the $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. and quantities of produce on which it was levied; Some Observations on a Direct Exportation of Sugar from the British Islands, printed at London, and containing interesting statements and tables; and "The Miserable Case of the British Sugar Plantations", a pamphlet in manuscript signed "Britannicus", also with elaborate tables. Read, July 6, 20, 1737.

Four letters from Dottin, president of council, on activity of French at St. Lucia, seizure of British vessel by French, illicit trade carried on by British war vessels, manner in which expenses of court of grand sessions should be defrayed, and reluctance of assembly to insert suspendnig clauses. "The Assembly seldom care to make an act wherein this clause is incerted because it has generally happen'd to lye a long while without being Confirm'd or Disallow'd, An Instance of which is this Clause about four years Since." Dec. 12, 1736; May 14, Aug. 20, 1737; Jan. 24, 1737/8.

Id., in answer to Board's circular letter issued pursuant to addresses from both Houses of Parliament on rates of gold and silver coins and issue of paper currency in America. Nov. 9, 1739.

"Letter from Sir Thos. Robinson dated the 27 Feb'ry, 1745/6. In Answer to 15 Articles of Complaint against him by some Gentlemen of the Assembly." This letter with accompanying papers occupies the entire volume. Robinson seeks to defend himself against charges of having prevented bills passed by assembly from going to Council, of robbing council of its functions as a branch of the legislature, of misapplying public funds, of levying taxes by using slaves in construction of public works without compensation to their owners, of disobedience to instructions in choice of judges and of members of council, of unreasonable adjournments of assembly, of neglect of duties as chancellor, etc. Papers accompanying Robinson's refutation include: lists of meetings of council, assembly, and court of chancery during his administration, showing where each meeting was held and what persons were present; minutes of council, Mar. 14, 1744/5-Feb. 18, 1745/6; and journals of assembly, Mar. 14, 1744/5-Dec. 24, 1745.

29. 1748-1751.

A large number of important papers, occupying the greater part of the volume, on St. Lucia, Dominica, St. Vincent, and Tobago. British and French claims to, and settlements on the islands; efforts made to strengthen these claims in 1748; agreements for evacuation negotiated by Pulteney and Bladen in 1723 or 1724, by Lord Waldegrave at a later and unspecified date, by governors of Barbados and Martinique (with respect to Tobago only) in 1749, and by British and French governments in 1749; and measures taken to execute the agreements of 1749. Letters, memorials, and representations from Duke of Newcastle, Duke of Bedford, governor, agent, committee of correspondence and council of Barbados, and other persons and bodies. A number of proclamations, orders, and other papers on the same subjects are found as enclosures.

Statistics of population for 1748; returns of christenings and burials, 1747-1751; of importation of slaves, 1747-1751; of payments of gunpowder tax, 1747-1751; and storekeeper's return, 1750.

56. 1775–1777.

Letter from Hay, reporting that “no bad effect has been felt in the island hitherto from the disturbance in the Northern Colonies”, and that “fully as many vessels with provisions and stores have arrived from thence as usual”. Also on work of Inspector General Mills in correcting negligence of merchants in not producing certificates to cancel their bonds, and otherwise in providing for enforcement of acts of trade. Apr. 6, 1775. Other papers on Mills’s operations.

Id., on provisioning of island. Aug. 29, 1775.

Returns of collections under the “mole-head” act, of slaves imported, Aug. 11, 1774–Aug. 11, 1775, and of burials and christenings.

Letter from Hay, on tranquillity and loyalty of island. “The principal article the Americans want is powder, and I am sensible of the artifices they make use of to get it from any quarter; but in this island there is none. I am informed they carry off a great deal from the Continent in our neighborhood, and in the rivers of Escuebo and Demarara where the Dutch have their settlements, as also from the Dutch and French islands.” Apprehended scarcity of provisions and lumber; purchase in West Indies of supplies for troops in North America. Feb. 13, 1776.

Id. Passage of address to the crown on scarcity of provisions, and dismissal of Solicitor General Duke for proposing resolution and other objectionable acts. “I could almost wish that no Barristers were allowed to sit in the Assembly, for if they are not well disposed, their studies give them a superiority over the planters.” Feb. 15, 1776.

Id. Ill feeling and complaints over scarcity of food in island. “All this bustle arises from the pique of the assembly against myself and the Council for giving Capt. Paine leave to buy provisions for Gen. Howe in Boston. . . . The assembly themselves were not consulted, who had no right to be consulted.” Apr. 13, 1776. Encloses letter from Henry Duke protesting against his suspension from office of solicitor general on ground that patent officers may not be suspended “without charge, accusation, or blame”, that council did not concur in suspension, and that his behavior in assembly has no connection with his private profession. Feb. 17, 1776. Also second memorial from Duke demanding sight of those parts of governor’s instructions on which Duke’s suspension was based, and threatening law-suits against judges who acquiesced in suspension should this prove to be without sufficient authority. Other papers on this case. Encloses also letter from Hay to Vice-Adm. Young, asking that vessels from French and Dutch islands be permitted to bring provisions to Barbados; and that he convey to island such captured provisions as may not be needed for his Majesty’s armed forces. Mar. 24, 1776. Young’s refusal, Apr. 2, 1776.

Id., on dispute with naval officer concerning latter’s duties. May 9, 1776.

Id. Sharp dispute with assembly over right of assembly to address the crown independently of governor and council, and on alleged misrepresentation by governor to the crown of the true facts as to scarcity of provisions in island. July 25, 1776. Enclosures.

Memorial of Walker, agent for Barbados, presenting address from assembly to the crown on scarcity of provisions, and serious consequences ensuing to island. Other papers, showing Hay's insistence that island is sufficiently supplied, and resentment of population at his "malign interposition".

BERMUDA.

C. O. 37:9-24. BOARD OF TRADE: ORIGINAL CORRESPONDENCE. 1709-1792.

9. 1709-1716.

Letter from Lieut.-Gov. Pullein, complaining that Spaniards are seizing and condemning all vessels which carry Spanish money, cacao, salt, or hides. Jan. 9, 1714/5. Depositions on seizure of three Bermuda vessels, and other papers.

Papers, including "certificate" from Lieut.-Gov. Spotswood and extracts from minutes of council of Virginia, on the Count de Paix, a richly laden vessel which sailed from Santo Domingo for Havre, and after, as is alleged, being purposely run aground, was plundered and broken up by sloops from Bermuda.

10. 1716-1723.

Letter from Lieut.-Gov. Pullein, on disputes with assembly, insufficiency of revenue, decline of trade and discontent of inhabitants in Bermuda; and on piracy and illegal trade at the Bahamas. Apr. 22, 1714.

Several letters from Lieut.-Govs. Bennett and Hope, on pirates by whom "North and South America are infested"; especially around Cape Cod, the Spanish Main, Bahamas, and Turks Islands. 1717-1723. Numerous depositions, letters, accounts of trials in admiralty court, and other enclosures.

Letter from Lieut.-Gov. Bennett, on declaration of war and fitting out of privateers. June 8, 1719.

Account of condition of fortifications. 1719.

Copy of journal of William Martindale, commander of sloop at Providence, showing activities of British privateers, and especially of two from R. I. which attempted to burn some houses at Harbor Island (Bahamas).

Copies of "the Bermuda Newspaper", consisting of written sheets on pirates and other matters.

Copies of proceedings of admiralty court on: (a) sloop Philippo Quinto of Curaçao, seized by Hopewell privateer (commissioned at Bermuda, 1719) for trade with Spaniards; (b) sloop Friendship, late of N. Y. and recaptured from Spaniards; (c) goods taken from sloop Packett Boat of Curaçao, which was seized on charges of carrying Spanish goods and contraband and of conveying intelligence to Spaniards, and was abandoned on account of unseaworthy condition; (d) on goods taken from sloop Catherine of Curaçao, seized for trade with Spaniards and carriage of contraband; (e) on sloop Louisa of Martinique, built in Bermuda and seized for trading without papers; and on ship L'Amitié of Dunkirk, seized for supplying arms to Spaniards. 1719.

Classified account of population. 1721.

"Copy of a Commission from the Receiver General and Solicitor and Comptroller of the Rights and Perquisites of Admiralty to Robt. Dinwiddie Esqr. constituting him their Agent at Bermuda." 1721.

Proceedings in trial for murder in court of assize, oyer and terminer, and general gaol delivery. 1722.

Description of Bermuda, forwarded in answer to queries of Board. 1722.

Letter from Hope, on quarrel with collectors as to which should receive the king's thirds. Apr. 12, 1723.

Accounts of: powder money, 1716-1723; "the Receiver of the 5 p. Cent upon all dry Goods", 1721-1723; prizes, the crown's thirds of seizures, and duties received on prizes condemned, 1707-1721; "the King's Slaves", and rent from crown lands, 1716-1722; receipts from liquor tax, 1716-1723; stores in Bermuda, 1722.

"Copy of Mr. Strahan's Report upon the Power of collecting Admiralty Dues in Bermuda."

"Copy of Col. Hope, Governor of Bermuda's Case and Mr. West's Report upon his Power to collect Admiralty Dues." 1723.

Petition of merchants and traders to Bermuda against act passed there, Nov., 1721, to lay a duty of five per cent on all merchandise.

11. 1723-1727.

Letter from Lieut.-Gov. Hope. Illicit trade with foreign colonies, and good understanding which exists between Bermudians and pirates. "The Bermudas Sloops are such Sailors that if they are anything Large the Pyrates never part with them"; but the Bermudians are seldom losers by encounters with pirates. The island revenue misapplied. "For these Twenty Years past . . . the Bulk of this Revenue has been imploy'd in Defending of a Law Suit which one Jones formerly Provost Marshal here has against the late Governor." Strategic importance of the islands. Jan. 14, 1723/4.

Storekeeper's account of powder received and expended. 1707-1723.

Answers to Board's queries on state of the island. 1723.

Hope to Popple, complaining that in two years he has received only two letters from the Board. Jan. 14, 1723/4.

Proceedings in admiralty court in trial of sloop George and Elizabeth of S. C., "condemned for illegal Trade in importing Commodities of the Growth of Foreign Plantations from other places than where they were produced and having no proper Certificates, Cocquets or Clearings from the place where Loaded on Board and having been located in an uninhabited island called St. Lucia." 1723.

"Answer to the Parliamentary Enquiry relating to all sorts of Taxes or Impositions laid in Bermuda on Trade, Shipping or otherwise." 1735.

Account of powder-duty, 1736; and treasurer's accounts, 1737.

Letter from Alured Popple, "nominated Gov. of Bermuda", giving, by permission of Board, his observations on Pitt's instructions. Suggests dropping of useless export tax on tobacco; argues that whale-fishery should remain unrestricted, and discusses slave trade. "The Inhabitants of Bermuda are known to purchase no Negroes either from the African Company or Others; Many slaves are exported from,—but none imported to Bermuda." Oct. 24, 1737.

Memorial of Gov. Alured Popple, complaining that no ordnance stores have been sent since 1701. 1737. Order in Council for sending of stores. Apr. 6, 1738.

Deputy provost marshal's account of public rents received and disbursed, 1732-1735. Account of powder-duty received and disbursed, 1736-1737.

Letter from Auchinleck, president of council, on reports of Spanish preparations against Georgia. May 8, 1738.

Letter from Gov. Popple, on colonial acts placing duties on whales and on all tonnage not English. Former act, soon to expire, placed duty on English as well as on other British tonnage; but, "as no English Vessel has been here since, excepting the Ship in which I came and which was excused paying that Duty", and as no ship is expected before time of expiration of act, begs that act be not disallowed. Argues that Bermuda should be under same surveyor general as Jamaica, Carolina, and the Bahamas. Dinwiddie (who owes his appointment to Walpole) has property in Bermuda, is member of council and should be surveyor general. "Mr. Dunbar since his first Appointment has never been here, to discharge this part of his Duty, and by being one of the Council in ordinary constantly occasions a Vacancy at that Board." Letter also relates to currency situation. Aug. 21, 1738. Enclosed is Dinwiddie to Popple, on the currency situation and scheme for introducing British coin. Aug. 17, 1738.

Id. Strategic importance of colony and need of ordnance. Sept. 27, 1738. Enclosures.

Id., on courts of colony, illicit trade between R. I. and Martinique, restrictions placed by the Bahamas on export of their produce, and relations of Bermuda to Turks Islands. Recent act of the Bahamas forbids, under heavy penalties, exportation of salt, planks, and other articles by persons not of that colony without license from governor; and governor is not restricted as to fees. Bermudians need cedar plank from the Bahamas in building sloops, while "the Ground work of our Trade to America is almost entirely dependent upon our Rakeing Salt at the Turk's Islands. . . . With this Salt they purchase a Cargoe of Provisions from some of the Northern Collonies and these provisions they exchange at some of the Sugar Colonies for European Commodities, Rum, Sugar or what they want, and very frequently Sell their Sloops also and return home to Build Another, for the Same Circle of Trade." Question whether Turks Islands belong to the Bahamas, "which comprehend all that Range of Islands which lye North East of Cuba and Hispaniola". Since Bermuda sloops go armed against Spaniards fears trouble from seizures for enforcement of Bahamas' act. May 10, 1739.

Id., showing that commissions to privateers often interpreted as giving permission to plunder and burn Spanish settlements, and complaining of Virgin Queen of R. I., which plundered and burned Porto Plata in Hispaniola and killed some inhabitants. Describes sending out of island sloops with soldiers from garrison against suspicious craft. "I was obliged to borrow Arms for them, those they have not being fit to fire." Disputes between council and assembly over amendment of bills, and claim of assembly to choice of new speaker at every fourth meeting. Dec. 20, 1739.

Information received from Thomas Newton of crew of Virgin Queen. Papers on strategic importance of colony and need for troops, arms, and forts.

Papers on currency situation, with rates at which various coins received. Treasurer's accounts and accounts of powder-money, 1737-1739.

Letter from Popple, on instruction from Lords of Admiralty concerning crown's tenth of captures made by privateers. Feb. 28, 1739/40.

14. 1740-1744.

Letter from Popple on appearance of Commodore Floyd's squadron, on need for naval protection, arms and troops, and on land tenure. Nov. 10, 1740. Other papers on weakness of island, sending of ordnance stores, etc.

Id. The whale-fishery; proceedings taken in case of Dutch sloop seized for trade with Spaniards in contraband; seizures for carriage of contraband executed pursuant to Anglo-Dutch treaty of 1668; illicit trade by Bermudians with St. Eustatius and Curaçao; impossibility of enforcement of Sail Cloth Act. Apr. 18, 1741.

List of vessels registered in Bermuda, 1738-1740.

Treasurer's accounts, 1739-1740.

Letter from Popple: Capt. Davidson, commanding privateer under commission from R. I., has taken a prize back to R. I. in fear of his men being impressed at Jamaica. May 26, 1741. Other papers on Davidson's capture.

Id. Disputes with assembly over custody of records, and assembly's claim to choose its clerk. Dec. 21, 1741.

Gov. Popple to his brother, William Popple. Assembly's claim to choose clerk, nature and personnel of assembly, use of suspending clause, and illegal trade. Bermuda sloops carry to Dutch islands provisions resold to Spaniards. Many sloops sold at St. Eustatius, and goods taken in part payment. Attempts of northern colonies to sell provisions to Dutch by getting bonds discharged in Bermuda. Had demanded bonds on export of provisions before receiving orders from Board to do this, but cannot force execution of fresh bonds in Bermuda. Attempts of Dutch at St. Eustatius to secure British naturalization. "There is hardly any conveniency but may be bought from the Dutch at about half Prices." Asks William Popple to secure confirmation of certain acts. Dec. 21, 1741.

Treasurer's accounts, 1740-1742, and account of powder-money, 1740-1741.

Proceedings of committee of assembly on public accounts. Oct. 5, 6, 1742.

Letters from Popple, on currency situation and circulation of bad Spanish coin, and disputes with council and assembly over finances, trade, and fees of patentees. Oct., 1742-Dec., 1743.

15. 1744-1748.

Ten reports from Fane on 48 acts passed 1727-1743.

Papers on land grants and projected wine production.

Letters from Francis Jones, president of council, and from Gov. William Popple, showing how letters were dispatched via New England and Cape Breton, via Carolina or by other routes.

Letter from Gov. William Popple, on governor's additional salary, and seizures of flags of truce. "The French Privateers have orders never to meddle with any English Flags of Truce carrying Prisoners but our Privateers Seize the French . . . and having prov'd the property to be French, The Judges here condemn them . . . being of Opinion that the Flag only protects the Bottom." This will put an end to exchange since governors will not send prisoners for fear they will not be reimbursed, and no private person will do so "Unless he be Allowed to take Effects with him that may Indemnify him". Oct. 10, 1747.

Papers on seizure by privateer of cargo of French flag of truce Mary Ann, transporting Dutch prisoners to Curaçao and carrying, by license from French Leeward Islands, cargo of brown sugar for sale at Curaçao. 1747.

Letters from Popple, and other papers, on whale fishery and governor's additional salary. 1747-1748. Order in Council for additional instruction to allow governor to receive profits of licenses for whale-fishing unless assembly grants additional salary. June 30, 1748.

Copy of letter from Pitt to Bedford, on flags of truce, trade with French in time of war, and use of privateers to prevent such trade. May 26, 1748.

Treasurer's accounts, 1739-1747, and account of powder-money, 1742-1745.

Letters from Popple, on large number of "lawless and profligate" men turned loose in island by cessation of hostilities; and on trial, in admiralty court, of Dutch ships seized by privateers. "The Tryal took up many Days for I am Ashamed to Say the most Scandalous means have been Employed to render her liable to Condemnation, notwithstanding which . . . I Cleared the Vessell and Cargoe and only Condemned the Contraband Goods." His position difficult and even dangerous on account of his attitude toward Dutch vessels. Aug. 15, 30, 1748.

Letter from Popple, on complaints against him regarding use of flags of truce. Oct. 10, 1748. Enclosed are: copies of letter from Commissioners of Customs to collector at Bermuda; report of solicitor of customs on seizure of French flag of truce; attested copy of accustomed form of permit to flags of truce; attested account of permits recently granted, and other papers.

Letters from Popple, on governor's additional salary. Sept. 1, Oct. 10, 1748.

Deposition of Popple, on disturbances in admiralty court over trial of Dutch ship. 1748/9.

Letter from Popple, on council's denial that he can appoint judges, justices, etc., without its advice and consent. Oct. 23, 1748. Other papers.

Id., on assembly's demand that joint committee of two houses should tax bills. Feb. 5, Mar. 3, 1748/9. Many very long and valuable letters from Popple, discussing trade of colony in all branches. Charges much illicit trade, especially in exchange of provisions for European goods at Curaçao. Officers of customs slack, and frauds in registration, entrance, and clearance common. Governor meets great opposition and other difficulties in attempting to enforce acts of trade. General evasion of Sail Cloth Act of 19 Geo. II. Unscrupulous conduct toward wrecks. 1748, 1749. Numerous and interesting enclosures, including correspondence of governor with other branches of legislature, instructions to naval officer, etc.

Id., on salt-raking and turtle-fishery. Mar. 3, 1748/9.

Id., on governor's additional salary, and enclosing rent-roll of crown lands. Mar. 25, 1749.

Id., on crown lands, discussing history of same and showing disposition and management of land and slaves taken over from proprietary company. Covers methods of collection, accounts, and evictions. Also, on governor's allowances for slaves, firewood, and transportation between islands. July 8, 1749.

Petition of governor, council, and assembly for protection and for redress for French outrage at Turks Islands.

Papers on Turks Islands. Claim of Bermuda to same. Details of French attack. Full description of method employed in collection of salt. Account of seizure, by H. M. S. Scarborough and vessels under her convoy, of salt collected by Capt. Kenneckett of R. I. and 29 other captains of salt vessels. Alleged that vessels under convoy had paid £300, or 2/10 per ton for convoy, and that seizure of salt was made because vessels there before convoy refused payment. List of twenty Bermuda vessels from which salt was taken, and other papers showing importance of salt in Bermuda trade. Letter of Hillsborough to Lords of Admiralty directing inquiry on action of Scarborough and issue of instructions to his Majesty's vessels in West Indies not to interfere in salt trade.

33. 1768-1769.

Letter from Bruere, on dispute with assembly over his insertion of words "present in these islands" in writs for election of assemblymen. Dec. 20, 1768.

Id., on clandestine introduction of foreign rum; and on plundering, by negroes and whites on coast, of vessels in distress. Dec. 28, 1768.

Papers on action of captain of Scarborough. Letters from Hillsborough, Lords of Admiralty, Vice-Adm. Pye, and others. Alleged that people of Bermuda attempt to monopolize salt at Turks Islands, to great injury of New England fishery and of his Majesty's ships in N. Am. which count on getting salt at Turks Islands for salting provisions; also, that Bermudians ruin ponds by raking prematurely, and that Scarborough was attempting fair division. Vessels from N. Am. meet at Barbados to secure convoy. Orders for non-interference by his Majesty's vessels repeated.

Hillsborough to Bruere, reprimanding him for insertion of words "present in these islands" in writs of election. May 13, 1769.

Letter from Bruere, suggesting that despatches would arrive much sooner, especially in winter, if sent by S. C., since "there is so seldom an opportunity to this place from New York". July 14, 1769.

Papers on whale-fishery. Letter from Bruere, Apr. 7, 1770. Petition of inhabitants asking for remission of tax payable to governor on each whale taken. Copy of representation of Board of Trade, reviewing history of whale-fishery: transfer of rights from Bermuda Company to the crown, opening of trade in 1730 on condition of allowance by assembly to governor, imposition of tax on each whale by legislature to raise governor's allowance, and later failure of assembly to grant allowance. - Id.* Difficulties of communication, as shown by fact that last letters, sent via S. C., were opened by committee of inspection there. Aug. 2, 1775.
- Id.* His fear regarding stores, "as there may be but few friends to Government here". Embargo on provisions, though colony oversupplied. Assembly summoned twice but has not met. "The[y] have chosen Delegates here who have petitioned the Congress at Philadelphia to supply them with Indian Corn. And they wait for return of their answer before I suppose they will meet." Can spare provisions to Gage and Howe "but I cannot confide in any Person here at present, they say they may have their Vessel burnt". Will enclose this letter to his private agent or one of his children at school in England "that the Address may not be seen here". July 31, 1775.
- Id.*, on the breaking open of powder magazine and theft of 100 barrels of powder. "It may be supposed that those Barrels left [10 or 12] would not bare removing." He and "Legislative Body" have offered rewards for discovery of culprits. Lady Catherine of Va., George Ord, master, and Charles Town and Savannah Packet of S. C. suspected of having powder but could not be overtaken by custom-house boat. Difficult to send letters home, since "the minds of people are very much poisoned", and "people from Carolina and Philadelphia have corresponded and visited these Islands". Aug. 17, 1775.
- Id.* His lack of any confidant, and fear that Bermuda ships will be used against his Majesty's cause. Aug. 20, 1775.
- Id.* Intercourse with Dutch islands; abandonment of "lower trades" and service as seamen to negroes, "the White People presuming to be Gentlemen"; obvious deceit in petition to Congress, island being actually overstocked; and difficulty in sending despatches, since "they have prevented any person from hiring or chartering their Vessel to me, either to send to Boston or anywhere else". Sept. 2, 1775.
- Id.* Pursuit and search of vessel hired by him to take despatches and live stock to Gage. Oct. 16, 1775; Feb. 23, 1776.

Papers on establishment of separate legislature for St. Vincent, and on action against collector there, for taking the $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. duty.

Order in Council, for disallowance of several acts and ordinances, passed in Grenada, 1767-1768, and directing the Board to prepare and lay before his Majesty draft of additional instructions to governor for carrying into execution certain parts of proposal therein mentioned. This document outlines constitution for government of all four islands, providing, and regulating selection of, councils for all four, and assemblies for Grenada, Dominica, and St. Vincent. Also defines rights of French Roman Catholics; provides for support of Church of England; and regulates establishment of courts. Also grants permission for passage of laws assimilating methods used in appropriation and collection of $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. duty to those employed at St. Christopher. Sept. 7, 1768.

Lieut.-Gov. Fitzmaurice to Hillsborough. Sends account of act for raising money and establishing treasury in Grenada. Comments upon "an Opinion which Generally Reigns throughout the Whole Colonies, that Multiplied Inconveniences of Expense and Delay might proceed from a Power in the Lord Commissioners of the Treasury to Approve or Reject the Acts of the Colonies"; and gives reasons for existence of this opinion. Papers on disallowance of this act, on ground that it provided for no accounting to or auditing by home government. Oct. 6, 1768.

Papers dealing with land grants.

Fitzmaurice to Hillsborough, on packet service. Sept. 22, 1768.

Proclamation, signed by Fitzmaurice, that Caribs of St. Vincent are to have perfect freedom and proper assignment of lands, but shall not assemble in arms. June 10, 1769. Printed.

Order of committee of Council, referring memorial of certain proprietors of Dominica for separate government. Nov. 20, 1769. Other papers.

Id., that Board suggest names of persons fit to carry into execution commissions for trial of pirates to be issued in Grenada and Dominica. Dec. 15, 1770.

Richard Jackson's opinion on act of St. Vincent for regulating towns, which operates to limit prices of provisions. Dec. 5, 1770.

4. 1771.

Melville to Hillsborough. Refusal of British proprietors to pay taxes, on ground of same being illegal, being levied under bill passed since admission of Roman Catholics to assembly. Nov. 25, 1770.

Papers on defense; land purchases from Caribs; relations of French with Caribs in St. Vincent; and on threatened rupture with Spain.

5. 1771-1773.

Memorial of Gov. Leyborne against contention of Sir William Young, governor of Dominica, that all patents for lands sold or let on lease in Dominica should be passed by him under seal of Dominica, and not by commissioners appointed for sale of lands in ceded islands. 1772.

Opinion of Richard Jackson on act of St. Vincent, voiding purchases from Caribs. Objects to confirmation because "Notice was not publicly given of the bringing in the Bill in the Parish Church wherein the Lands affected by it lye three Sundays successively before the Bill proposed"; and also because no suspending clause included. May 28, 1772.

Order in Council, approving new establishment of ordnance officers for ceded islands, giving old and new establishments, with salaries in both cases. Jan. 5, 1770.

Id., for restoration of six members of council suspended by Fitzmaurice. Apr. 5, 1770.

Id., for admission of Roman Catholics to council. Feb. 11, 1771.

Id., for disallowance of act of St. Vincent for regulating towns, said act operating to fix prices. June 7, 1771.

Id., that all future grants or leases of land in Dominica shall be passed under seal of Dominica, and not under that of Grenada. Jan. 15, 1773.

6. 1773-1777. (Notable absence of documents for latter part of 1773, and for 1774-1775.)

Papers on sale of public lands, including: letters from John Greg, secretary to commissioners for sale of public lands, 1773; and report of commissioners to Board of Trade, July 19, 1773.

Opinions of Richard Jackson on various acts. In particular, on act of Grenada for "Re-Establishing Courts of Common Pleas, Error, King's Bench, and Grand Sessions", Oct. 18, 1774; and on act of Grenada to establish regular markets and fix prices. Mar. 23, 1776.

Letters from Leyborne, on defenses of islands. Sept. 10-14, 1773.

Extract of letter from Lieut.-Gov. Young to Dartmouth, on suspension of George Leonard Stanton, Andrew Irwin, and other members of council. "I had other private reasons for wishing Mr. Stanton out of the Council, one is that he was an active Person in carrying on the Address in favour of American Rebels sent home by his friend, Mr. Winiet, an American, for which I dissolved the late assembly, a respectable but deluded body of gentlemen, as now appears by their return to their duty." Mar. 1, 1776. Memorial of five suspended members of council to Sir George Macartney, stating that "when the House of Assembly had addressed the Crown in favour of His Majesty's Rebellious Subjects in America, the same Commander-in-Chief wrote a letter to the Speaker of the House requiring such address to be rescinded, and not until he had received a positive refusal did he dissolve them". 1776. Macartney to Germain, stating opinion that "it would be highly improper to restore Mr. Irwin to the Seat in the Council, as his opinions upon the authority of Great Britain over America are as pernicious as his language has been indecent". It would be better to let matter rest

"till we see how the prospect clears in North America; between which and this Island there was formerly a constant and intimate Intercourse". May 25, 1777.

C. O. 101:8. BOARD OF TRADE AND SECRETARY OF STATE: ORIGINAL CORRESPONDENCE. 1743-1812.

8. 1743-1812.

"Letters and Inclosures from M. Stone and Weston to Lord Carteret, 1743." Admiralty papers with no special reference to West Indian affairs.

"La Grenade. Etat Général Année 1747." Inhabitants, live stock, etc. Correspondence on refusal of governor of Margarita to deliver fugitive slaves. 1770.

Copy of bond given by purchaser of land in ceded islands to Sir William Young, receiver of monies arising from sales and leases of lands in ceded islands. 1771. Shows terms of sales and leases.

Extract from minutes of court of king's bench and grand sessions, "shewing that a Freeman had been found Guilty and executed for murdering a slave". Grenada, Sept., 1775.

Letter to Lord North from Timothy Brecknock, who desires to be chief justice of Grenada, and who is supported by an unnamed patron. "Mr. B's patron hath, in the course of this last week, rendered Lord North a most essential Service: he hath not only pacified Mr. Washington's resentment against his Lordship, but he hath also gained over Dr. Franklyn from fomenting any sanguinary prosecution against Lord North. His Lordship may possibly have heard of the combination entered into by Dr. Lee and twenty-one other Americans who have each of them signed a Compact with their own Blood and who have made a point of it to demand, as they term it 'Blood for Blood'. But this Compact, so far as it included Lord North, hath been over-ruled by the private intermediation of Mr. B's powerful friend and Patron." Apr. 15, 1783.

Id. "He is a person of too great a Rank to ask any favor for himself, and he is pleased to say that he confers a favor when he recommends to your Lordship's notice a Man of my Years, knowledge in the Laws, and acknowledged Services". North appears to have ignored two letters from Brecknock. Brecknock's patron did not think that "his Recommendation could be treated by Lord North with such apparent Inattention and Disrespect. He therefore commends me to tell your Lordship that before the next Month is over, you will critically stand in Need of his Assistance and Support". Apr. 18, 1783.

Draft of instructions for Gov. Mathew. 1783.

Monthly returns of garrison of Fort Royal, Grenada. 1762-1763.

Letter from Scott, on raising of regular troops in American colonies generally. Grenada, Mar. 2, 1763.

Colored map of Fort Royal harbor and other defenses at Grenada.

Letter from Egremont, on granting of lands. Aug., 1763.

Campbell Dalrymple to Egremont, on evacuation of Guadeloupe, and occupation of ceded islands. Encloses statement of produce exported from Guadeloupe, Dec., 1762-July, 1763, and account of British merchants in Guadeloupe. July 19, 1763. Other papers.

Account of 63rd Regt. of foot, stationed at Grenada, showing organization, effective strength, etc. July 23, 1763.

Many papers on taking over of private property in ceded islands. Disputes as to whether property could be sold by departing French; and whether it had become forfeited to the crown by failure of occupiers to comply with terms of grants.

Several returns of garrison at Grenada, showing reductions being made in establishment. 1763.

Papers on rights of Dominican friars and other religious orders to lands. 1763-1764. In particular: Halifax to Scott, directing that Dominican friars be permitted to sell lands. Jan. 30, 1764.

Halifax to commanders-in-chief at St. Vincent, Dominica, and Tobago, on relief of regiment stationed in those islands. Halifax to Scott, on relief of 68th Regt. by 63rd Regt. in accordance with plan of rotation. Halifax to commanders-in-chief of St. Vincent, and Tobago, on sending of 70th Regt. Other papers. 1764.

Memorial to Capt. Partridge, commandant at Dominica, from British merchants of Dominica, lately resident in Martinique and Guadeloupe, protesting against examination of their vessels coming to Dominica on charges of illegal importation of French sugars. Other papers. 1763-1764.

Halifax to Melville, reminding him that French of Grenada, like those of Canada, are guaranteed right to withdraw within a certain time, taking property. June 30, 1764.

Letter from Melville. His visit to Barbados in order to remove the "Universal Dread and Dislike" of Tobago, "occasioned by the sudden death of almost every White Person who had lately gone thither". Nov. 13, 1764.

10. 1764-1766.

Numerous papers, on departure of French, arrival of British, transfer of property, organization of government, and settlement of islands.

Copy of order in Council, granting permission for organization of separate assembly for Grenada, in case Melville thinks it best, and has not already created general assembly for all islands. Mar. 1, 1764.

Copy of letter from attorney general of Grenada to Melville, on preparation of list of documents required for enforcement of Stamp Act. Throws some light on legal procedure. Feb. 6, 1765.

Numerous papers, on charges of injustice, violence, and corruption brought against Scott by French inhabitants and French religious orders. French.

Letters from Melville, on pretensions of assembly of Grenada. Apr. 7, June 15, 1766.

11. 1765-1768.

Representation from Board of Trade, on two memorials from inhabitants of Grenada praying establishment of separate legislature. Dec. 10, 1765.

Order of committee of Council, for preparation of draft of instruction to governor of Grenada on calling of assembly. Feb. 15, 1766. Other papers on instructions to Melville for establishing government at Grenada.

Numerous papers on land grants and settlement.

Estimate of required outlay for military buildings, totalling more than £36,000. 1767.

Account of sums of money drawn by Melville for service of islands under his command, Feb., 1765-Nov., 1766. Shows that governor's salary was obtained in part from 4½ per cent. duty, and in part from "the Revenues of the Islands". Shows also sums drawn by Col. Johnstone, 70th Regt., at Grenada, Sept.-Nov., 1765, as provision for troops.

Papers on efforts to sustain struggling colony at Tobago. 1766.

Representation of Board of Trade, and other papers, on actions of governor of Grenada in setting up, Apr. 15, 1766, and dissolving, May 21, 1766, assembly for Grenada and Grenadines only. Assembly proceeded at once to claim privileges, on analogy of West Indian and North American colonies where largest concessions in this regard had been made by the crown. Governor's instructions produced no effect, dispatch of business became impossible, and house adjourned itself.

Extracts from letters, unsigned, sent by John Stewart, Dec. 5, 1766, to Shelburne from Dominica, on plans for defense and trade. Urge that North Americans be allowed to trade at Dominica with French; and Dominica should supply neighboring islands with slaves and meat. Islands would thus secure French cotton and cash which French get from New Spain. Other papers, urging establishment of free port at Dominica, and describing trade and produce of island. Others in commendation or condemnation of free port act. Numerous papers, as before, on transfer of property, and alleged oppression and injustice by officials.

Docket registers of land grants in all four islands, showing prices for cleared and uncleared land, initial payments, etc. 1765-1766.

Journal of assembly of Grenada and Grenadines. Apr. 15-May 20, 1766. Extracts from minutes of general council of Grenada, the Grenadines, Dominica, St. Vincent, and Tobago.

Memorials for establishment of separate government and separate courts of justice at Dominica. 1767.

Letters from Melville, on establishment of separate legislature for St. Vincent. May 23, 24, 1767.

"List of Inhabitants [names given], Number of Slaves and Quantity of Land in the Island of Carriacou, and of the taxes collected by virtue of an act of the Leg're."

Votes of the Assembly of Grenada and the Grenadines, Oct. 15-Dec. 12, 1766, printed at St. George's by William Wayland, 1767. French and English.

Papers on establishment of separate government for Dominica.

Papers on disposal of lands in ceded islands, with draft of instructions for commissioner charged with sale of such lands.

12. 1767-1768.

Letter from Melville, explaining that, in order to secure adequate revenue, he has been compelled to consent to payment of public money to a treasurer instead of to receiver general. Treasurer to be appointed by governor, but "the Security taken from him, the Comptrolling of the Accounts and the Applications of Publick Monies to be made by the directions of the Joint Legislature". Such arrangement said to be in force at Antigua. Nov. 14, 1767.

"Account of the Appropriations of the Money raised by the Act of Legislature of Grenada, 1767."

List of inhabitants, with number of slaves and amount of land owned by each, in island of Carriacou. Undated.

Several papers on sale or lease of lands in ceded islands, and on collection of quit-rents.

Letter from Melville, on establishment of separate legislatures in Dominica and St. Vincent. Nov. 14, 1767.

Id., pointing out unfortunate effects seen, or apprehended, from absence of lieutenant governor and so many other civil and military officers from islands. Nov. 16, 1767.

Hillsborough to Melville. Privy Council is now considering representation of Board of Trade in favor of separate government for Dominica, Hillsborough having found said representation among Shelburne's papers. Discusses project of separate council and assembly for St. Vincent. Feb. 11, 1768.

Letter from Melville. Disputes with assembly, arising from attempt of latter to punish returning officer for refusing to consent to candidature of French Roman Catholic. Use of Habeas Corpus Act involved, and much bad feeling created. Also complains that assembly claims privileges on analogy of House of Commons. Dec. 27, 1767.

Id., on same as foregoing, and including suggestions for treatment of Roman Catholics. Feb. 1, 1768.

"State of the Poll for the Members returned for the Parrish of St. John on a Scrutiny had before the Honorable the House of Assembly of Dominica, 11th January, 1768." Shows seven voters and four candidates, two voters appearing also as candidates. Voters all freeholders. Other papers, with particulars of qualifications, etc.

Papers on suggested establishment of separate government for Tobago. 1768.

Letter from Melville. Trouble with assembly over privileges. Prorogation necessitated by refusal of council to have further dealings with assembly. Blames "new Subjects" for much of trouble. May 1, 1768. Other papers, including addresses of council and assembly, and extracts from minutes of council, Nov., 1767-Mar., 1768.

"A list of the Polls taken for the Assembly to be Convened for the Island of Grenada and the Grenadines the 15th day of December, 1767", showing, for each parish, names of candidates and number of votes cast for each candidate by "natural born" and "new adopted" subjects.

Letter from Melville, on distress of troops in islands. May 1, 1768.

An Ordinance for the establishing of an Assembly in the Island of St. Vincent; and Regulating the Elections thereof. Feb. 25, 1767. Printed.

Copy of proclamation issued by Melville at Grenada, May 10, 1768. Points out that by proclamation of Oct. 17, 1763, which divided British acquisitions in America into four governments, and established legislatures and courts, laws of England were declared to be in force. But previously established courts in Grenada having continued to administer justice by methods not consistent with British law, proclamation was issued Dec. 19, 1764, declaring that all jurisdictions and officers must be founded on laws of England. Moreover, although Parliament has legislated that no person not a subject or free denizen of Great Britain shall engage in trade, or command a ship, foreigners flock to Grenada, take oath of allegiance, engage in trade, command vessels, and carry on illicit trade. It is therefore now proclaimed: (1) that all persons frequenting the islands must render strict obedience to laws in force there; (2) that no stranger will be allowed to exercise privileges of citizenship by merely taking oath of allegiance without taking up residence; (3) that no foreigner shall remain in islands without permission; and (4) that all free persons of color who are foreigners shall depart at once.

Letters from Melville. Internal conditions; difficulties raised by "new subjects"; objections to establishment of separate government for Dominica. May 25, June 18, July 15, 1768.

Memorials of council and assembly of Dominica for separate government. July 4-19, 1768.

Letter to Lieut.-Gov. Fitzmaurice, acting governor of the islands, sending instructions on proper methods of government. In particular: provision in election of assemblymen for election of some French representatives who refuse declaration against transubstantiation; establishment of courts of chancery; organization of militia; alteration in method of appropriating and collecting the $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. duty; support of Church of England; and grant of religious privileges to new subjects. Oct. 12, 1768.

13. 1768-1769.

Proclamation by Fitzmaurice, regulating elections for assembly of Grenada, and providing for choice of members who refuse to take declaration against transubstantiation. Dec. 31, 1768. Printed.

Letter to Fitzmaurice, referring to appointment of "new subjects" to council and bench. May 13, 1769.

Report of Captain Gordon, engineer for ceded islands, on requirements for their defense. Jan. 5, 1769.

Letters from Fitzmaurice. Disturbances at St. Vincent by Caribs, who fear being deprived of lands. May 11, 22, June 10, 1769. Important enclosures. Other papers.

Papers on suspension by Fitzmaurice of five members of council for refusal to consent to admission of Roman Catholic.

Address of thanks to the king from his new subjects in Grenada. 1769.

Letter from Fitzmaurice, on suit in court of exchequer for non-payment of capitation tax. May 23, 1769.

Report of principal officers of ordnance to Marquis of Granby, master-general of ordnance, on fortification of ceded islands. Aug. 3, 1769.

Letter from J. Graham, president of Grenada, on Carib rebellion, and weakness of islands. July 5, 1769.

Various papers on petitions against return to Grenada of Gov. Melville, who is charged with screening offenders from justice, torturing negroes to secure convictions, calling council in legislative capacity during prorogation of assembly, and stirring up trouble between French and British inhabitants.

Letter from Fitzmaurice, on conditions in Trinidad, Martinique, Guadeloupe, St. Lucia, and other foreign islands. July 28, 1769.

Hillsborough to Fitzmaurice, on $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. duty; and stating that the crown did not intend appointment of "new subjects" to council until royal pleasure made known. Nov. 4, 1769.

Minutes of council of Tobago. July 12-15, 1769.

Various papers on defense of St. Vincent, and especially on operations of sloop Ranger, sent out to cruise between St. Vincent and St. Lucia for prevention of intercourse with Caribs.

Weymouth to Hillsborough, sending papers presented to him by Spanish ambassador, to prove that in 1767 Melville granted passes to at least two British sloops to trade in negroes and dry-goods on Spanish Main, in clear violation of treaty. Dec. 7, 1769.

14. 1770.

Memorial of proprietors of St. Vincent now in London, asking for assistance against Caribs, who still hold nearly two-thirds of best lands. Jan. 22, 1770.

Correspondence with lieutenant-general and other officers of ordnance, on fortification of islands. Feb.-Nov., 1770.

Papers on Melville's answer to complaint of Spanish ambassador, describing custom of granting "let passes", as in other Br. W. I. islands.

Hillsborough to Melville, on measures taken to establish separate government for Dominica, and to reduce black Caribs of St. Vincent. Feb. 15, 1770.

Weymouth to Hillsborough, asking for some explanation to be given to Spanish ambassador as to why Melville is being allowed to return to his government under accusation of having broken treaty with Spain. Mar. 15, 1770.

Hillsborough to Weymouth, stating that Melville's explanations are considered satisfactory. Passes were addressed only to his Majesty's ports and ships, and certified only that vessels had complied with customary requirements. Believes that by this explanation he can give satisfaction and avoid discussion of "a Commerce of the greatest Importance to this Kingdom which has been, ever since the date of this Treaty (1670), carried on from Jamaica to the Spanish ports in America by Vessels clearing out of the Ports of these Islands with Certificates of a like Nature to those now complained of". Mar. 16, 1770.

Representation of Board of Trade, on impossibility of completing settlement of St. Vincent without such military force as will compel Caribs to acknowledge the king's title. Mar. 29, 1770. Enclosures.

Various papers on refusal of military officers at Tobago to take orders issued by president of council acting as commander-in-chief.

Papers on land tenure and land transfers; and in particular on purchases from French landowners and from Caribs.

Letter from Melville, announcing return to Grenada as governor. Apr. 6, 1770.

Letter from office of Secretary at War on inadequacy of accommodations afforded troops at Grenada. July 12, 1770.

Letter from Melville, on black Caribs at St. Vincent, and measures needed for defense. July 5, 1770.

"Present State of the Plantations now settling in Tobago", giving names of owners, acreage cleared and uncleared, and numbers of men and women, white and black. 1770.

15. 1770-1771.

Hillsborough to Melville, on regulating sale through commissioners of land held in St. Vincent by Caribs; and declaring all previous sales invalid. Jan. 25, 1771.

Dartmouth to Leyborne, on relief of 70th Regt. by 48th Regt. Sept. 1, 1773.

Leyborne to Dartmouth, complaining that "we suffer great inconvenience in this Island for want of a Commission for the Tryal of Pyrates; the trouble and expense of sending them to Antigua is very great, and Notorious Offenders frequently escape punishment". July 20, 1773.

Id. Distress in Tobago and other islands occasioned by "the failures that have lately happened in Europe", and "the damage that Island [Tobago] is likely to sustain from the Ant, an Insect very destructive to Sugar Cane, and which has lately made its appearance here". July 17, 1773.

"State" of Tobago, 1771-1773. (Very detailed.)

Reports from Maj. Gordon on defenses in Grenada and its dependencies.

Letter from Leyborne, on sending to England two prisoners accused of murder on shipboard, on coast of Africa. Having no commission for trial of pirates, he sent them to Antigua, but Payne did not consider that his commission extended to murder committed on high seas. Oct. 7, 1773. Encloses differing opinions of attorney general of Antigua and attorney general of Grenada. Dartmouth to Leyborne, stating that "the authority of Commissioners for the trial of pirates does not extend to the Case of Murder". Did his best long ago to send separate commission for trial of pirates to governor of Grenada; but it has not passed through all the offices "and perhaps will meet with further delay unless the Agent for the Island thinks fit to interest himself in the despatch of it". Jan. 8, 1774.

Dartmouth to Leyborne, stating that all matters not relating to regimental control of troops in any of the islands shall be at disposal of lieutenant governor or president of council, except that governor may interfere with disposition of troops. Apr. 6, 1774.

Petition from council and assembly of Tobago for better fortifications and more troops. Inhabitants too deeply distressed even to provide for public worship. Apr. 7, 1774.

Report on St. Vincent by Valentine Morris. July 11, 1774.

18. 1774-1775. (This volume contains so much important material that only a few documents, typifying the nature of the whole, may be listed. Letters about equally from Leyborne of Grenada and Morris of St. Vincent.)

Letter from Morris, on a "spirit of something more than independancy which seems to have gone forth of late years among the King's Colonys, and of which many individuals of even this, and also of the neighbouring Islands partake, to the frequent obstruction of His Majesty's measures". This is illustrated by rejection at St. Vincent by large majority, of bill for 4½ per cent. duty. Discusses various remedies, including taking advantage of every opportunity to claim escheat. Dec. 25, 1774.

Id. Complains of party in assembly of St. Vincent, often commanding majority, and composed of "men of very confined, and some of them of no education at all, and led away with the delusive sound of liberty and independence, etc., etc., the true, just sense of which words they do not know, but catch the sounds from their ideas of these [sic] from North American gazettes and North American Cpts., both of which swarm in all these Islands". . . . Best remedy probably in changing of majority by creation of new constituencies, since attempt to exclude undesirable members "would be to transfer to St. Vincents the late Middlesex disputes". Apr. 28, 1775. Other important letters from Morris, showing disaffection in St. Vincent.

Letter from Lieut.-Gov. William Young, stating that "disaffected Subjects . . . are but few in this Island [Grenada] and none in the rest"; but complaining of address to his Majesty, passed by assembly and sent home by Mr. Winiet, "a Native of New England . . . and late Speaker of the Assembly". Assembly dissolved on refusal to rescind address, as not forwarded through proper channels. States also that "Provisions and Lumber are as Cheap, if not Cheaper, upon the Average, than they have been these Nine Years bygone". Encloses address of assembly, on "the Contests which now subsist between your Parliament and your provinces of North America". Members of assembly "are attached to both by every tie that binds the human heart, and cannot, therefore, but deplore the horrors of a Civil War". Other papers.

Letter from Morris, stating that example set by N. Am. colonies causes assembly of St. Vincent to claim absolute control of finances, and power of self-adournment. July 21, 1775.

Letter from Leyborne, supporting coffee and cocoa planters in request for lower excise on their products in Great Britain, and pointing out great destruction wrought by cane ants. Nov. 23, 1774.

Papers on land grants, settlements, and relations with Caribs in St. Vincent.

Letter from Morris. Disappointment of French that British free ports prevent French trade and shipping from keeping pace with increase of production in French islands. Complains that Gen. Monckton has received in St. Vincent a grant of 4000 acres, which extends along the shore and includes "almost all the practicable or at least good shipping places". Mar. 2, 1775.

"A Plain Narrative of sundry Facts and Consequences which have happened in the Island of Grenada since its Submission to the British Arms in 1762, in order to show what were the real Causes which first produced and since then have fostered public Disorders in that Island, and also to point out how they might be speedily and effectually removed." Blame laid chiefly upon French inhabitants and the over-indulgence shown to them in constitution and laws. Signed, Thomas Townshend. 1775.

Suffolk (in absence of Dartmouth) to Lieut.-Gov. Young, directing sending of three companies of 60th Regt. from St. Vincent to St. Augustine, "in order to give the necessary assistance for forming, regulating, and disciplining the Recruits for the augmentation of the Royal Americans, and for the Composition of the two additional Battallions of that Reg., which Recruits, as they arrive from Germany, will be sent from hence to that place". Oct. 14, 1775.

Detailed "monthly return of the Brigade Quartered in the Charibbee Islands". June, 1775.

Papers on conditions in Grenada, including: reply to query sent to governor, 1766; detailed "states" of various parishes, giving names of proprietors, acreage for various kinds of cultivation, slaves, mills, etc., 1772; papers showing values of certain lay and ecclesiastical offices, 1773; abstract of "state" of Grenada, 1772; "regulations established for the Practice in the Court of Vice Admiralty, by Alexander Symon, Esquire, Sole Judge of the said Court", 1773 (?); "Docket of the Judge's fees in the Admiralty; also a list of the fees taken and received by the Collector, Comptroller, Searcher, and Weigher of His Majesty's Customs at the Port of Grenadoes"; lists of imports and exports, 1772.

Answers to queries on Tobago. (Very comprehensive and detailed.)

Letter from Gov. Macartney, no. 17. Sept. 4, 1776. Encloses monthly state of troops. Aug., 1776.

Id., no. 2. Arrival of merchant fleet except one vessel "which seems to have parted convoy on purpose and was taken by a Rebel Privateer". Feb. 6, 1777.

Id., no. 12. Captures made by rebel privateers. The French give all possible assistance but are not likely actually to declare war at present. "Whatever Trade the Rebels carry on is with the French (for that with the Dutch is comparatively inconsiderable); whatever captures are made in those seas, it is the French who receive the benefit of them. The Privateers are nominally Americans, but since our late successes in North America, they are become really French, being fitted out from French ports with french money and by French Adventurers, tho' under the name of William Bingham and Richard Harrison residing at St. Pierre's as profest agents for the Rebels. I believe there are now 14 or 15 of those privateers chiefly manned with French, Spaniards and other foreigners, but the Majority is French. . . They are furnished with two sets of papers, one is a Commission from the Congress, under which authority they take all our vessels which they can master, the other is a Clearance from the French Custom houses for the Spanish Main, which they shew to such of our ships as are too strong for them." Mar. 6, 1777.

Id., no. 16. Apr. 27, 1777. Encloses letter to Vice-Adm. Young, Apr. 2, 1777, describing answers of governor of Martinique and commandant of St. Lucia to letters written to them as to treatment of the "Rebel" privateers. Encloses also "List of Rebel and French Privateers at Martinique, and Vessels taken by them. April 9th, 1777".

Id., no. 24, reporting capture of "rebel" privateer Oliver Cromwell. June 8, 1777.

Id., no. 26, reporting professions of M. de Bouillé, new governor of Martinique, on relations with "rebels". July 11, 1777.

21. 1777-1778. (Volume contains also "Monthly State of the Troops", May, 1776-Aug., 1777.)

Letter from Gov. Macartney, no. 28. Encloses "List of the Antigua Squadron". July 23, 1777.

Id., no. 34. Capture of two small prizes by two trading vessels of the island. Oct. 1, 1777. Encloses sales of two American prizes taken June 17 and 25, 1777.

Id., nos. 35, 36. Encloses "State of the Ordnance" in Grenada and Tobago. Oct. 2, 12, 1777.

Id., no. 39. Reports information as to the "countenance and protection which the Rebels received from the French, Dutch and Danes in the neighbouring Islands (not to mention their wellwishers in our own)". Martinique ever since the beginning of the rebellion "has been considered by the Americans as their chief Magazine and Asylum in these seas". The Marquis de Bouillé professes neutrality, but Americans continue to receive assistance. About forty or fifty Americans are now in Martinique, the principal one Bingham of Pennsylvania, who is regarded as "a kind of agent, or Consul for his Countrymen. . . . He corresponds with the Congress, fits out their ships, sells their prizes, and is in general charged with the whole of their affairs there. He prepares all the American Articles for the Martinique Gazette, has constant access to Monsieur Joubert, the Commandant at St. Pierre, . . . The Americans boast that he is well received at Fort Royal by Monsieur de Bouillé, but all the french officers and Gentlemen absolutely deny it. . . . The number . . . of American privateers in the West Indies, has of late been very much diminished. . . . The Rebels find it very difficult to man their ships, ever since we have sent the prisoners to England. . . . Among the prizes which have fallen into our hands, not a third of the people are natives of America. The french smugglers and other small Craft have almost all Congress Commissions (perhaps without Monsieur de Bouillé's knowledge) and don't fail to make use of them when a fair opportunity offers. There is generally one American on board, a man of Straw, whom they then pass as the Commander, to justify their captures. . . . The Americans on the Continent are chiefly supplied in the articles of Cloathing and hardware, with British Manufactures, which are sent thither thro' the Medium of St. Eustatia and Santa Cruz. Gun powder, Artillery, and all kind of Naval and Military Stores, are furnished them by the french. A Merchant at St. Pierre's, told the Gentleman whom I sent there, that if he wanted 10,000 stands of Arms he could supply him, and wou'd ship them in ten days, on board a french bottom to any part of America. It appears that the French, Dutch and Danes, are prodigious gainers by this trade, whilst America itself is almost exhausted to the last farthing, having no foreign credit."

Id., no. 50. Encloses "A List of Rebel Privateers now cruising in these Seas and fitted out from Martinico", also "A List of Rebel Privateers now fitting out at Martinico". Dec. 25, 1777.

Id., no. 7. Capture of rebel armed ship Alfred. Asks for definite instructions regarding prisoners. Those taken in arms sent to England, others given choice of leaving the island or taking oath of allegiance. Americans have instruction not to release any prisoner without particular directions from Congress. All other West Indian governments release all prisoners, some of whom have been taken "above twenty times over". Apr. 10, 1778.

Letters from Board of Trade to Pitt, recommending appointment and reappointment of Hugh Grame as naval officer. Aug. 21, 1759; Mar. 11, 1761.

Seven printed copies of addresses to inhabitants of Guadeloupe, urging them to join the British in freeing island from destructive tyranny of French. Undated.

Letters on appointments to offices.

HAVANA.

C. O. 117:1. SECRETARY OF STATE: ORIGINAL CORRESPONDENCE. 1762–1763.

1. 1762–1763. (See Andrews, I. 202.)

JAMAICA.

C. O. 137:9–43. BOARD OF TRADE: ORIGINAL CORRESPONDENCE. 1710–1782.

9. 1710–1713.

Letter from Gov. Handasyd, on quarrel between council and assembly over latter's action in placing a rider on a money-bill, and assembly's

- unwarrantable claims in matter of adjourning itself. June 2, July 16, 1711.
- Address of governor, council, and assembly to House of Commons, asking that African trade be opened to private traders. June 2, 1711.
- Account of her Majesty's revenue, 1710-1711.
- Letter from Gov. Hamilton, on assembly's claim to right of self-adjournment. Aug. 29, 1711.
- Project of Mr. Dummer for resumption, on new lines, of monthly packet service to West Indies. 1712. Enclosed is schedule, printed in 1705, showing proposals for operation at that time, with list of ports and ships.
- Various papers on payments due from factors of the Asiento.
- Letter from Dartmouth, directing issue to colonial governors of instructions forbidding sending to Great Britain of persons charged with crimes or misdemeanors, unless full proofs of guilt are forwarded at same time. Aug. 21, 1712.
- Letter from Hamilton. Operations of flags of truce. Dec. 18, 1712.
- Address of board of merchants settled in Jamaica, complaining that war vessels engross trade on Spanish coast. Jan. 3, 1712/3.
- Numerous papers on quarrels between governor and admiral on the Jamaica station, over powers of naval officer and of officers of war vessels in making seizures, and right of governor to issue orders to officers of war vessels.
10. 1713-1715.
- Papers on the land system, relating to escheats and to new act for "quieting possessions", passed in 1712 and confirmed in 1715.
- "Account of Goods Exported from Jamaica From 25th March 1709 to the 29th Sepr. 1711." Distinguishes exports to Great Britain from those to plantations.
- "Goods Imported to Jamaica from 25th of March 1709, to 29th September 1711."
- "Account of all Goods Imported and Exported to and from Jamaica from 29th Sepr. 1711 to March 25th 1712." Number of vessels also given.
- Receipts and expenditures for fortifications. 1711-1712.
- Four statements of "Her Majesty's Account Current", Sept., 1711-July, 1713; with separate accounts of quit-rents, imports, wine licenses, fines and forfeitures, escheats and outstanding debts. A fifth statement covering Michaelmas, 1713, to Michaelmas, 1714.
- Lists of escheated lands and slaves, with valuations showing current prices. 1712-1713.
- List of militia regiments in Jamaica, Oct. 11, 1712, with strength of each and name of commander.
- List of militia troops of horse in Jamaica, with names of captains. 1712.
- Lists of stores. 1712.
- List of 39 vessels lost or damaged at Port Royal, being the "most part" of the shipping there, and nine lost or damaged at Kingston during earthquake and hurricane of Aug. 28, 1712. Tonnage, rigging, number of guns, etc., given.
- List of patent officers, with names of persons by whom the various duties are actually executed.
- Proceedings of council of war held Sept. 1, 1712.

Memorial of council and assembly against re-establishment of monopoly in African trade; alleging that, trade with Spanish settlements having been ruined by provisions in treaty concerning the Asiento, and by unwarrantable seizures made by vessels under Admiral Walker's command, the island needs free trade in negroes. Dec. 24, 1713.

Papers relating to quarrels between Gov. Hamilton and Adm. Walker, involving mutual accusations of connivance at piracy and illegal trade, and on use of flags of truce, and seizure by naval officers of Spanish vessels and British privateers. 1713-1714.

Receipts and expenditures for fortifications. 1711-1712.

Many papers on series of disputes between governor and assembly on: objections of assembly to "the maintenance of a standing army in time of peace"; assembly's claim to right of adjournment; refusal of assembly to allow council to amend money-bills; act passed by assembly to prevent any person from holding two or more places of profit; voting of money for soliciting in England public affairs of island in interests of assembly alone; withdrawal of the "opposition" in order to make a quorum impossible; repassage of disallowed acts; refusal of supplies. Governor's views are seen especially in an "Abstract of Occurrences in Jamaica", submitted to Privy Council, and in letter to Earl of Orkney, Nov. 15, 1714.

Letter from Bolingbroke. "Disorders and confusions" in West Indies have reached such a height that it is proposed to send someone there on mission similar to that of Nicholson in northern colonies. Mar. 18, 1713/4.

Letter from Admiralty to Stanhope, on authority of colonial governors over officers of the navy. Mar. 26, 1715/6.

11. 1715-1716.

Memorial of South Sea Company, complaining of duties laid by assembly on exportation of slaves to Spanish coast. Dec. 1, 1715. Other papers, with arguments for and against the duties. 1715-1716.

Papers on enforcement of acts of trade, and in particular on disputes between Gov. Hamilton and Surveyor General Keith. Keith complains that vessels are entered and cleared without reference to officers of customs; and Hamilton, that Keith refuses to recognize governor's authority. Question of fees taken by collector is also involved. Commencement of disputes is described in letter from Hamilton, July 2, 1715.

Letter from Hamilton, on the land system. "The greatest part of the valuable land unsettled has been long since patented and is now in hands who neither cultivate nor care to dispose of it." Aug. 30, 1715.

Id. Complains of "splitting of freeholds" and other improper devices resorted to in election of assemblymen. Nov. 14, 1715 (1).

Id. Refusal of assembly to supply funds for subsistence of troops, danger of negro insurrection, and decline of Spanish trade. Nov. 14, 1715 (2).

Account of money received and disbursed for subsistence of Handasyd's regiment, 1714-1715.

Account of militia. Nov., 1715.

Papers on disputes between governor and assembly. Besides old questions, the most prominent issue raised is the refusal of assembly to reimburse governor for his expense in subsisting troops. In particular: letter from Hamilton, Nov. 28, 1715, and a "Memorial in Vindication of the Island of Jamaica and the Assembly thereof". 1715.

Report of engineer on defenses of Jamaica. Feb. 21, 1715/6.

Letter from Stanhope, announcing that governor has been ordered to place reimbursement of his expenditure on troops as first charge upon revenues of Jamaica, and to see that future subsistence is provided in same manner, unless assembly shall make other provision. Apr. 24, 1716. (Attempts by the crown to secure reimbursement for Hamilton continued through a number of years, as may be seen in succeeding volumes of correspondence; but it does not appear that complete repayment was ever secured.)

Numerous papers on piratical depredations committed by vessels from Jamaica on Spanish vessels, wrecks, and settlements, subsequent to conclusion of peace. Repeated charges that governor is involved. 1715-1716. In particular: draft of letter to Heywood, president of council, ordering him to secure persons and effects of those engaged in recent depredations against Spaniards. 1716.

List of ten vessels commissioned by Hamilton, ostensibly for suppression of piracy, Nov.-Dec., 1715.

Letters from Hamilton. Act passed to compel all office-holders to take communion within three months in Church of England or in any Protestant church tolerated in English law; refusal of chief justice to issue writs of habeas corpus; action of assembly in subscribing funds to solicit business in England after refusal of council to pass bill appropriating money for this purpose. Mar. 5, 1715/6; June 12, 1716.

Papers on Hamilton's recall, arrest, and despatch, as a prisoner, to England. Besides complicity in piracy and illegal trade with French settlements, he is accused of bribery and intimidation in connection with elections and with assembly and court of chancery. In particular: representation of assembly, Dec. 31, 1715; memorial of council (defending Hamilton), Mar. 13, 1715/6; and an "Extract of the Maladministration in Jamaica during the government of Lord Archibald Hamilton", 1716.

12. 1716-1718.

Many papers on piracy, including:

Letter from Hamilton, on piratical acts committed by British vessels on Spanish coast. June 12, 1716.

Forms of commissions issued to, and bonds given by, persons commissioned for suppression of piracy. 1716.

"Extract of a Letter to Mr. Onslow from Jamaica", stating that pirates are leaving the island "in swarms" as result of measures now being taken for their suppression. (This letter also deals with lack of currency, decline of trade, and rise in price of slaves occasioned by Asiento agreement in peace treaty.) Aug., 1716.

Letter from Secy. Methuen on establishment of pirates in the Bahamas, and enclosing interesting letters, depositions, etc., from Va., S. C., and elsewhere. Nov. 30, 1716.

Letters from Heywood, on prevalence of piracy at Jamaica and its effect on the population, frequent capture of vessels from northern colonies, Hamilton's complicity, and Heywood's apologies to Spanish governors. Aug. 11, 16, 1716.

Minutes of council, Sept. 3, 4, 1716.

Copies of proceedings in court of admiralty at Port Royal in condemnation of vessel seized by Hamilton's (piratical?) sloops.

Numerous papers on seizure, condemnation, and letters of appeal against condemnation, in 1715, of Nostra Signora de Bethleem.

The papers include copy of the ship's manifest (130 pp.) and other documents, throwing much light on trade, prices, etc., and upon operations of Spanish Asiento company. 1715-1716.

A list of 37 vessels, constituting "some of the many ships . . . taken from the Subjects of the King of Great Britain in America by the Subjects of the King of Spain since the Conclusion of the last Peace". Sept., 1716.

Letter from Heywood, complaining that assembly places riders on money-bills. Nov. 14, 1716.

"Copy of Mr. Congreve's Commission for the place of Secretary of Jamaica." 1717.

Copy of receiver general's patent. 1717.

Copy of subscription paper signed by members of assembly to raise money for soliciting affairs in England. Received, Feb. 16, 1716/7.

Petition of South Sea Company, against act laying export duty on negroes, which will "greatly Affect and Prejudice the said Company in carrying on the Asiento". Counter-memorial of assembly. Letters from Daniel Wescomb, secretary of South Sea Company, and from agents of company at Jamaica. "Account of Negroes Sent to the Spanish West Indies on Account of the Asiento." Other papers. 1717.

Letter from Sir Nicholas Lawes, on illegal trade between Jamaica and French settlements. Nov. 4, 1717.

Papers relating to seizure, by Spanish man-of-war, of Capt. Harry Beverley of Va. with his vessel and crew. 1717. (Beverley was proceeding, under orders from Spotswood, to inquire into state of Bahama Islands, location of Spanish wrecks, and activities of pirates.)

Papers on dispute over division of profits between secretary of the island and his deputy, Mr. Cockburn. 1717.

Papers showing continued prevalence of piracy, especially in Windward Passage, and continued participation by convicts shipped out to Jamaica, and by other residents. Included are copies of two commissions sent to Gov. Lawes for trying and pardoning pirates, and of commissions issued by him for their pursuit. Conditions are described in letter from Lawes: "There is hardly any Ship or Vessell coming in or going out of this Island that is not plundered. And this in good measure I impute to the neglect of the Commanders of his Majesty's Ships of Warr." The war vessels, he explains, prefer to devote their energies to trading with the Spaniards. June 21, 1718. Burchett, in letter to William Popple, states that orders have been given to stop this abuse. Aug. 5, 1718.

Accounts of his Majesty's revenue. 1716-1720.

Letter from Lawes. Complains that most of revenue derived from enforcement of acts of trade is eaten up "in extravagant and unnecessary charges and salaries to the officers". Until recently the king's share was paid over to governor, who accounted for it to Treasury; but during Heywood's administration Beckford, the controller, succeeded in having payments transferred to collector. Sept. 1, 1718.

Account of collector of customs, Mar. 25-June 24, 1718.

Letter from Commissioners of Customs, objecting to act for "ascertaining" the number of ports of entry in Jamaica, on ground that it promotes growth of towns and increase of manufactures. Apr. 3, 1719.

Letters from Lawes. Describes ill effects of sending of convicts to Jamaica, and complains of assembly. Assembly makes unwarrantable claims to right of self-adjournment; has refused to pass an act "to extend real estate to the payment of debts"; is quarrelling with council over appointment of an agent; has lodged large sum of money raised by taxation in hands of commissaries, who have given bond to pay it only for specified purposes; and has passed act for peopling of island, which places special tax on absentees, and provides that money raised shall be paid to receiver general, not as receiver general, but as assembly's commissioner under special bond. Sept. 1 (two letters), Oct. 10, 1718; Jan. 31, Mar. 24, 1718/9. In the last of these letters Lawes asks for renewal of instructions issued during last war to permit trade with Spanish settlements. Further arraignment of assembly is found in letter of Thomas Barnard, councillor, to John Chetwynd, Feb. 4, 1719/20.

Papers relating to protest of certain merchants against seizure at Jamaica of cargo of indigo, on ground that it was of French growth; and showing regulations covering importation and exportation of foreign indigo. 1718.

The whole Proceedings of Captain Dennis's Expedition to the Governor of the Havanna. An interesting description of trade, piracy, and general conditions in Cuba. 1718.

Two copies of The Weekly Jamaica Courant. 1719.

Letter from Kelly, collector at Jamaica, to Commissioners of Customs, describing injury done to Spanish trade by pirates and South Sea Company; and urging desirability of acquiring the Bay of Campeachy for purpose of reducing piracy and reviving trade. Apr. 30, 1719.

Letters from Lawes, pointing out damage done to Spanish trade by South Sea Company, and by French competition; and describing trade with continental colonies. Dec. 6, 1719; Feb. 2, 1719/20.

Letter from Lawes, replying to customary queries of Board. Dec. 6, 1719.

Copy of agreement made with Mosquito Indians for assistance against maroons. 1720.

Papers on complaints that governor sends officials to search vessels and make seizures upon them after they have been cleared by collector and naval officer. Various questions concerning enforcement of acts of trade and conflicting powers of governor and commander of vessels on the Jamaica station are involved. 1721.

A number of important papers on negotiations which culminate, in 1728, in grant of permanent revenue to the crown for support of government in Jamaica; the crown in return permitting permanent adoption by island of such laws and statutes of England as had been "at any time esteemed, introduced, accepted or received as laws in Jamaica". The settlement of 1728 represents the close of a contest which arose at intervals from early days of British rule, and which constitutes one of the most important episodes in the constitutional history of Jamaica. A number of subsidiary questions, such as applicability of Habeas Corpus Act to colonial conditions, financial independence of governor, and provision of subsistence for a garrison are involved. It is impossible to enumerate even the more important of the orders in Council, representations, memorials, and letters on all the various aspects and stages of the negotiations which are to be found here and in vols. 14, 16, and 17. These papers, besides representing the views of the various organs of colonial government in England and in the colony, give a mass of important facts and statistics. The main issue is presented in letters from Lawes, Dec. 6, 1719, Aug. 24, 1720, and in a letter from Thomas Barnard of the council to John Chetwynd, Feb. 4, 1719/20.

Important papers concerning the perpetual revenue (see C. O. 137:13). Reports and representations from attorney general, solicitor general, committee of Council, Treasury, Board of Trade, and Richard West.

Order in Council for new provisions to be incorporated in instructions of Duke of Portland as governor of Jamaica, on insertion of suspending clauses in acts providing for issue of bills of credit, or for payments of money to governors or other individuals. Jan. 20, 1721/2.

List of 73 vessels lost or damaged at Port Royal and Kingston in hurricane of Aug. 28, 1722, with particulars of tonnage, etc.

Papers on piracy, including printed accounts of trials of pirates by commissioners appointed under act of 11 and 12 Will. III. 1721.

Order in Council for restoration of indigo seized under local act. Aug. 24, 1721.

Letter from Commissioners of Customs, giving opinion of solicitor of the customs that, while officers of the customs and governor and naval officer enjoy concurrent powers in making seizures for violations of acts of trade, a clearance granted by one officer cannot prevent seizure by another. Aug. 7, 1721.

Letter from secretary of South Sea Company, complaining of duties on negroes. Mar. 2, 1721/2.

Account current and account of fortifications, Mar. 25-Sept. 29, 1721.

Additional instruction to governor forbidding council and assembly to lay any tax on exportation of negroes brought to island for "refreshment". Other papers relating to slave-trade.

Papers on capture and condemnation of French schooner Espérance for breach of acts of trade.

15. 1724.

This volume consists of papers on the seizure, trial, and condemnation of the ship Chandos and the schooner Espérance for breaches of the acts of trade. Both vessels were seized in Kingston roads by the naval officer, and were condemned in the court of vice-admiralty in Mar., 1724. The governor states that the court sat under his protection "for the prevention of tumults". The Royal African

Company and the Royal British Asiento Company were interested in the vessels, and considerable light is thrown on the trade of the companies by the reports of the proceedings in the admiralty court and the accompanying papers.

This volume is largely composed of papers relating to the struggle over the perpetual revenue bill (see C. O. 137:13) which was at its height during these years. The refusal of the assembly to accept a bill framed in England by the joint efforts of the various departments of government, which provided for the permanent subsistence of regular troops, and the refusal of the crown to confirm successive bills framed by the assembly, produced a temporary deadlock and a virtual paralysis of government. In the numerous orders in Council, representations, and letters, the opinions and policies of the various organs of the central government with regard to colonial finances are clearly exposed.

A number of papers on the contest between the South Sea Company and the legislature of Jamaica, over export duties on slaves, and flour used for subsisting slaves, in transit from Jamaica to Spanish coast. South Sea Company admits that no duties are now levied on negroes taken into Jamaica for refreshment, but asks that all export duties be forbidden, since "they have found it expedient to buy negroes at Jamaica and to satisfy themselves with others on that island by contracting with the Royal African Company". Besides two memorials of South Sea Company, Aug. 3, 1724, and Oct. 6, 1726, letters from Wescomb, secretary of South Sea Company, memorials from Jamaica merchants for and against the duties, copies of acts and orders in Council, and other papers are found.

Interesting letter from Portland, complaining of independence of patent officers, and his lack of success in securing the nomination of the deputy provost marshal (who is an officer of the court of vice-admiralty); and describing dispute between council and assembly over appointment of coroners. Dec. 30, 1724.

Papers on seizure by naval officer of French indigo illegally imported in 1718. Unusually detailed. Valuable in showing procedure, values, and fees.

Information on Adml. Hosier's movements. 1726.

Answers by Ayscough, president of council, to inquiries on trade of Jamaica. Oct., 1726.

Accounts current to Apr., 1725; also accounts of imposts and of fortifications.

List of fifty vessels lost or damaged in hurricane of Oct. 22, 1726, giving tonnage, from what ports and to what ports, bound, number of men carried, etc.

17. 1727-1729.

Papers on final passage of perpetual revenue act. 1727-1728.

Further letters, memorials, orders in Council, etc., on duties on negroes, and on instructions sent to governor forbidding him to assent to any act placing duties on negroes brought in for refreshment only. Show part played by private traders in slave-trade, and resentment felt in Jamaica against South Sea Company on account of its interference with private trading. 1727-1728.

Letter from Ayscough. Sufferings of regular troops in consequence of assembly's refusal to provide subsistence, pending settlement of revenue dispute. Dec. 19, 1727.

Accounts current, Lady Day, 1725, to Lady Day, 1728.

Accounts of imposts and of fortifications, Apr., 1725, to Lady Day, 1728.

18. 1729-1730.

Two orders in Council, confirming the perpetual revenue act and act to compel employers to provide themselves with a certain proportion of white servants. May 22, 1729.

Letters from Gov. Hunter. Describe beginnings of negro insurrection, and "the Spanish design" against the island. Mar. 12, 1729/30; July 4, 1730.

Id. Unreliability of white servants, who make up most of the militia, and who are mainly "native" Irish. Obstruction offered in assembly by Irish lawyers, and reasons for passage of "Act for preventing Dangers from disguised Papists". July 17, Sept. 6, 1729.

Account of ordnance and stores. 1728.

A calculation of the quantity and value of produce and manufactures of Jamaica shipped annually to Great Britain.

Minutes of councils of war. Jan. 7, 1728/9; Apr. 7, 8, 29, June 30, 1729.

19. 1730-1732.

Numerous papers on negro insurrection and arrival of reinforcements. Papers on protests against act for "the better Regulating Slaves and rendring Free Negroes and Mullattoes more useful". 1731.

Address of governor and council on weak condition of island, decrease in white population, and danger from enemies and slaves. Nov. 21, 1730.

Letter from Hunter, enclosing unusually full replies to queries of Board, which include reports on: soil, produce and manufactures shipped annually to Great Britain; value of such produce and manufactures in pounds sterling and Jamaica currency; cost of freights to Great Britain and amounts of duties and excise paid there; numbers and values of slaves, stock, and sugar-works; numbers of men and vessels engaged in different branches of trade; measures taken to prevent illicit trading; statistics on population by parishes, distinguishing different classes, ages, and sexes; statement on the extent of, and reasons for, decrease in whites; amounts received and spent for militia, and for the garrison; and lists of military and civil (including patent) officers, with salaries paid. Dec. 24, 1730.

Letter from Hunter, on trade of South Sea Company at Porto Bello. Apr. 21, 1731.

Three petitions from merchants trading to Jamaica, Society of Merchants Venturers of Bristol, and "Merchants and Owners of ships of and in the Port of Liverpool", against laying of duties on negroes. 1731.

Petition of planters, merchants, and traders of Jamaica, asking for encouragement in planting of coffee, which is proposed there and in other sugar islands. 1730.

Papers on quarrel between council and assembly over nomination and control of an agent.

Letter from Hunter, explaining that imposition on convicts is necessary to prevent their coming in from the North. None come direct. More complaints of lazy and useless "native" Irish, who come cheap and serve for deficiencies. Nov. 13, 1731.

"Address and Representation of the Council of Jamaica to His Majesty relating to the unhappy situation of the affairs of that Island, by the Increase and Success of their Rebellious Negroes, the Decrease of White People, the Decay of Trade and Planting, and the pernicious Trade from thence and our Northern Colonies to the French and Dutch Sugar Plantations." Nov. 27, 31.

"Address and Representation of the Assembly of Jamaica relating to the languishing Circumstances of that Island . . . and the pernicious Practice of the Northern Colonies Supplying the French and Dutch Sugar Colonies with Necessaries for Carrying on their Works." Undated. Read Mar. 23, 1731/2.

20. 1732-1733.

Accounts of the negro insurrection.

Petitions and memorials from South Sea Company, council and assembly, merchants of London, and merchants of Liverpool, concerning duties on slaves. An interesting unsigned paper, endorsed "Observations on the Assiento Contract", designed to meet charge that Asiento agreement is injurious to Jamaica. 1731-1732. Order in Council, for instructions forbidding governor to assent to any act placing duties on negroes and convicts. Dec. 9, 1731. Id., for instructions forbidding assent to any act laying duties on negroes exported within twelve months of arrival. Oct. 13, 1732.

Papers on act for regulating slaves and rendering free negroes and mulattoes more useful.

Letters from Hunter, on quarrels between council and assembly over right of council to amend money-bills.

Id. Threatening acts of Spaniards in Cuba. Mar. 27, 1733.

21. 1733-1735.

Letters, petitions, and other papers on levy of duties on negroes. In particular, memorial of South Sea Company, reviewing history of affair from 1717 to date. Nov. 22, 1734.

Letter from Newcastle, directing that governor furnish to Board information to be used in compiling "state" of British islands requested by House of Lords. Apr. 5, 1734.

"Letter from Mr. Oxenford, Assistant Inspector General, with Accounts of Imports and Exports to and from England, Jamaica, etc." Totals given for all Br. W. I. Nov. 2, 1734.

Order of Committee of Council that Board, together with attorney general and solicitor general, prepare draft of act to vacate exorbitant grants of land in Jamaica, for passage by council and assembly there. Governor to be instructed that his Majesty expects council and assembly to "comply with such measures as His Majesty judges necessary for their own Happiness and Security". In case of non-compliance the matter to be laid before Parliament. July 2, 1735.

Two memorials from Gov. Cunningham. Decline of Spanish trade "since the Assiento contract and the Annual Ship sent to those parts by the South Sea Company"; resulting decrease in revenue; lack of currency; need for ordnance stores. Oct. 18, Nov. 1, 1734.

Various papers on measures for suppression of negro insurrection, arrival of reinforcements, and offers of pardon to rebels.

Representation of council and assembly, declaring that population and prosperity of island are diminishing, on account of "the Establishing a Factory of the South Sea Company" and "the Farming the (log-wood) Trade to Campeachy". These measures have deprived Jamaica of support of 2500 seamen. To restoration of prosperity of declining sugar colonies nothing would be so conducive as "the Carrying our Sugars directly to Forreign Marketts and the lowering of the Duty upon Rum . . . as proposed by Your Lordships". May 2, 1735.

22. 1735-1738.

Order in Council, for additional instruction, that governor secure passage of law vacating exorbitant grants of land. July 30, 1735.

Id., for empowering governor to assent to act laying reasonable duty on negroes purchased in island, provided such duty payable by purchaser. July 9, 1735.

Papers on act for "the more effectual directing the Provost Marshall's proceedings".

Order of committee of Council, referring "Memorial and Proposal of the Merchants of London, Bristol and Liverpool relating to the State of and better settling the Island of Jamaica". Oct. 27, 1735.

Papers on discrimination against Jews.

Letter from Gregory, president of council, forwarding, with useful comments, following important accounts. Apr. 10, 1736.

Accounts, by separate years, of money raised, 1725-1735, by imposts on wines and spirits, quit-rents, gunpowder tax, wine licenses, fines, forfeitures, and escheats.

Corresponding accounts of money raised on importation and exportation of negroes, 1725-1732, showing numbers imported and exported, and rates charged.

Corresponding accounts of money raised, 1725-1735, by the following taxes: deficiency tax; tax on Jews; poll-tax on slaves and cattle; tax on house rents in Spanish Town and Kingston; tax on public offices; duty on negroes purchased in the islands (for 1733 and 1734 only); tax on hiring-out of slaves as "tradesmen", etc.; tax on "Trading Inhabitants of St. Catherine's and Kingston"; tax on retailing of rum (the last three for 1734 only); tax on shipping, for repair of wall at Port Royal (for 1730, 1731, and 1732); and import duty on Madeira wine (Sept., 1734-Mar., 1735, only).

Accounts of totals raised in each year from all above sources.

"Account of what Laws were in force on the 12th of May 1735 in the Island of Jamaica by which any Duties, or Impositions etc. were payable on the Importation or Exportation of Negros, Wines or other kinds of liquors, or any goods wares or merchandise, and on Shipping."

Letter from William Wood, who wishes to print laws of Jamaica, and asks to be allowed to take copies, as he was permitted to do when he printed laws in 1716. June 30, 1736.

Letters from Gregory, with enclosures, on alleged improper seizures of British vessels by French and Spaniards, and of French vessels by British in the Windward Islands. Dec. 28, 1736; Nov. 25, 1737.

Papers on granting of any gold or silver mines which may be discovered in Jamaica.

23. 1738-1743.

Letter from Trelawney, stating that unpatented land in Jamaica is "enough and upon all accounts as good as that already planted"; and asking for grant to be used in assisting settlers, "even though it were only a third or fourth part of what has been granted to Georgia". Mar. 30, 1739.

Copy of treaty made with rebellious (maroon) negroes. Mar. 1, 1738/9. Further papers on special taxation of Jews.

"Account of all Receipts and Payments of all Publick Money from the 29th Septbr. 1735, to the 29th Septbr. 1738."

Letter from Sharpe, agent for Jamaica, requesting confirmation of a number of acts, of which one (for "quieting possessions") was passed in 1731, and two in 1733. July 16, 1740. Petition to Board from Sharpe on same subject, claiming that failure of Board to report on acts relating to land tenure is retarding settlement. Undated. Read Dec., 1741. Instructive letter on same subject from Trelawney. Nov. 21, 1741.

Letter from Trelawney, referring to recent printing of laws of Jamaica. Dec. 14, 1740.

Order of committee of Council for additional instruction to governors of all states where acts imposing gunpowder duty exist, demanding strict enforcement, and sending of statements on methods of enforcement, with amounts collected. Colonies concerned are Jamaica, Barbados, the Bermudas, N. H., and Va. Apr. 9, 1741.

Three lists of persons naturalized under "An Act for Naturalizing such Foreign Protestants and others therein mentioned as are Settled, or shall Settle in any part of His Majesty's Colonys in America". Persons concerned are nearly all Jews, mainly with Portuguese or Spanish names.

Order in Council for sending to governor of Jamaica (as to other colonial governors) of additional instruction on colors to be carried by vessels having "private commissions or letters of marque issued by him". Sept. 8, 1741.

Accounts of finances similar to those sent by Gregory (vide vol. 22), with answers to special queries as to settlement, cultivation, quit-rents, and population. Forwarded by Trelawney, Nov. 21, 1741.

Representation for confirmation of nine acts, passed 1731 to date. Feb. 20, 1741/2.

24. 1743-1748.

Letters from Trelawney, with enclosures, on British and Spanish plans and operations in island of Ruatán, and in Bay of Honduras generally. Dec. 19, 1743; Nov. 24, 1745; Aug. 9, 1747.

Id., on impressment of merchant seamen in Jamaica. Dec. 24, 1743; Mar. 21, 1745/6.

Lists of persons naturalized.

Orders in Council for sending of infantry and ordnance stores to Jamaica, which "is now become the grand Repository of Goods to be vended in that Part of the World". Extent of Jamaica's contribution to her own defense at this time partially shown. Sept. 6, 1744; Mar. 27, 1746; June 3, 1747.

Papers on grants of gold or silver mines.

Letters from Trelawney, endorsing enclosed address from council and assembly, asking that chancery jurisdiction be vested in commissioners appointed by the king for that purpose. June 18, 1746; Oct. 14, 1747.

Id., containing interesting account of internal politics. July 14, 1747.

Petition of number of planters against special taxes on absentees. Referred to Board Feb. 17, 1746/7. Other papers.

Letter from Trelawney, asking to be instructed not to permit use of money collected as quit-rents for any purpose other than completion of fortifications. Nov. 14, 1747.

25. 1748-1753.

Letter from Trelawney, with enclosures, on Spanish raids on coast, and weakness of colony through absenteeism. Jan. 19, 1747/8.

Id. Taking of Port Louis in Hispaniola; attack on Santiago de Cuba; and desirability of employing black troops. Mar. 12, 1747/8; Apr. 15, 1748.

Id. Retention at Cuba of fugitive slaves. July 4, 1751. Correspondence with governor of Cuba enclosed.

Id. Proposes negotiations with Darien Indians, describes conditions on Mosquito Coast, and urges establishment of civil government there. May 7, Oct. 7, 1748; Apr. 14, 1750; July 17, 1751.

Id. Suggests disallowance of triennial act recently passed. May 10, 1748.

Order in Council, approving additional instruction to forbid governor to assent to any bill imposing extra tax on absentees, without suspending clause. June 30, 1748.

Letter from Trelawney. Foregoing order, condition of militia, lack of currency, and fall in price of sugar. June 8, 1749.

Letter from Bedford, enclosing address from governor, council, and assembly, asking that instruction regarding taxes on absentees be revoked. Mar. 19, 1749/50.

Two letters from Trelawney. Financial conditions produced by fall in price of sugar on signing of preliminaries of peace, and lack of currency have made people prefer possible capture to certain ruin entailed in providing for defense; and have rendered it advisable that import duties on negroes be permitted. June 8, 1749.

Id., enclosing account of negroes imported and exported, and numbers sold to planters, 1739-1749. July 1, 1749.

Id., enclosing address of governor, council, and assembly on trade of northern colonies with French sugar islands, and, in particular, "a most Pernicious Intercourse and Commerce between the French of Hispaniola and your Majesty's Colony of Rhode Island". Other enclosures, relating mainly to capture of the Enterprise, examination of her master, Richard Mumford, before assembly, and correspondence between "M. L'Cholet" of Santo Domingo and Mr. Nicols of R. I. Dec. 4, 1749.

Lists of persons naturalized, distinguishing Jews.

Letters from Trelawney, explaining that need of money has forced him to assent to bill placing money raised in hands of commissioner instead of those of receiver general. Apr. 10, 1750.

Opinions of Matthew Lamb. On act placing tax on negroes, with special tax for absentees. Nov. 2, 1748. On jurisdiction of Bishop of London in Jamaica. Jan. 28, 1749/50. On acts, regarding tenure of judges; placing tonnage duty for fortifications; for quieting possessions; and "for Choosing the Members of the Assembly of this Island by Ballot, and for the more effectual Preventing Abuses and Indirect practices in Elections". Nov. 20, 1752. On acts appointing commissioners to receive public money. (Stated that one act was designed in part to prevent frauds by persons trading to northern colonies.) Feb. 6, 1750/1; June 6, 1753.

Letter from Trelawney, on dealing with exorbitant grants of land. These now causing some discontent. He sees for first time possibility of obeying instructions on this point. Also, threat to place matter before Parliament has had some effect. Suggests tax on uncultivated land, though many in island fear precedent of any land tax. Sept. 16, 1751.

Letter from Holderness, sending copy of address of House of Commons to the crown, desiring that directions be given to Board to lay before Parliament account of settlement, land laws, trade, fortifications, etc., of Jamaica. Mar. 28, 1752.

Order in Council, approving representation of Board for repeal of act limiting duration of assemblies. June 30, 1752.

Letter from Trelawney, on acts recently passed. Act for restoring credit of island very important in that real estate applied for first time to payment of debts. Tried to obey instructions in having suspending clause inserted, but "that is a point they never can be brought to". Succeeded only in having operation deferred. Regarding act giving judges tenure during good behavior, "a standing body of planters made judges for life would have a much greater influence and authority in this Island than the Governor and council appointed by His Majesty". Planters dislike idea of judicial appointments from England. Mar. 25, 1753.

Id., sending account of island, which includes statement of laws made since 1734 on land grants, cultivation, and encouragement of newcomers, and on operation of these laws; also brief statement of trade with northern colonies. Aug. 15, 1752.

Id. Suggests repeal of clause of act of 25 Car. II. which compels merchants from northern colonies to pay duties on clearing out from Jamaica. Considers this one reason for extensive trade of northern colonies with Hispaniola. Aug. 15, 1752.

Letters from Gov. Knowles. These give clear and detailed description of enforcement of acts of trade in Jamaica in entrance and clearance of vessels, and point out changes made or projected. Habitual understatement of tonnage in registers, for avoidance of duties. Descriptions of, and statistics on: trade of North Americans, as well with French islands as with Jamaica; illicit trade at Jamaica; loss of currency through decline of trade with Spaniards; unsatisfactory condition of fortifications; success of assembly in making itself preponderant element in government of Jamaica. Suggests remedies for many of these conditions. Nov. 18, 1752; Jan. 10, 1753. Enclosed: copy of "Declaration concerning a Clandestine Trade carried on between Philadelphia and the French Sugar Colonies"; and list of ordnance stores required at Jamaica.

"An Humble Address of the Council and Assembly of Jamaica relative to the present State of that Island": military weakness; large sums raised by inhabitants for defense; loss of Spanish trade; lack of currency; pernicious effects of trade of northern colonies with Hispaniola and other foreign settlements (statistics given); need for better protection and for outside assistance in planting and settlement, etc. Ask for total exclusion of French produce from northern colonies, and other changes. Nov. 22, 1752. Enclosures. (Important.)

Order of committee of Council, referring foregoing to Board, and ordering such parts of it to be incorporated with "state" of Jamaica, now being prepared for House of Commons, as Board may think necessary. Feb. 20, 1753.

Copies of letters, Knowles to Holderness, on events on Mosquito Coast. Jan. 1, Mar. 26, 1753.

Opinions of attorney general and solicitor general on acts concerning tenure of judges, election of members of assembly by ballot, quieting possessions, regulating fees of provost marshal, etc. June 22, 1753.

Petition of receiver general of Jamaica against recent acts providing for payment of public monies to commissioners. 1753.

"An Account of Gun Powder Received on the Duty of Tonnage on all ships and Vessels that arrive at Jamaica of One Pound of Gun Powder per Ton, as appears by their Registers. In Pursuance of the Revenue Law passed April 1728." Sept. 29, 1745-Mar. 25, 1753. Yearly totals.

"An Account of the State of His Majesty's Revenue in Jamaica as it stood on the 25th of March 1753."

26. 1753-1754.

Letter from Knowles. Complains of improper procedure in entering and clearing of ships, and of preponderant influence of assembly in government. Despairs of any success as regards use of suspending clause. Assembly's recent bill to exclude all officers of the crown from council and assembly passed because some of said officers are properly servants of the two houses, and inclusion of one more patent officer in council would have given crown officials control there, removing necessary supervision of their activities. Sept. 13, 1753.

Various papers on disallowance of ten acts: giving judges of supreme court tenure during good behavior; quieting possessions; establishing use of ballot in elections for assembly; appointing commissioners of nisi prius and enlarging jurisdiction of justices of the peace; regulating proceedings of provost marshal; excluding certain officials from council and assembly; providing subsistence for troops through temporary deficiency act and temporary duties on wines and spirits, etc.

Papers of varied interest on suit brought in court of chancery against Edmund Hyde, member of council, for non-payment of legacy from estate for which he was executor. Hyde suspended from council for circulation of paper reflecting upon court of chancery. Appeal in case carried to Privy Council. Papers give rare and valuable information on laws of property, current system of long extended credit, interest rates, etc. Of particular interest are: (1) inventory of negroes and plantation utensils on estate in question, with values; and (2) inventory and appraisement of all goods and chattels, rights and credits of testator, including negroes, Spanish currency, etc., and long list of debts due, with particulars as to how each was incurred, what interest paid, etc.

Petition of merchants, factors, and agents of Jamaica, praying for removal of seat of government to Kingston. Forwarded by Knowles, Feb. 5, 1754. Long list of signatures.

Letter from Knowles, complaining that in Jamaica royal prerogative is "scarcely acknowledged". Feb. 13, 1754.

27. 1754.

Letter from Knowles. Disputes with assembly over latter's refusal to frame bills in compliance with governor's instructions as to custody of public money, period for which subsistence money should be granted to troops, and use of suspending clause. Jan. 12, 1754.

Account of contingent charges of government, met from proceeds of deficiency bill, and duties on rum and negroes.

"Account of the value of the Produce of the Island of Jamaica in the Year 1753, as taken from the Collector and Naval Officer's Books, and the justest Computation that could be got." Incidentally gives rate of currency and "The Contingent Charges of Estates which is $\frac{1}{4}$ of the value of their produce and 12 p. Ct. likewise for getting home their Commodities to Market".

Account of yearly collection under revenue act, with calculations on average per capita income and taxes, and estimates of amounts spent in encouraging settlement of white population.

Detailed "statement of His Majesty's Revenue in the Island of Jamaica on the 27th of October 1753".

Detailed list of appropriations under annual money-bills passed since Apr. 27, 1745.

List of bonds in receiver general's office, with amounts of principal and interest involved in each case.

Extracts from minutes of council, Sept. 18–Nov. 25, 1753; and of assembly, Jan. 6–Nov. 25, 1753.

Letter from James Gerrard, on illicit trade between Scotland and Jamaica, whereby continental manufactures are introduced into the colony. Jamaica, Feb., 1754.

Letters from Knowles. Invasion of royal prerogatives by justices of supreme court in holding courts without authorization. Apr. 10, 18, 1754.

Id., on new maroon insurrection. Mar. 12, 1754.

Papers on removal of seat of government to Kingston.

28. 1754–1755.

Letter from Knowles. Severe punishment inflicted on a stranger for "inveigling" a negro. June 20, 1754.

Accounts of revenue balanced to Mar. 25, 1754.

Letter from Knowles. Courts of nisi prius held in spite of disallowance of act for appointment of commissioners of nisi prius, on alleged belief that act remains in force until royal disallowance received in form. June 24, 1754.

Id., sending report of proceedings on two Spanish vessels seized for illegal trade. June 25, 1754.

Jamaica Courant. June 22–29, 1754.

Papers on dismissal of attorney general for declining, "on frivolous excuses", to attend the governor when ordered.

Papers on removal of seat of government to Kingston, giving information on internal politics, and extensive lists of names. Change in location alleged to be for purpose of transferring control of island from landed interest to "factors of Bristol, Liverpool and the noble kingdom of Scotland". Bitter feeling and insults to governor. Order kept by troops.

Papers on quarrels of governor with justices of supreme court, who claim position of justices of king's bench in England.

Letter from Knowles, sending "state" of island. Brief, but accompanied by valuable tables, showing:

- (1) For each plantation in St. Andrew's parish name of plantation and of owner, total acreage, acreage devoted to each principal product, to provisions, to pasture, and to woodland, number of white servants, negroes, and cattle.
- (2) Account of white families and artificers introduced under acts of Dec. 2, 1749, and Nov. 27, 1752, showing name and extent of each family, etc.
- (3) Account of white persons who came to island under acts of May 15, 1732, May 21, 1743, July 2, 1747, and Oct. 27, 1750, showing for each family the number, names, dates of patents, expenses involved, number of acres received, etc.
- (4) Report of committee of assembly on encouragement of white settlers. Oct. 21, 1752.
- (5) Receipts and expenditures connected with works at Bath.
- (6) Accounts of forts.
- (7) Bonds (escheat and quit-rents) in receiver general's office, with account of what is due on them. Aug. 20, 1754.
- (8) "Dockets of the Patents of Land vested in His Majesty for the use of the New Comers by virtue of the Laws made for Encouragement of new Settlers since 1734."
- (9) "A List of Ships that have entered at Jamaica from Africa between the 22nd September 1752 and 25 September 1754 with the Number of Negroes imported and exported." Gives names of vessels and masters, dates, persons to whom negroes consigned, etc.

Answers to queries of Board of Trade, with particulars of legal and illegal trade in various branches, consumption of British manufactures, natural produce, manufactures, revenues, land system, defense, population, etc.

29. 1755-1757.

Papers on disputes of Knowles with assembly over use of suspending clause, raising, custody, and expenditure of public money, and denial by assembly of right of the crown to issue writs for election without message from assembly.

Opinion of attorney and solicitor general respecting four acts on removal of seat of government. Governor has exceeded instructions in assenting. Dec. 27, 1754.

Letter from Henry Fox, with list of papers for which House of Commons had addressed the crown. Papers cover disputes of Knowles with assemblies. Jan. 26, 1756.

Addresses and representations of council and assembly on latter's disputes with governor and council. In particular, on propriety of

- recent dissolutions of assembly and alleged official influence in elections. Sept.-Nov., 1756.
- Letter from Lieut.-Gov. Moore, sending depositions on treatment of French prisoners. Oct. 1, 1756.
- Address of lieutenant governor, council, and assembly on defense of island. Oct. 15, 1756.

Letter from Lyttelton, on flags of truce. July 3, 1762.

Id. Proceedings in assembly on his recommendation that it repass certain acts after elimination of provisions objected to by Board of Trade. Assembly resolved that "they are by no means disposed to submit their sentiments to the determination of Their Lordships, nor ever will at any time suffer them in any respect to direct their procedure by any proposal or decision whatever". Assembly further proceeded to appoint committee of inquiry into number of acts "which appear not to have been reported upon by the Board of Trade", since 1725, "intending, as I am well informed, to ground thereupon a charge against Your Lordships' board of having neglected to have laid many of their laws before the King". Has prevented further measures by prorogation; "but I must observe that I have not even the Council with me upon this occasion". In spite of assurances of loyalty, "there is nevertheless, so far as I am able to judge, such an eager desire to be free from those restraints which the wisdom of His Majesty's Councils have put them under, in common with the rest of His Majesty's colonies . . . and such an aspiring endeavor to acquire in their assemblies . . . the same powers and privileges as are enjoyed by the British House of Commons, as I humbly conceive may well deserve the consideration of His Majesty's Ministers". This attitude especially shown in persistent refusal to insert suspending clauses, and attempts of assembly to get its way through refusal of supplies. Other constitutional questions also reviewed at length. Oct. 13, 1762.

Id. Sends resolution of assembly accusing Board of "misrepresentation of the constitution of this colony", and defines at length opinion of assembly as to its proper relations with the crown. Oct. 24, 1762.

Papers on Hamilton's dispute with assembly. 1716.

Report of Board of Trade on memorial of South Sea Co. 1716.

"Extracts of Minutes of Council and Journal of the Assembly of Jamaica, Letters and other Papers in the Office of Trade and Plantations in relation to the memorandum delivered in by Mr. Pitt." Pitt asks to be informed: whether assembly has power to adjourn itself; whether council has right to amend money-bills; whether assembly may appoint persons other than receiver general to collect public monies; and what shall be done to subsist troops if assembly refuses to provide for them. He asks to be instructed to recommend to assembly repayment of money advanced for subsistence to soldiers; and inquires what ought to be done regarding other debts of government of Jamaica not provided for, and towards securing more settlers and increasing the permanent revenue. He also asks about privilege of members of council and assembly in suits at law, application of real estate to payment of debts, and proper attitude of governor towards raising subscriptions to solicit affairs of island in Great Britain. He requests that ships of war may be sent to Jamaica and placed under orders of governor; and that governor have power to appoint clerk and other officials of assembly. The "Extracts" supply hundreds of precedents on these points, dating back to 1662, and otherwise furnish in part answers to questions raised. 1716. 58 pp. (Valuable.)

Papers on piracy, some not noted elsewhere. 1716-1717.

50. 1787-1821.
- Contains some papers relating to the Mosquito Shore.
51. 1704-1721. Letter from Handasyd, no. 20. Practically identical with letter to the Board of the same date. Apr. 9, 1710.
- Id.*, no. 22. Quite different in parts from letter to the Board of the same date. Deals largely with condition of British war-vessels and their probable success. Other parts of the letter quite similar. In general, difference pronounced. Few subjects discussed and those mostly have to do with war, numbers and plans of naval forces on both sides, capture of enemy merchantmen, etc. June 4, 1710.

Occasional letters of the Board to the Secretary of State show that both, as well as the island authorities, were interested in the Spanish trade. English vessels engaged in the Spanish trade disturbed by French privateers, etc.

Attorney general of Jamaica dies. The governor appoints his successor by patent under the great seal of the island during her Majesty's pleasure. On this Handasyd writes not only to Dartmouth as Secretary of State but to Rochester as "my lord President".

Copy of an act for quieting possessions.

Careful watching of Spanish galleons, especially at Cartagena (and sometimes Porto Bello), and plans for capture.

Correspondence with the Secretary of State shows more apparent humility and desire to be conciliatory than that with the Board. Much request for future patronage, etc.

Letter of the governor of Cartagena to the viceroy of New Spain.

No. 29. Movements of Ducasse, trade at Porto Bello, superior strength of the French in the W. I., etc. May 3, 1711.

Papers on dispute of governor and assembly on the right of adjournment. The Board transmits a memorial from planters and merchants, on defenseless state of the island, etc.

Hamilton wishes to have sole right to nominate for the council.

Copy of memorial of council and assembly to the crown concerning duties on prize goods.

Information on governors of the various Spanish possessions in the W. I., their relations with the French, with one another, etc. Claim that Spanish governor of Hispaniola tried to entice Irish papists from the British islands.

The Spanish governor of Hispaniola is being sent to England in one of her Majesty's ships, with his papers.

Letters on appointments to the council and to patent offices, etc.

A certain man accused of high treason for trading with the enemy; but the attorney general of Jamaica holds that he cannot be tried for that offense anywhere but in G. B. He is therefore sent to England.

At times the governor states specifically his avoidance, in writing the Secretary of State, of many matters covered in his letters to the Board, since the former will be informed when necessary, etc.

The matters on which the Secretary is especially to be informed are those of a "national" character. "National" matters include accounts of Spanish trade, and denunciations of the British privateers, whose violence endangers the continuance of this trade.

Negotiations of the governors with the governors of foreign colonies reviewed. Copies of the correspondence, e. g., on exchange of prisoners, sometimes added.

Particulars of Hamilton's quarrel with the admiral concerning the taking and disposal of French prisoners (given also in the original correspondence of the Board). Quarrel seems to have hinged in reality on jealousy concerning the trade with the French which the governor of Jamaica was attempting to open up, even before the signature of peace, and which war-vessels had already commenced.

Complaint that the squadron has gone to Bluefields, which is too far from Jamaica to make possible the protection either of the island or of its trade.

Complaints that vessels of the squadron have acted improperly to Spanish vessels in seizing them in spite of the truce, etc., while on the other hand the island gets no protection against Spanish privateers.

The scattered papers of dates after Mar., 1713, are of little significance.

Many papers on quarrels with French and Spaniards on seizures of vessels and reprisals for same at Windward Islands, Hispaniola, and elsewhere. In particular, correspondence on seizure, by Spaniards from Cuba, of three vessels homeward bound from Jamaica, as being too near Havana and as carrying logwood, bars of gold, and Spanish coins. Redress refused. 1737.

Letter from commander of H. M. S. Antelope, explaining refusal to inform president and council of Jamaica of seizures at Hispaniola. His orders require him to send information to Secretary of State through his superior officers. Dec. 27, 1736.

Copy of letter from Kingston, reporting preparations for war and provocative answers to demands for redress for seizures by Spaniards at Cuba. Calls attention to reports that agent of South Sea Company at Jamaica is importing flour from N. Y. for Spaniards, and procuring vessels to be used as Spanish privateers. Unsigned. Feb. 20, 1737/8. Other papers on alleged preparation for war by Spaniards.

Letter from Lyttleton, sending list of "public instruments" (to be taxed under Stamp Act). Dec. 11, 1764.

62. 1764-1767.

Important group of papers on complicated series of disputes between governor and assembly, arising, at time of Stamp Act troubles, on question of privilege, and extending to many other matters. Among points raised, investigated, and argued are: origin of parliamentary privileges claimed by assembly; whether privilege extends under any circumstances to personal property of members; whether person committed to custody by order of assembly may be released during session through writ of habeas corpus or in any manner other than by its own warrant; whether it may be contended that no question of authority of assembly may be raised in chancery, assembly being a higher court; and whether Habeas Corpus Act actually constitutes part of laws of Jamaica. Refusal of assembly to proceed with business until acknowledgment of its right to certain privileges is made, and reparation for alleged breaches of privilege given brings new questions: whether assembly is bound to repay advances made by Treasury for additional subsistence of troops (to extent of additional subsistence customarily furnished by assembly) during time when assembly is prevented by dissolutions from passing supply-bills. Papers show attempts of government to settle, by replacement of governor, vacating of proceedings in chancery, and consent to future acknowledgment of privilege in personal property. They show also cost and methods of subsisting troops, etc. 1764-1767.

Letter from Lyttleton, on seizure by collector at Kingston of French wines and brandies, and other prohibited goods. Feb. 21, 1765.

Fla. to obtain satisfaction in case of schooner Britain of Md., John Steele master, bound from Potomac to New Orleans. Vessel, entering in distress, was seized and plundered, and passengers imprisoned. 1770. Papers include letters of Lieut.-Gov. Durnford to governor of Vera Cruz and viceroy of Mexico.

66. 1770-1771.

Letter from Trelawney, on threat of Hillsborough to lay matter of Treasury requisition before Parliament. Has not informed assembly of threat, because not ordered to do so; and because "it was moreover thought by those who best know the temper of Assemblies here that anything which could by the least possibility be construed into a threat had better be suppressed". Although some influential persons were confidentially informed of the threat, assembly persists in refusing to pay. Expresses satisfaction that the crown will avoid pronouncement in dispute on appropriation of surplus revenue. Light doubloons (worth only three pistoles) "are supposed to be coined for the most part at Rhode Island" and are brought into island by N. Am. traders. Nov. 24, 1770. Enclosures. Am. and Spanish colonies, and measures taken against same; rapid and dangerous increase of ratio of blacks to whites; vulnerability of island to attack; numbers of French and Spanish troops in Santo Domingo, Cuba, and other colonies; and suggested remedies for some of these conditions. Jan. 3, 1774.

Letter from Gov. Keith. Fresh dispute between council and assembly over appropriation of surplus revenue. Feb. 18, 1774. Dartmouth's reply. June 4, 1774.

Id. Danger of attack from maroons. Defenseless condition of island. Apr. 22, 1774.

Id. Complains that ordnance stores recently supplied have been almost useless, although agent is ready to buy stores from Board of Ordnance. June 11, 1774.

Id. Announces publication of circular of Apr. 6, "for the information of those who may be concerned in carrying on commerce with the Province of Massachusetts Bay". June 23, 1774.

- Id.* Sends and endorses petition of coffee planters, who complain that N. Am. colonies are supplied with coffee from Hispaniola, and that British import duties on coffee are too high. Oct. 4, 1774.
- Dartmouth to Keith. Promises to confer with Commissioners of Customs on coffee duties. Sends copies of memorials from merchants of London, Bristol, and Liverpool, complaining of import duties on negroes. Dec. 10, 1774.
70. 1774-1775.
- Keith to Dartmouth, on tranquillity of colony, and settlement of dispute on appropriation of surplus. Nov. 19, 1774.
- Id.* Forwards petition to his Majesty adopted by assembly Dec. 24, 1774, on behalf of N. Am. colonies. Text of petition is given in full in Bryan Edwards, History of the West Indies. Requests that the king "will be pleased, as a common parent of your subjects, to become a mediator of your American and European subjects, and to consider the latter . . . as equally entitled to your protection and the benefits of the English Constitution, the deprivation of which must dissolve that dependence on the parent state which is our glory to acknowledge". Encloses text of petition and describes circumstances of passage. Jan. 4, 1775.
- Dartmouth to Keith. The "indecent, not to say criminal conduct of the Assembly", in passing the petition of Dec. 24, 1774, "may probably lead to measures of a very serious consequence". Forbids Keith, upon pain of removal, to assent to greater duties on negroes than those in force at commencement of 1774. Board of Trade is now to consider what measures may be necessary to quiet alarms occasioned by restrictions placed at Jamaica on slave-trade. Mar. 3, 1775.
- Id.* Sends disallowance of act imposing extra duties on importation of negroes, and complains that assembly, "in justice and humanity", should make better provision for garrison. July 5, 1775.
- Letters from Keith. Reports firm loyalty of Jamaicans as a whole, and argues that dangerous increase in ratio of blacks to whites and necessity of larger appropriations for increased garrison explain imposition of heavier duties on negroes. May 16, June 12, 1775.
- Stephen Fuller to committee of correspondence. Opposition in England is due to increased import duties on slaves. Describes investigation held before Board of Trade on memorials and petitions from African Company, and merchants of London, Liverpool, and Bristol. Dec. 24, 1774.
- Answers to customary queries of Board. Unusually detailed and valuable. Jan., 1774.

106. 1801.

Letter from Lieut.-Gov. Nugent, with reference to Santo Domingo. Aug. 15, 1801.

Id. Same subject. Encloses undated extract of letter from Edward Corbet, reporting arrival of American vessel at Jacmel from France bearing a cargo admitted to be French property. Sept. 5, 1801.

Id. Delay in extending commerce to remaining ports owing to death of Adm. Lord Hugh Seymour; "the American Vessels having for a considerable time had free access to the Ports in question". Constant correspondence maintained between the British envoy in America and Mr. Corbet, and between Mr. Corbet and Mr. Lear, the American consul general in Santo Domingo. Sept. 27, 1801.

- Id.* Oct. 11, 1801. Encloses letter from Edward Corbet, Sept. 9, 1801, covering "Copy of the only Correspondence I have had with Mr. Lear", viz.: letter from Edward Stevens to Edward Corbet, July 5, 1801; Edward Corbet to Tobias Lear, Aug. 10, 1801, sending twenty blank passports; Edward Corbet to Tobias Lear, Aug. 27, 1801, with reference to schooner Poisson Volant, which has passport to Jeremie, to which port he is not yet authorized to grant passports.

Encloses also letter from Edward Thornton to Edward Corbet, May 19, 1801, asking that causes of capture of vessels may be sent to him to avoid misrepresentations. Also letter from same to same, expressing regret at failure hitherto to grant passports to American and British vessels proceeding to the southern ports. He has to explain the difficulty to the new administration of the United States "(which at the best cannot be regarded as partial to Great Britain)". He assumes that "many of the recent captures made by His Majesty's Ships of American Merchantmen on the South side . . . must be imputed to the want of regular Passports". The new President professes "impartial neutrality", hence recall of Mr. Stevens, who was considered "too much in the Interests of Great Britain", and appointment of Mr. Lear. May 18, 1801.

Encloses also letter from Edward Corbet to Maj.-Gen. Nugent, reporting commencement of practice "of American Vessels proceeding to and from Jamaica to this Island". He has represented the matter to the American consul. Sept. 26, 1801.

- Id.* Reports assent of Adm. Montagu to opening of remaining ports of late French part of Santo Domingo. Transmits "Account of the Commerce of St. Domingo" (not enclosed), whence it appears that "the Americans no longer consider themselves bound by our joint Treaty with Toussaint". Nov. 1, 1801.

- Id.* Agreement made with M. Bunel for opening of remaining ports, including "that the Americans shall be confined . . . to the Terms of the Treaty made jointly between the British Government and America, and General Toussaint". Nov. 7, 1801.

Draft to Maj.-Gen. Nugent. Secret. Information of French designs to retake Santo Domingo. Requires recall of Mr. Corbet. Downing Street, Nov. 18, 1801.

- Id.* Private and confidential. French designs to retake Santo Domingo. No obstacle to be placed in their way; no supplies to be given either to French or to Toussaint. Downing Street, Nov. 18, 1801.

Letter from Lieut.-Gov. Nugent. Cessation of negotiations relating to Santo Domingo; Toussaint informed that strict neutrality will be observed; licenses to trade no longer granted; Toussaint furnished by Americans "with every Article he wanted". Nov. 29, 1801.

- Id.* Encloses letter from Edward Corbet to W. L. Whitfield, Nov. 29, 1801, announcing former's recall. Dec. 21, 1801.

"Mr. Corbet's Correspondence 1801." Includes:

Letter from Robert Liston, on extension of trade to "such parts of the island as might be reduced by Toussaint". Idea of England and United States as to intercourse with Santo Domingo changed; originally perhaps they wished to restrict it as much as possible, the coast trade being left to the inhabitants; later they extended their aim because they realized "that a principal danger to be apprehended from the liberty of the negroes in St. Domingo and the possible independence of the island was the increase of their navigation". Nov. 4, 1800.

"Copy of the Proces verbal of the Installation of the Colonial Assembly of Saint Domingo at Port Republicain." Apr. 7, 1801.

Letter from Edward Corbet, urging that agreement with regard to Santo Domingo should either be carried out more liberally or abandoned; few prizes are to be obtained in "a Saint Domingo cruize", except American vessels whose condemnation will probably be reversed in England. June 17, 1801.

Letter from Edward Stevens, announcing his retirement owing to "the impaired state of my health". July 5, 1801.

"Note upon the necessity of enlarging the intercourse between Jamaica and the United States of America." Jan. 10, 1801.

Letter from G. Hibbert to Sir S. H. Clarke, setting forth views of planters and merchants on American trade; the merchants insist that "the Americans should in no instance become carriers to other Markets than their own of our Colony Produce". Dec. 14, 1801.

107. 1802.

Letter to Newcastle. Board divides all acts submitted into three classes, in order that immediate consideration may be given to those requiring it. "We take leave to observe to your Grace, that the fewer Acts there are confirmed, the greater will be the dependance of the Colonies upon the Crown; Of which the present state of the Island of Jamaica is an instance." July 1, 1724.

17. 1725-1734.

Important representation, on perpetual revenue act and other acts recently passed in Jamaica, with recommendations for confirmation or disallowance of fifteen acts passed in 1699, 1702, 1703, and more recently. Feb. 19, 1724/5.

Representation, showing that draft of revenue act has been sent to colony for passage. Text of act and suggestions for possible amendment enclosed. Draft makes provision for subsistence of regular troops stationed in Jamaica. May 4, 1726.

Representation, advising confirmation of permanent revenue act passed in 1728, although it makes no permanent provision for garrison. May 14, 1729.

Additional instruction to Portland, for suspending execution of judgments against which appeal is being made to Privy Council, until latter's decision is received. July 28, 1726.

Draft of Gov. Hunter's commission. Mar. 14, 1726/7.

Draft of Gov. Hunter's instructions, showing no changes not covered by additional instructions already sent. June 8, 1727. (Owing to the death of George I., neither these instructions nor commission above referred to were ever issued.)

C. O. 139: 1, 140: 1-67. SESSIONAL PAPERS.

By an order of the Jamaica assembly in December, 1792, the journals of that house, from its earliest institution, were to be collected and printed, after the style of the journals of the House of Commons. While missing materials for the first volume were being sought for and supplied from records in England, vol. II. was prepared and published in 1795, followed by later volumes, vol. I. not appearing until 1811. The first seven volumes extend to 1783, and a set of them is included in C. O. 140. It has therefore been possible when listing these volumes to make a brief comparison with those in print, the result of which is given in the foot-notes to the following pages.

C. O. 139: 1. 1661, June 18-1662, July 16. "Journal and Laws 1661-1679" (minutes and orders in council of various dates, with royal proclamation for encouraging planters, Dec., 1661), ff. 1-12.

³³ In both cases the printed volume is fuller in accounts and papers.

³⁶ In some cases, particularly Dec., this contemporaneous print gives accounts in full not found in the manuscript.

I. and northern colonies; legislative and other measures taken by islands to check trade of northern colonies with French; complaints by French of cruel and domineering treatment of French by British in neutral islands; French settlement at Dominica. July 17, 1736. Memorial from agent of St. Christopher on similar matters. Read Oct., 1736.

Letter from Newcastle, with enclosures on seizure of two French vessels at Montserrat by Mathew's sloop Pall Mall. Nov. 3, 1736.

Fane's opinion on recent act of Montserrat for preventing trade in those ports between British subjects and French: that said act attempts to explain and amend certain articles of treaty of 1686. Opinion also refers to French edict, 1727; and to complaint on same made in memorial presented, by direction of governor of Leeward Islands, to one of secretaries of state, Feb., 1735. Oct. 30, 1736. Letter from Coope, agent for St. Christopher, on same. Feb. 13, 1734/5. Memorial presented by agents for Antigua and St. Christopher on same subjects, and on general "depredations" of French in W. I. French edict, 1727, made all vessels approaching within one league of French island, whether or not inhabitable, liable to seizure without warning by French subjects under general letter of marque. Enforced at deserted islands. Presented to Newcastle, Apr. 22, 1736. Memorial from merchants trading to W. I. on French "depredations", reviewing developments since treaty of 1686; complaining that treaty is violated by French edict of 1727; and claiming that French exercise dominion over non-territorial waters. Memorial also states that Montserrat passed act making French vessels seizable within one league, and enforced act by seizure of vessels Fleurion and Fortune as only means of securing relief from French edict. Printed copy of French edict, 1727: Lettres Patentes du Roy en Forme d'Edit, concernant le Commerce Estranger aux Isles et Colonies de l'Amerique . . . Données à Fontainebleau au mois d'Octobre 1727. Memorial from society of merchants at Bristol, complaining of edict. Numerous related papers, including reports

Hart to Townshend, on Porto Rico and possibilities of expedition against it. May 8, 1729.

Letter to Harrington, discussing British title to St. Croix; with representation to the crown on same. June 27, 1733.

Letter from R. Coope, describing arrival at St. Thomas of Danish commission under Motte sent out for settlement of St. Croix. Aug. 28, 1734. Letter from Board of Trade on settlement of St. Croix. Sept. 12, 1734. Other papers.

Papers on weakness of British islands, and measures to be taken for strengthening them.

Letter from Hart, with copy of treaty of neutrality between Dutch and French for St. Martin and St. Bartholomew. Sept. 14, 1734.

Memorial to Newcastle, from secretary and inhabitants of Leeward Islands, stating: that Mathew's sloop has seized French vessels; that said vessels have been condemned in admiralty court; that one vessel was confiscated without trial; and that reprisals are feared. 1736. Complaint on same matter from Jamaica, where also reprisals were feared. 1737.

Accounts of depredations of Spanish privateers. 1737.

Proceedings in Privy Council on reports of unlawful acts by British, French, and Spanish vessels in W. I.

41. 1750-1806.

Letter from Board of Trade to Bedford, on preparation, in accordance with orders received, of commission and instructions for William Shirley and William Mildmay, nominated as "Commissarys by His Majesty for settling all the Points in dispute in America between the Crowns of Great Britain and France as well in relation to the Limits in North America, as to the four disputed Islands in the West Indies". Board desires time for study before complying with orders. Points "most agitated between the Crowns" are limits of Nova Scotia and British right to four disputed islands. Apr. 6, 1750.

Id., stating that Board, in obedience to orders, has prepared separate memorial, answering that part of French commissary's memorial which relates to French claims to Canceaux [Canso]. Dec. 10, 1750.

Lieut.-Col. Sharington Talbot to Secretary at War, on reluctance of people of Antigua to provide for defense. Oct. 24, 1750. Enclosures include address of council and assembly to governor of Leeward Islands.

State of garrisons left at St. Christopher and Antigua, Mar. 8, 1780.

"State and Disposition of the Army under the Command of His Excellency the Hon. John Vaughan, General and Commander-in-Chief", in Barbados, St. Lucia, St. Christopher, Antigua, St. Eustatius, and St. Martin, and on board ships-of-war; 5800, of whom 4200 fit for duty. Barbados, June 30, 1781.

Papers on government of Virgin Islands. 1782-1783.

Papers on internal affairs of St. Christopher. 1789.

"The Memorial, Principles, Propositions and Plan of John Drummond Esq. for the speedy Recovery and Reduction of the French Windward Islands." 1793. Detailed statement on military strength of said islands, prepared by Drummond and forwarded to Dundas, Sept. 3, 1793.

"Memorial of Isabella, Countess Dowager of Glencairn, formerly wife of the late Hon. William Leslie Hamilton, Attorney General of the Leeward Islands, . . . Sheweth that upon the defection of the American Colonies the Revolters were supplied with Military Stores by the disaffected Subjects in the Leeward Islands." The proximity of St. Christopher to St. Eustatius, "whither the disaffected resorted to carry on their Treasonable Practices with Security", made detection difficult. Petitioner, who incurred losses and asks reimbursement, has lost powerful advocates through deaths of Nelson and Pitt. 1809. Other papers include clipping from The Statesman, announcing that Lady Glencairn will publish appeal to nation, with all correspondence involved. Correspondence "completely implicates Mr. Perceval in the charge of having wantonly and invidiously aspersed the character of the ever-to-be-lamented Lord Nelson".

42. 1704-1725.

Papers on French plans for operations in W. I. culminating in attack on Montserrat, 1712. Intelligence of these plans secured in British islands. Mainly 1711 and 1712. List of individual losses sustained through French attack on Montserrat.

Papers on cartels with French. 1711.

Hart to Carteret, with enclosures on pirates. Mar. 24, 1723/4. Other papers.

Id., on Danish islands, enclosing correspondence of Hart with the governor of St. Thomas. July 10, 1724.

"Memorandum about St. Lucia." Unsigned. Undated.

43. 1727-1733.

Letter and memorial from Londonderry, on governor's additional salary. Dec. 8, 1727. Other papers.

Id., on cutting of logwood by British at St. Croix and St. Eustatius. Apr. 15, May 1, 1729. Other papers.

Collection of extracts from letters and other papers on St. Lucia. 1719-1730. Unsigned.

Papers on activities of French, and their attacks on British vessels, at St. Croix. 1729-1730.

Copy of additional instructions to the governor, on taking up residence at Antigua as "windermost" and most important of islands. Each island to contribute to house rent in proportion to fraction of year the governor spends there.

Papers on "neutral" islands, St. Lucia, Dominica, and St. Vincent. Yeamans to Newcastle on French settlements at Dominica and St. Lucia. July 11, 1730. Copy of letter, apparently from Duke of Montagu, on "the State and Trade of the French Islands". Received Aug., 1730.

Sir Philip Yorke's opinion that, since "the laying Siege to Gibraltar was an avow'd making Warr by Spain upon the Crown of Great Britain", seizure of Spanish vessel Sancta Reta stranded near Antigua, Feb., 1726, became legal. Other opinions.

Letters to Newcastle, from president of council at Nevis, on minor local hostilities with Spaniards at Virgin Islands. Also, on plundering by British inhabitants of Spanish vessel wrecked there, and murder of some of Spanish crew. 1731-1732.

Papers on seizure and condemnation of sloop Catherine of Boston. Probably 1729.

Sessional papers: assembly of Nevis, Jan. 1, 1730/1-Dec. 2, 1731; council of Nevis, Apr. 28-Dec. 2, 1731; council of St. Christopher, Oct. 1, 1730-Oct. 30, 1731; council of Antigua, Jan. 26, 1729/30-June 11, 1730; July 20, 1730-July 19, 1731.

44. 1734-1746.

Letter from Mathew. Measures of defense, strength of Leeward Island squadron, and military stores on hand. Jan. 17, 1733/4.

Id. Piracies of Spaniards from Porto Rico. Mar. 22, 1734/5. Depositions enclosed.

Memorial from agents for Antigua and St. Christopher, on depredations by French, and violations of treaty of 1686 involved in French edict of 1727. 1735. Appended are many papers, comprising depositions, copies of correspondence between Mathew and French governors, and extracts from treaty of 1686 and governor's instructions.

Papers on charges of improper seizures of French and Dutch vessels by Mathew's sloop, and on action of council respecting same. 1736-1737.

Papers on threatened negro insurrection at Antigua. 1736-1737.

"An Account of the several Applications made to His Majesty for stores for the Leeward Islands, Barbados, and Jamaica, since His Majesty's Accession to the Throne."

Copies of letters, Newcastle to Mathew, on declaration of war, and on large naval and military expedition under Adm. Vernon and Lord Cathcart to attack Spanish W. I. possessions. Directs raising of volunteers in W. I. and continental colonies. Hopes to secure 500 from Leeward and Virgin Islands. A "just share" of plunder and booty, and priority in grants of lands captured and retained, offered to recruits. Regular troops in Leeward Islands to remain there for defense. Apr. 30, July 4, Oct. 9, 1740.

Numerous papers on preparations for Cathcart's expedition, purchase of supplies partly at St. Eustatius, movements of French, and strength of defenses in the islands.

Letter from Fleming, on operations. "Our Northward forces Mett with bad weather soon after their departure", but eleven vessels passed on Nov. 14, and others have touched before or since. Nov. 24, 1740.

Extracts from Mathew to Yeamans, on building at Bermuda of privateers for enemy, Jan. 6, 1740/1.

Id., complaining of trade of continental colonists at St. Eustatius. "Benjamin Smith of Rhode Island Laden with Beef came a few days ago to this Island, Anchored in the Road to try the Markett, then went to St. Christophers for the same pretended purpose, thence to St. Eustatia and sold his Beef publicly there to a French Trader." May 29, 1741.

Affidavit of Mathew, on illegal trade between British and Danish islands; refusal of Dunbar, surveyor general, to check it by insisting on proper clearances. May 26, 1741.

Lieut.-Col. George Lucas's account of attack on Puerto Cabello by British and Dutch soldiers, sailors, and marines. Apr. 30, 1743.

Letter from Mathew. Capture of St. Bartholomew and French half of St. Martin, by forces including nineteen privateers from St. Christopher alone. Between war-vessels and privateers "the French in their Islands will Starve". July 20, 1744.

Copies of intercepted letters, sent during the war from Martinique to Richard Bradshaw, merchant at Cork. 1744.

Letter from Mathew. Movements of Caylus. Wretched condition of British troops in the W. I. Mar. 23, 1744/5.

Report of the "General Officers" to Lords Justices on condition of Lieut.-Col. Dalzell's regiment: strength, establishment, deficiencies in clothing and equipment, disbursements, recruiting, etc. Sent from Horse Guards, June 12, 1745. Signed by Cornwall, Phillip, Guise, Reade, Frampton, Blakeney, and Oglethorpe.

45. 1748-1752.

Mathew to Bedford, on "prohibition of Commerce between His Majesty's Subjects and those of the French King. . . . That evil chiefly concerns Bermuda, New York, Pensilvania and other Northern Colonys". The inhabitants of Providence supply Cap Français with provisions under cover of flags of truce. Hopes that St. Martin and St. Bartholomew can be retained after peace, to prevent French from gaining a footing "in the middle of this government". If this proves impossible, hopes they will go to France and not to Holland. Dutch islands have not only supplied enemy in war, but have done much injury in time of peace "by forwarding from their Port the illicit Trade carryd on between the worst of His Majesty's Subjects of the Northern Colonys and of these with the French". May 5, 1748.

Papers on settlement of the "neutral" islands. (Numerous and valuable.)

Mathew to Bedford. Depredations of French at Martinique, and still greater misdoings of Spanish at Porto Rico, where guarda costas seize vessels, not only in, but far outside, one league limit. Suggests that British naval vessels treat as pirates guarda costas encountered outside one-league limit. "Puerto Rico is the Chief Nest of Pirates and Searchers." Mar. 31, 1749. Deposition on French seizure enclosed.

Letter and memorial from Wavel Smith, secretary of Leeward Islands, on currency situation there. May, 1750.

Fleming to Bedford. Threatened negro insurrection at St. Christopher in imitation of that at Curaçao. Measures of security taken. Aug. 13, 1750.

Id. French frigate Galathea fired on at Nevis, Feb. 25, 1749/50, for refusing to give account of herself. Governor of Porto Rico refuses to give satisfaction for seizure of several British ships by Spanish privateers after conclusion of hostilities. Refuses also redress for escape of slaves to Porto Rico, which threatens seriously to discourage settlement of Leeward Islands. Spaniards make excuse of religion, christening runaway slaves immediately on landing. Assembly of Antigua insists on having part in ordering payment of public money. Nov. 10, 1750. Copies of Fleming's correspondence with governor of Porto Rico enclosed. Fleming to his Excellency Don Agustin Pareja, governor of Porto Rico, on retention of runaway slaves, whether for good of their souls, or perhaps because "it is imagined that a Leeward situation gives the advantage of laying hold of more of our slaves than we can of your's". May 21, 1751.

Many papers on plundering of ship Nuestra Señora of Guadeloupe, which went ashore on coast of N. C. with president of Santo Domingo and treasure worth £200,000 on board, 1750. President of Santo Domingo procured sloop and loaded treasure; but sloop and treasure stolen. Treasure buried at Norman Island, dependency of Tortola.

Papers on various disputes with Spaniards: cutting of wood at Crab Island; seizures for illegal trade; harboring by Spaniards of fugitive British slaves, etc.

Fleming to Bedford, on evacuation of French part of St. Martin, as ordered. June 26, 1751.

Petitions of councils and assemblies of four islands against French encroachments in four "neutral" islands, reviewing progress of French in each. 1751.

Petition of council and assembly of Antigua, that members of council should not sit in chancery as judges in cases to which they are parties. 1751.

Petition of council and assembly of St. Christopher for better protection by regular troops. 1750.

"A New and Correct Map of the Caribbee Islands." Colored. Shows country to which each belongs. 1751.

46. 1754-1760.²

Papers on question whether jurisdiction of admiralty court extends to case of captain of slave vessel Bristol, accused of murdering member of crew in African port, and now arrived at St. Christopher. 1754.

Letter from governor of Martinique and French Windward Islands to governor of Leeward Islands, complaining of seizure of two French vessels by British squadron on N. American coast, and of the "parti violent que les habitants de la nouvelle angleterre ont pris sur toutes nos côtes de la nouvelle france". Also Thomas's reply.

² Consists in considerable part of papers relating to Barbados and Bahamas, q. v.

Papers on appeals for arms and better fortifications.

Thomas to Fox. Capture of H. M. S. Warwick by French; naval strength of France and G. B. in the W. I. Mar. 25, 1756.

Thomas to Pitt. Arrival of eleven French ships-of-war at Martinique, French naval superiority in W. I., and danger to Leeward Islands. May 28, 1757. Lists of British and French ships-of-war enclosed.

Thomas to Holderness. Acknowledges orders to apprehend Hadden and Snooke, commanders of privateers belonging to N. Y. and Halifax. Hanging of Capt. White and three "accomplices" for seizure of King of Spain's "advice" boat. Nov. 7, 1757.

Thomas to Pitt. Engagement of H. M. S. Buckingham with three French men-of-war convoying sixteen vessels, chiefly Dutch, from St. Eustatius to Martinique; great assistance afforded by Dutch to French; report that Dutch are arming their ships. Nov. 20, 1758.

Representation to governor of Leeward Islands from president of court of vice-admiralty at Antigua, "and other his Majesty's Commissioners appointed for examining and adjudging High Treason, Piracy, Felonies and Robberies". Ask that William Pickles, under death sentence, be reprieved until royal pleasure be known. Pickles British subject, born in Philadelphia, lately resident at St. Eustatius, and captured while apparently conveying provisions to Martinique. His conviction necessary as warning to North Americans and Irish, who, if not warned, would soon carry provisions directly and openly to French islands. Privateers from N. Am. have convoyed American vessels carrying provisions to St. Eustatius and Spanish part of Hispaniola. But this the court's first conviction, and extenuating circumstances exist. 1758.

Thomas to Pitt. Preparations for attack on Guadeloupe. Encloses papers found on homeward-bound French vessel which show conditions in French islands. Apr. 27, 1759.

Id. Enemy privateers have declared that "they will give no Quarter to the Captains of such Merchantmen as shall make any resistance". Mar. 20, 1760. Encloses depositions on cruelty of privateer from Martinique, giving vivid details.

Id. "Illegal and iniquitous Trade" carried on by British subjects with enemy. Attempts of the governor to stop it in Leeward Islands "have been attended with such Success that many Vessells and Cargoes have been seized and condemned and some Persons have been sentenced to Death for Trading with the Enemy". But continental colonies and Ireland continue traffic. Certificates made out only for lumber and other articles landing of which in neutral islands not forbidden, while provisions taken in later at outports and carried to St. Eustatius, St. Croix, St. Thomas, and Curaçao. In other cases evasion of laws successful through connivance of officials who do not demand certificates on return. No law exists against exportation of beef, pork, etc., from Ireland to Dutch and Danish islands. Guadeloupe now channel for supplying Martinique and for sending French sugar to England as produce of Guadeloupe. Dec. 8, 1760.

Id. Illegal trade between St. Christopher and St. Eustatius in Dutch vessels which profess to enter St. Christopher for water. May 20, 1760.

47. 1761-1767.³

Thomas to Egremont. Complains that French are again putting into operation rule against foreign vessels approaching within one league of their coasts; and objects to renewal of permission to continental colonies to trade with French islands. Sept. 9, 1763. Encloses copy of decree of governor and intendant of Guadeloupe for preventing illegal trade.

Copy of letter from Capt. Knowles to Adm. Tyrrell, describing capture of ship Chance, Philadelphia to Cayenne, although cleared for Barbados. Papers show that "the French Agent when at Philadelphia had made an agreement with one Mr. Richie a Merchant there to supply the Colony of Cayenne with Provisions". Carlisle Bay, Apr. 1, 1765. Letter from Tyrrell to Halifax, on capture by Knowles of brigantine from Philadelphia, carrying letter from John Remsen of Philadelphia to governor and intendant of Cayenne. Letter refers to contract concluded June 1, 1764, for supply of provisions. But brigantine carried only tar, pitch, and turpentine and was condemned at Barbados for having these without bond. May 6, 1765.

Thomas to Halifax. He cannot transmit in time list of papers wanted in connection with Stamp Act. Jan. 16, 1765. Id., sending list. Apr. 11, 1765.

Id. Trade of continental colonies with French, and importation of French goods. "The Business of Forged Clearances, as from Anguilla, was happily detected by Mr. Gumbs, the Collector of that Port, and notice given to the Officers of the Customs in North America, though not so timely as to prevent all those Cargoes being admitted and sold as the Produce of Anguilla." Mar. 26, 1765.

Letters from Egremont and Halifax to Thomas on military matters: reduction of 38th Regt. at Leeward Islands to peace strength; relief of 38th Regt.; and system of rotation employed in relief of troops serving in America. 1763-1764.

Letters and depositions on arrival of French settlers and warships at Cayenne, and on other activities of French there.

Thomas to Conway. Distribution of stamped paper at Nevis and St. Christopher. "Mobs in both places had in the most riotous and tumultuous manner seized and burnt the Stamp Papers." At Antigua protection of distribution and paper by sentries prevented disturbance, although "it is easy to observe a general uneasiness and discontent in the People of all Ranks". Has offered reward for apprehension of leaders at Nevis and St. Christopher, but discontent so general that he has little hope of discovery. Dec. 21, 1765. Enclosed is letter from William Tuckett, distributor for Nevis and St. Christopher. Was knocked down, otherwise assaulted, and compelled to promise resignation. Does not dare to receive more paper.

Letter from Verchild, on stamp riots. No one injured in person or property. Leaders could not be discovered. June 14, 1766.

Id. Encloses address of council and assembly of St. Christopher, expressing thanks for repeal of Stamp Act. Sept. 9, 1766.

Letter to Gov. Woodley,⁴ announcing disallowance of act of St. Christopher establishing court of chancery. Mar. 5, 1768.

Letters from Woodley. Consternation in Montserrat over threat of negro insurrection planned to take place during St. Patrick's Day celebrations. Many particulars. Apr. 22, June 10, 1768.

49. 1769.

Letter from Woodley. Desires decision on question whether members of council may vote in elections of members of assembly. Members of council claim right to votes as freeholders, while members of assembly deny right on analogy of House of Lords. Feb. 7, 1769.

Id. Complains of weakness of forts and poor distribution of military stores in colony; proposes to send unserviceable cannon to the "Foundry" in England. Feb. 23, 1769. "State and Condition of Ordnance" enclosed.

Id. Sends, in compliance with orders, military and other information on Martinique and Guadeloupe; and complains of lack of co-operation by crown officials and local assemblies in provisions for security of Leeward Islands. May 10, 1769.

Hillsborough to Master General of Ordnance, enclosing Woodley's letters and signifying his Majesty's pleasure that cannon and stores now lying useless in Leeward Islands be turned over to the governor for use in forts and batteries, unless Master General of Ordnance thinks that this would interfere with his Majesty's service in any other respect. July 29, 1769.

that, since no indication of affair being serious had appeared, he had refused to allow use of torture in examination. Apr. 20, 1770.

Id. "Public dissension . . . rages at present with great violence in this little Island" (St. Christopher). Gives no particulars. Apr. 25, 1770.

Copies of letters from Capt. Garnier of H. M. S. Scarborough to Commodore Mann, giving military and other information on French islands and Porto Rico. Apr. 8, May 20, 1770.

Lieut.-Gen. Losack to Hillsborough. States that "the unhappy divisions" in St. Christopher originated in dispute as to whether councillors had franchise in elections of assemblymen. July 25, 1770. Other papers.

Id. Sends papers on dispute with captain of guineaman, who, though carrying slaves reported to have smallpox, refused to place his ship as directed by quarantine regulations, and, landing with some of his men, walked through town. Vessel was finally fired upon, some slaves being killed and one white seriously wounded. Captain claimed that "he had not a negro on Board but who had been inoculated a full month". Sept. 7, 1770.

Letter from Woodley. Sends petitions from councils and assemblies of St. Christopher, Montserrat, and Nevis, requesting that troops be sent, and offering to supply barracks and provision as Antigua does. London, Nov. 16, 1770.

Account of trial, in court of king's bench and grand sessions, of corporal and two other soldiers for murder of two sailors during riot of drunken sailors. Corporal convicted of giving word of command, and hanged. Others convicted of obeying, and sentenced to death, but reprieved till his Majesty's pleasure be known. Mar., 1769.

Lieut.-Gen. Losack to Hillsborough. Fears that acts of violence at St. Christopher can be prevented only by intervention of home government. Dec. 11, 1770.

Hillsborough to Losack. Conditions at St. Christopher are under consideration by Privy Council. Feb. 11, 1771.

Losack to Hillsborough. Leeward Islands hope for preservation of public tranquillity, being rendered so weak by decrease of white population and "disorder" of fortifications. It is difficult to recruit regiment stationed in islands "equal to the established Plan of Augmentation". Jan. 25, Feb. 28, 1771.

Copy of letter from Rear-Adm. Mann to Admiralty, sending information on strength of French and Spaniards in W. I. Mar. 29, 1771.

Losack to Hillsborough. Apr. 27, 1771. Two important enclosures:

- (1) Michael White, deputy lieutenant governor of Montserrat, to Losack, on impeachment, by members of assembly, of two justices of courts of king's bench and common pleas in council. Aug. and Sept., 1770. Articles of impeachment, extracts from minutes of council and assembly, etc., enclosed. Sept. 14, 1770.
- (2) Losack to White, "strongly" dissenting from propriety of impeachment, which "has given a wound to the Authority and Prerogative of the Crown. . . . To impeach is a species of power, which I cannot admit to be vested at any rate in an House of Assembly". Also assembly had no right to ask, nor White to grant, power to adjourn itself; and proceedings of time when they were not regularly sitting must be expunged from records. Also note to be made in council-book that permission given assembly to adjourn itself was null and void. Oct. 7, 1770.

Numerous enclosures include extracts from minutes of council and assembly, showing council's compliance with Losack's directions, and assembly's resistance and final compliance.

Hillsborough to Losack. Strongly endorses his action on impeachment of judges at Montserrat, but reminds him that governor's instructions allow him to delegate power of adjournment to assemblies pro hac vice when he considers it reasonable. June 8, 1771.

Representation of Lords of Trade on disputes at St. Christopher. It appears from act of 1727, on constitution of assembly, that members of council "have a clear right to vote in the Election of Members of the Assembly". June 6, 1771.

52. 1771-1772.

Maj. Dundas, 68th Regt., to Hillsborough, pointing out that royal pleasure not yet signified regarding two soldiers sentenced for murder and reprieved in 1769. Nov. 5, 1771. Hillsborough to Gov. Payne, sending pardon for soldiers. Jan. 11, 1772.

Payne to Hillsborough, complaining of packet service. Feb. 23, 1772.

Id. No cause for anxiety in any of the islands. Even in St. Christopher only "personal piques". No satisfaction to be had from Spaniards on seizure of Adventure of Antigua. July 31, 1772. Other papers on seizures by Spaniards.

53. 1772-1773.

Payne to Dartmouth. Methods of Spaniards in driving British settlers from Crab Island; further settlement of Virgin Islands; oppression, extortion, and incompetence in government of them. Hopes that they will receive same form of government as other islands, provided they consent to grant the 4½ per cent. duty. Has reason to believe they will do so. Jan. 20, 1773.

Dartmouth to Payne, sending orders for convening of assembly and appointment of council in Virgin Islands. July 5, 1773.

54. 1773-1774.

Payne to Dartmouth. Absenteeism and other social conditions; courts of chancery and judicial procedure generally; conditions in Virgin Islands. Oct. 6, 1773.

Proclamation, signed by Payne, announcing establishment of assembly and council for Virgin Islands and regulating elections for assembly. Nov. 30, 1773. (Printed.)

Correspondence between Vice-Adm. Parry and the governor of Porto Rico on British claim to Crab Island. 1774.

Payne to Dartmouth, on passage of act establishing the 4½ per cent. duty in the Virgin Islands. Payne finds a "too apparent Reluctancy . . . among all Ranks of People . . . to discharge their Covenant". Attempt made to establish custom of paying duty on hogsheads of sugar in custom-house at 600 lbs. weight, as is said to be done at Dominica. But, although hogsheads at Virgin Islands are considerably smaller than those in the Windward Islands, they average 1200 to 1400 lbs. Crown would thus be deprived of more than half the tax. Also gives much information on beginnings of government, and other affairs in Virgin Islands. Mar. 2, 1774.

- Id.* Sends unusually full replies to customary queries. June 26, 1774.
- Id.* Courts of chancery in islands, and "concern" of people over troubles in N. Am. "They applaud the wisdom of Parliament for the Steps which it has taken to express its own Resentment and reclaim the intoxicated Disposition of the Inhabitants of Boston." Generally considered that closing of port of Boston will bring inhabitants to proper sense of dependence. Hears of associations "for restraining every Branch of their Commerce with these islands". This would be fatal to islands. July 3, 1774.
- Id.* "General harmony and tranquillity" in all parts of his government. Oct. 10, 1774.
55. 1775-1776.
- Payne to Dartmouth. Packet service; escape of slaves to Porto Rico; perfect tranquillity in islands. Jan. 12, 1775.
- Letters from Lieut.-Gov. Nugent on conditions in Virgin Islands.
- Germain to Pres. Greathead, at St. Christopher, sharply reproving him for declining, on account of "doubts upon speculative points of law", to forbid exportation of powder, arms, and ammunition, and thus prevent N. Am. from being supplied. Dec. 23, 1775.
- Greathead to Dartmouth. Sends copy of proclamation forbidding exportation from St. Christopher of corn, rice, flour, and all other provisions, except those from G. B. Dec. 29, 1775.
- Several papers on arrest at Antigua of Charles Hobby Hubbard, passenger on brigantine Manners, which was forced by weather into Antigua while bound from London to Boston with provisions for navy. Hubbard accused of making seditious statements. Nineteen letters found in his bed, addressed to: "Doctor Jeffries in the Provincial Army at Cambridge near Boston"; "John Wendell Esq., Portsmouth near Boston"; Henry Brownfield, Thomas Lee, Byfield Lyde, Thomas Cushing, and William Mackay of Boston; Capt. William Brown, of Lincoln, New England; Thomas Martin of Portsmouth, N. H.; Dr. John Califf of Ipswich; Tobias Lear of Piscataqua; Thomas Russell, near Boston; Mrs. Storer, Dr. Edward Watts, and Simeon Mays of Falmouth, Casco Bay; and the Rev. Mr. Gordon, late of Jamaica Plain. One letter is addressed to John Hancock, Samuel and John Adams, and Generals Washington, Ward, Lee, and Putnam, and contains a cipher to be used for dispatches which may be sent to them. A second cipher also found. All letters sent by favor of Capt. Charles Hubbard. Hubbard will be sent to England in man-of-war, with witnesses. Enclosed are copies of seized letters. That to Hancock et al. promises that all information arriving in enclosed cipher (a clumsy and obvious substitution of numbers for letters) may be relied upon. Inner addresses on some letters show other addressees. William Lee writes from London to Thomas Cushing, Aug. 21, 1775, that Hubbard "seems to have taken some pains to learn the ministerial disposition with respect to America", and seems to be well informed. Letters in general deal with public opinion in England on colonies; with business; and with military preparations. "C. Do." writes Jeffries: "It is not the opinion of a few but the real fear of by far the greater part of the people in Engld. that the preparations now making by the K—— and his Ministers the War is ment to be carried on with the greatest vigour next Spring and that 30 000 or at least 25 Thousand men wh. Sr. Jeffry Amherst at their head will be ready to go out." Dec., 1775.

St. Christopher Gazette. Mar. 2, 1776.

Addresses of council and assembly of Virgin Islands containing strong protestations of loyalty. Apr. 6 and 9, 1776.

Letter from Greathead. Sends papers to show that Hubbard is violently insane, and has, by desire of attorney general for Leeward Islands, and with Greathead's consent, been sent to his wife and family in N. Am. June 5, 1776.

Naval officer's lists, St. Christopher and Nevis. Apr. 1–Sept. 27, 1775.

56. 1776–1777.

Letter from Greathead, enclosing correspondence with governor of St. Eustatius on insults to the British colors and assistance to "H. M. Rebel subjects". St. Christopher, Dec. 31, 1776. Enclosures:

Letter from Greathead to Johannes de Graaff, governor of St. Eustatius, making charges against the Dutch of supplying "all sorts of Provisions and warlike Stores . . . almost daily and publicly . . . to His Majesty's said rebellious subjects", and of permitting vessels to be "equipped and set forth in a Warlike Manner, from that Island, for the express and avowed purpose of cruizing against, and making prize of the Ships and properties of his peaceable and faithfull subjects"—in particular a sloop called the Baltimore Hero. Dec. 17, 1776.

Letter from Johannes de Graaff, denying knowledge of abuses alleged. St. Eustatius, Dec. 23, 1776.

Reply of Greathead. Dec. 26, 1776.

(The three letters listed above, and Greathead's of Dec. 31 in which they are enclosed, are printed in Missive van Repraesentant en Bewindhebberen der Westindische Compagnie, etc., 1779; see American Historical Review, VIII. 692, note 1, in art. "St. Eustatius in the American Revolution", by J. F. Jameson.)

Letter from Carter Braxton of Va. to a correspondent in Curaçao suggesting opening of trade: states trade to be opened between Willing and Morris, merchants of Philadelphia, and the writer and Mr. John Philip Meikle, merchant of Amsterdam. Sept. 28, 1776. Further correspondence on this subject.

Id. Encloses copies of previous letter and its enclosures, including those relating to correspondence between the governor of Guadeloupe and the deputy lieutenant governor of Montserrat on restitution of an American sloop. Jan. 31, 1777.

Petition to the king from owners of the sloop Reprizal on trade between rebellious colonies and W. I. Endorsed: "Antigua. Rec'd 25 Apr. 1717."

Letter from Greathead. Encloses correspondence with Danish commandant of St. Thomas and with Mr. Fahie commanding officer at Tortola, on action of one W. Stephens in pursuing a French sloop. May 6, 1777.

Letter from Gov. Burt. Information collected as to relations between rebels and governors of Martinique, Guadeloupe, St. Eustatius, and St. Croix. He understands that "the Governor of Martinique not only permits the American rebellious Privateers to bring all their Prizes into the Ports within his Government, . . . but that an Agent from the Congress, Mr. Bingham, Publicly resides at Martinique from whence Privateers are daily fitted and manned by French Seamen". The governor of St. Eustatius has returned the salute of American rebel armed vessels, and fired on the Ballahoe, a British armed tender. He reports further a difficulty between the admiral and the "Commercial Interest" of the island owing to the condemnation as droits of the Admiralty of vessels fitted out by the inhabitants to make reprisals on "the Provincials": the vessels sailed without commissions with the double purpose "of distressing the Rebels and of bringing supplies to the Government". Antigua, May 4, 1777. Encloses information on American privateers in harbor of St. Pierre, French privateers, and English merchantmen taken as prizes by American privateers and now at St. Pierre.

Id. He has granted several licenses to vessels for carrying rum, sugar, etc., to N. Y. or Halifax. St. Christopher, June 13, 1777.

Id. Intercourse between Dutch in Virgin Islands and Americans. Encloses correspondence relating thereto. St. Christopher, July 30, 1777.

Id. There is no reason at present to complain of governors of St. Eustatius and St. Croix. "The Gentleman who formerly was security for the North American Privateers by the Measures taken against the Pirates, who cut out the Brig Marquis of Rockingham, has positively refus'd being further security, and the hunting Mr. Vanbibber from thence to Sta. Croix, and driving him from thence, has absolutely for the present rooted up that Nest of Pirates." The fort at west end of St. Croix was ordered to fire on an American armed vessel. Conduct of the French governors of Guadeloupe and Martinique not so satisfactory. Antigua, Sept. 17, 1777.

57. 1777-1778.

Letter from Gov. Burt. Intercourse between French and Americans. Antigua, Nov. 1, 1777. Encloses papers on attitude of De Graaff; also copy of prohibition of trade with Americans issued by the governor of Guadeloupe.

Id. Further information as to French attitude: every assistance given to American privateers; remonstrances of no avail. Antigua, Nov. 30, 1777.

Id. Encloses assurance of Count d'Arbaud that no American privateers should be admitted to Guadeloupe. Martinique now "the only and general receptacle of Pirates", and no change is likely under the present governor. "I have just receiv'd Intelligence of a rebellious American Privateer's being fitted out at the Danish Island of Saint Thomas's. . . . I have already acquainted your Lordship of Houses and Agents for the Americans in each of those Governments. Byngham resides publicly at Martinique: Tenant and Ross I have sent your Lordship a Proof at Sta. Croix, Messrs. Jennings, Stevenson, and Donaldson I am told at St Eustatius, of this I have not yet but hope to have soon Proof positive." Questions legal position of Dutch, French, and Danish vessels loaded with American property bound to America. Antigua, Jan. 6, 1778.

Id. Encloses proofs of hostile action by inhabitants of Martinique and the Dutch islands. Antigua, Jan. 3, 1778.

Id. Action of French frigates convoying American vessels. There is no proof of countenance given by the Spanish governor to American armed vessels, but he suspects the commandant at St. Thomas. St. Christopher, Mar. 10, 1778. Encloses copy of commission from United Colonies, giving command of a certain vessel.

Id. St. Christopher, Mar. 21, 1777. Encloses memorandum from Gov. Morris of St. Vincent on presence of French and American vessels in St. Pierre roadstead. Feb. 24, 1778.

58. 1778.

Draft from Germain to Burt, no. 16. Is gratified that correspondence between Dutch and rebels is checked, and that Gov. De Graaff has been recalled: France is "no longer to be considered a neutral Power". Commends insistence that importation of necessities shall be in British vessels, but "no human Law can be supposed of too sacred a nature to be dispensed with when a Famine must be the inevitable Consequence of enforcing the Observance of it". Aug. 5, 1778.

Letter from Burt, no. 1. Describes state of "consternation" at Martinique and Guadeloupe at news of approaching war: many Americans have sold their cargoes for ready cash at 50 per cent. discount and have left the islands; "some have entered on Board of our Privateers thirsting for Revenge for the Oppression and Injury they have received in the French Islands". St. Christopher, June 9, 1778.

Id., no. 2. "We had long . . . suspected . . . that Agents for the Rebellious Americans Resided at Sta. Croix and Publicly received Consignments which they either sold at Sta. Croix or Covered as their Property and Remitted to Europe: Mr. Tennent Refusing to Claim the American Produce but immediately Relinquishing it, is a Proof that it does not belong to His Danish Majesty's Subjects." Questions propriety of capture of vessels stated to be Danish, coming immediately from America loaded with tobacco, rice, flour, and staves. St. Christopher, June 14, 1778. Encloses copy of proceedings in court of admiralty, St. Christopher.

Id., no. 5. Since news was received of the recognition of the independence of America by France, the Dutch admiral at St. Eustatius, Count de Bylandt, has permitted American colors to fly publicly in the roadstead of St. Eustatius. The admiral has been told that no water can be taken by his squadron from the river at Old Road so long as this continues. "They have . . . at St. Eustatius . . . a kind of Congress as it is so called: it consists of Monsieur Tenier, where Count Byland constantly Resides, Mr. Stevenson, Donaldson, Smith, Jennings, Gordon and James." St. Christopher, June 17, 1778.

Id. The Dutch "have already began the Trade of convoying, and in each convoy are more Americans than Dutch". They are making large profits which "must be plundered from deluded America". St. Christopher, June 17, 1778.

Id., no. 7. Encloses correspondence with Dutch officials. St. Christopher, July 6, 1778.

Id., no. 9. Provides further proof of position of Messrs. Tennent and Ross at St. Croix as agents for the American produce shipped by them. St. Christopher, July 29, 1778.

59. 1778-1779.

Letter from Burt, no. 21. Daily complaints from Dutch of capture of vessels. "If . . . our Cruizers were not to touch anything with a Dutch clearance or Papers there would not be found a French or American Vessel at Sea. . . . The Dutch claim a Right to insist that a Friends Bottom Protects and covers an Enemy's Goods: this your Lordship knows was denied His Majesty of Prussia after the Peace of 1748." Encloses a deposition proving that "one of Count Byland's Squadron" convoyed North American traders. Nov. 2, 1778.

Id. Nov. 25, 1778. (See Andrews, I. 208.)

Id., no. 36. Refers to "Constant . . . intercourse held between the American and Gallo-American factions" in St. Eustatius and St. Christopher. May 3, 1779.

60. 1779-1780.

Letter from Burt, no. 59. Action taken in appointing "a proper Person" to attend sick "Rebellious Americans . . . taken in Armed Vessels" and confined according to his Majesty's commands. Captains of British ships loath to take American prisoners on board, only very few masters of merchantmen will carry them home; they have therefore to be confined. He has refused all proposals from Mr. Bingham, Congress agent at Martinique, for a "Cartel"; and has disregarded Mr. Bingham's citation of exchanges of persons with Adm. Byron and Gen. Grant. Nov. 8, 1779.

Id., no. 73. Mar. 18, 1780. Encloses deposition of J. J. Reynolds, asserting formation of a committee at Belfast "determined in case Belfast should be attacked they would declare on the side of America in case a Charter was granted to make Belfast a free Port. That in the latter end of April or the middle of May they purposed to send out a number of Vessels to America to supply the rebels with every Article they could. . . . That Letters were sent from Virginia by the Council to M. Burch of Antigua to go by the way of St. Christopher inclosed to Doctor Clifton who holds a private correspondence with the Rebels in America. That Doctor Buncauf [Bancroft] formerly Secretary to Mr. Dean is now placed as a private spy in London to communicate all matters to the French ministry and American Congress. . . . That the Bermudians had sent an Address to Congress setting forth that if Congress would send them One Thousand Men they would declare for America". Names of signers follow.

Id., no. 75. American prisoners in his government will be immediately exchanged as directed. Nearly forty had been taken on board British ships by Adm. Parker; American prisoners taken not in arms have been already set at liberty. Antigua, Mar. 28, 1780.

Letter from Shirley. Encloses remarks of solicitor general on annual law passed for enabling his Majesty to make regulations for carrying on trade with the U. S. Antigua, Dec. 5, 1786.

Id., no. 164. Encloses tariff established by Sweden in St. Bartholomew: provides for payment of three per cent. import duty on all European goods coming from American or any of the W. I. islands; all American or W. I. produce coming from the continent or the islands free from duty; all European goods exported to America in Swedish or American vessels free from export duty. Nevis, Apr. 20, 1787.

- Id.*, no. 169. Acknowledges receipt of act and order in Council on American intercourse. The effects of the act will be to "draw to us a considerable portion of the carrying trade". The U. S. are not likely to retaliate; "it is impossible for the bulk of the people to exist without Commerce. It is also notorious that there are more different opinions upon almost every subject, amongst the United States, than there are States". Indulgence of thirty days granted before act is enforced in order to obtain supplies. Nevis, June 7, 1787.

3. 1668-1812. (Described in part by Andrews, I. 219, 220.)
Representation, on conflict between British and French claims to various islands. 1719.
Id. Aug., 1739. "Copy sent to Earl Waldegrave, Nov. 30, 1730."
Memorial from Valentine Morris, asking to be reappointed governor of St. Vincent, relating events before and after capture by French. Feb. 15, 1783. Similar letters and memorials from Morris and others.
Compilation of current prices of imports and exports, 1785-1787.
Abstract of act for establishment of court of chancery. 1787.
Draft of letter to Gov. Lincoln, with comments on his instructions. Oct. 8, 1783.
Draft of additional instructions on land grants. 1783 (?).
Draft of commission for James Seton. Feb. 12, 1787.
4. 1776-1777. (For vols. 4 and 5, see also Andrews, I. 220-221.)
Letter to Morris, sending instructions for establishment of separate government. At first meeting of assembly he is to "require of them in His Majesty's Name" to grant the $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. duty "in the manner it has been made in the Leeward Islands. . . . It is the more incumbent on you to use your best endeavours . . . as you will see" that "their Lordships assigned no other Fund . . . for the Payment of your Salary". But he is not to make demand in such manner as to arouse controversy or impede public business. Apr. 3, 1776.
Letters from Morris. Land grants; complains of provisions made for his salary. June 27, July 22, 1776. Germain to Morris, on same. Sept. 5, 1776.
Id. Engagement just off St. Pierre, Martinique, of the Shark with one of "Hopkins's little Squadron, now, as we learn, hovering among the Windward Islands. . . . The Americans fought, as I learn, under Colours with thirteen stripes meant to imply the Colours of the thirteen United Colonies". Aug. 1, 1776.
Germain to Morris, on recommendation of persons for council. Nov. 18, 1776.
Letter from Morris, on issue of writs. "The public Papers teemed with Letters and Hints strongly recommending the Free-holders not to chuse Men known to be inclined to load the Colony . . . with the $4\frac{1}{2}$ P. Cent." Morris judges that assembly as now constituted will not grant the $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. duty; and suggests creation of new electoral constituencies where elections could be influenced, and the appointment to the council of leaders opposed to the $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. duty. If he could be instructed to enforce the oath of qualification for members of assembly or not, as he chose, he could crush all opposition. Sept. 6, 1776.
Id. Resistance offered to attempt of receiver general to fix rate of exchange in receipt of fines and quit-rents. "The turbulent example of North America seems so much to pervade every part of the Colonies, that nothing but strengthening the hands of His Majesty's Governors . . . can effectually enable them to carry smoothly into execution the measures of Government." Crown officials must receive every possible power to conciliate or chastise; but "all this will be found scarcely sufficient. . . . Our attorney general [brother of the speaker, Charles Sharpe] and whole Family are American Rebels at heart. He broke Jail in America some years ago, to avoid punishment that waited Forgery and thus escaped, a Fact so notorious as to be the common publick table Talk in this Island, to which he is appointed Attorney General". Sept. 19, 1776.

Id., on 4½ per cent. duty, defense, surveys, and land grants. Oct. 23, 1776.

Id. Departure of 6th Regt. for America. Oct. 13, 1776.

Opinion of attorney general of St. Vincent on right of receiver general to fix rate of exchange, "to demand a Discharge of the Quit Rents . . . at the rate of £3-18-3 per oz. Gold (which is equal to an exchange of 82½)". Aug. 30, 1776.

Letter from Germain. Secret. May 7, 1777. Sends three letters signed "R. S." (Resolve Smith), lately intercepted. Letters are addressed to Smith's wife in England, Mar. 19, 1777; to Henry Keene, Mar. 25, 1777; and to one Mills at Salem, Mar. 25, 1777, Mills being apparently owner of vessel in which Smith was captured. Letters show that Smith, having been appointed agent for exchange of prisoners for Mass., and being about to receive appointment as secretary of St. Vincent, is carrying on trade in flag of truce. If he can secure manufactures most in demand he will, through "a certain Resolve of Congress", make 175 per cent. on the cash, and 500 per cent. on most of the articles, without any risk. Will use influence with governor of St. Vincent to get pass for his vessel as cartel to the admiral at the Leeward Islands. Property would be British until he reached S. C., and then it would belong to him (Smith) as a free-born subject. This, by resolve of Congress, would make the property American.

Letter from Morris. Desperate need of military stores; and consequent impunity with which American privateers touch at the island. Feb. 9, 1777.

Id. Regrets he has no warship for capture of American privateers, "since by different expressions sent me privately from the French Islands, I know of their fitting out, and within forty-eight hours and sometimes much less of their actual sailing". But capture difficult "since the American Cruisers in these Seas generally are Spanish launches or some small sloops and schooners that sail with a degree of swiftness which evades, nay mocks all the chasing of His Majesty's Ships, and still more so by keeping too close in shore to be reached by anything but similar Vessels". Complains that "the recruits which have been sent out these last twelve months are, in general, the very scum of the Earth. The streets of London must have been swept of their refuse, the jails emptied . . . and many nearly superannuated and too disabled to even carry their arms". Feb. 11, 1777.

Morris to William Knox (?)¹. The success of British arms might have extended to these seas had it not been for French assistance to ¹ The only letter in this volume not addressed specifically to Germain. May have been sent to Knox or D'Oyly. Initials "W. K." appear on endorsement.

American vessels. These are very successful: "I must own that this is now got to such excess that people will not let their craft out even to go along coastwise as drougers to carry the Planters stores from the Town to their Plantations. . . . They being mostly or all Bermudian built, they sail like the wind. . . . At present and for three weeks past a perfect fleet of them has been very considerably to the Windward of Barbadoes trying to intercept the expected merchant fleet." Mar. 23, 1777.

Id. Same matters. Intercourse of North Americans with Caribs and slaves. "Many of the Privateers now begin to have avowed French captains and the Crews of the far greater part consist of French." Mar. 25, 31, 1777.

Id. Land tenure and settlement. Mar. 14, 1777.

Id. Describes conversion of prizes into privateers at French islands. Capturer, after unloading cargo, sails vessel to Martinique, where, although well known to inhabitants, he is permitted to impersonate former captain and sell vessel as his property to the French, who convert her into privateer. Commissions for privateers issued by Bingham, American agent at Martinique; but "sometimes, to save Expenses, they copy a Congressional Commission and forge the Name of Hancock, Adams, etc. with as little ceremony as they would their own". Particulars of prizes brought in. Mar. 31, 1777.

Other letters of similar character and equal interest supply particulars of operations, and show increasingly open participation of French, trade of N. Am. with Ireland, and superiority of German over British troops. In particular, papers on operations of American privateer Rattlesnake.

Id., on mobbing of collector in connection with dispute over rate of exchange. June 13, 1777.

Id., on Resolve Smith, whom governor was about to appoint secretary of island, describing his past career and present methods of carrying on trade. June 21, July 8, 1777.

Letters from Morris. Difficulties with assembly over quit-rents, and the impossibility of securing grant of $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. duty. Advises that tax be levied by act of Parliament. His attempts to prevent creation of court of exchequer, which he regards as a device for escaping payment of quit-rents.

Letters and numerous other papers on land grants, showing names, locations, terms, etc.

Letter from Morris. "The second of this month arrived at Martinique Monsr. Delaplaine, a Captain lately in the French Service, but now serving on leave in the first Regiment of the Carolina Rebel Troops and had an audience from the Ms. de Bouillé, and is now proceeding to France, as he says, to Dr. Franklyn, as a deputy to him from the Congress." Aug. 18, 1777.

Papers on military weakness of the island, and danger from slaves and Caribs.

5. 1777-1778.

C. O. 318: 1-2. BOARD OF TRADE: ORIGINAL CORRESPONDENCE. 1624-1808.

1. 1624-1808. (See Andrews, I. 223-224.)

Much information on history of trade in sugar and other plantation products, contrasting British with French methods and results, and throwing light also on readjustment of commercial relations after the American Revolution. Some at least of the papers were prepared under direction of George Chalmers and William Collow. Some tables identical with those in Whitworth. The following documents are listed as representative:

Signed and sealed statement of prices of Santo Domingo sugar at Hamburg, with notation of exchange there on London and Paris, 1750-1790.

Prices of sugar at Bordeaux, 1750-1790.

Tables of imports from British and foreign W. I.

Accounts of duties collected in England on W. I. produce.

Copies of orders issued to W. I. officials for limiting commerce in W. I.

Minutes of committee of Council, showing proceedings on effects of treaty of 1786 with France, and on opening of free ports. Nov. 14, 1786. Many papers on trade at free ports.

"Sketch Committee Report respecting the Trade between the West Indian Islands and the United States of America." May 31, 1784.

Statistics on trade of W. I. with other islands, showing shipping employed. 1783-1787.

Accounts of trade between France and French W. I.

Detailed tables showing trade between Br. W. I. and N. Am. 1785-1787.

Detailed table of all vessels clearing from Br. W. I. for all parts of the world; accounts of quantities of all principal articles imported and exported; and accounts of revenues collected on same. Jan. 5, 1787-Jan. 5, 1788.

Estimate of value of property in Br. W. I., totalling £37,257,731 13s. 4d. Undated.

Account of produce of Martinique and Guadeloupe. 1791.

"An account of the Number of Ships with their Tonnage which Entered and Cleared in the several British West India Islands, distinct as from and to all Ports during the years 1790, 1791, and 1792, distinguishing the Inwards and Outwards Shipping, . . . Pursuant to an Order of the Right Honorable the Lords Committee of Council for Trade." Aug. 19, 1793.

Minutes of "West-India Merchants", including report of committee to facilitate discharge of ships. Dec. 20, 1793.

Copy of memorial of W. I. planters and merchants to Dundas, on intercourse with the U. S. 1793 (?). Also correspondence between Sheffield and Chalmers on same. 1794.

Memorials on depressed state of sugar trade. 1799.

Copy of order in Council for granting licenses for British vessels carrying specified articles to go to places in the W. I. not under immediate dominion of his Majesty's enemies. July 21, 1806.

Copy of minutes of assembly of Jamaica, relating to sugar duties and depression of trade. Nov. 13, 1807.

"Remarks on Causes of the Distress of the West Indian Plantations, and on the Plans Proposed for their Relief." 1808.

2. 1627-1807. The following documents have been noted, in addition to those described in Andrews:

Extensive statistics on slave-trade, for all islands and for separate islands; giving figures for particular years, or averages for several years.

Answers to customary queries for various islands. 1773-1774.

Copy of letter of Charles Long, Treasury Chambers, May 8, 1792, to clerk of Council, on quit-rents in the colonies, and especially in Dominica. Governor of Dominica believes that "there is no other Island where Quit Rents is payable on Leasehold Land except St. Vincents, the Inhabitants of which conceive themselves exonerated of that Charge under an agreement made with the French Government". Other papers on quit-rents.

Abstracts of reports on population of Jamaica, 1698-1787; with account of negroes imported and exported, 1739-1749.

Trade statistics for various islands.

Papers on slave-trade, showing percentage of deaths in transit.

Statistics of population in Barbados, 1748-1786.

Account of militia in Barbados. 1783.

Many papers on the Bahamas and Turks Islands.

Lists of references to accounts of population and other matters in Board of Trade Original Correspondence, for Bermuda, Grenada, St. Vincent, Dominica, and Carriacou, 1773-1775.

Petition of committee appointed in Dominica, for leave to apply to Parliament for legislation to restore and amend acts establishing free ports there. 1784. Other papers on free ports.

Memorial of W. I. planters and merchants, expressing fears of slave insurrections arising from "the new Language and Proceedings held in this country respecting the Slave-Trade". 1791.

Accounts of principal exports from Santo Domingo. 1783-1789.

C. O. 318: 3-47. SECRETARY OF STATE: ORIGINAL CORRESPONDENCE.

Papers on packet-service, including: representation of Committee of Trade to Nottingham on Dummer's proposal for "a Course of Correspondence with Her Majesty's Islands, Plantations in the West Indies"; report from Dummer on first year's operation of four packet-boats giving monthly service and carrying mail, Sept., 1703; copy of order to commanders of packets on carrying of freight and passengers.

Papers on naval matters, including: line of battle of seven British ships going into action on "the Maine Continent of America", Aug., 1702, under Adm. Benbow, showing plans and tactics; correspondence of Benbow with Admiralty and with governors of foreign plantations, showing division of prize money; list of twenty-three vessels with number of men on board, and numbers who have died or deserted since reaching the W. I., Jan., 1702/3; and letters to Admiralty from other naval officers.

Letters descriptive of various islands and of trade with Spanish W. I. in time of war. 1702-1703.

Military papers, including: instructions for Maj.-Gen. Spotswood, Apr., 1740; schedule of money, clothes, and arms furnished to Col. Blakeney, 1740; copy of instructions on military operations sent to colonial governors in N. Am., 1740; commission issued to Spotswood as colonel of regiment to be raised in N. Am.; draft of instructions to Spotswood, Blakeney, and governors of continental colonies for levying troops, Jan., 1739/40; Spotswood's commission as major-general and quartermaster-general, Dec. 26, 1739; draft of Cathcart's instructions, and of letters to governors of Jamaica and Leeward Islands, May, 1740; quotas of troops to be raised in various continental colonies, 1740; draft of Cathcart's instructions for distribution of plunder; copy of Gen. Wentworth's instructions for recruiting officers in N. Am., Aug. 12, 1741; and statement of forces in the W. I., and of proposed reductions, 1764-1774.

"Representation of the Lords Commissioners for Trade upon a Paper delivered by Mon. Maurepas to Ld. Waldegrave for preventing disputes in the West Indies." Apr. 21, 1737.

Papers on disputes with Spaniards over seizures, 1728-1729; pardon of pirates, 1718; and Franco-Spanish trade.

Form of letter sent to governors of W. I. islands authorizing them to grant letters of marque. June 15, 1739.

Heads of agreement between Royal African Company and sundry W. I. merchants.

Petition of Hutchinson Mure of London, merchant, for permission to carry slaves in British ships to the W. I.

"Libro de Servicios de los Oficiales y Sargentos de las tres compañías de Infanteria Ligera de la Havana, Reglado Hasta Fin de Diciembre de 1778."

4. 1782-1783.

Circular, July 7, 1783, to governors of Jamaica, Barbados, Leeward Islands, and Bermuda, relative to order in Council of July 2 regulating trade with the U. S.

WEST INDIA COMMITTEE.

At the offices of the Committee, 14 Trinity Square, London, are preserved certain volumes of minutes of the old committees. Any application with regard to this material should be made to Mr. Algernon Aspinall, C. M. G.

“West India Committee, Minutes, West India Merchants.”

This is the main series of minutes. Many petitions, reports, and letters are entered. The amount of material relating directly to North America is scanty, as can be seen from the subjoined list. There is, however, a much larger quantity dealing with trade, navigation, the particular products and economic history of the West Indies, that is of value to any study of colonial development along broad lines. Thus, in addition to the items listed below, nearly every volume has material on such topics as freights, drawbacks, stealing from ships, lending of money by aliens in the British sugar colonies, etc. Information on the supply of lumber and provisions from America is also a fairly constant component. During the American Revolution many minutes deal with the convoying of ships, and some with other effects of the war on West Indian trade, privateers, etc.

Apr., 1769–Apr., 1779. (350 pp.)

Action taken on a letter from merchants of Md. and Va. respecting appointment of a river-master. July 4, 1769.

Action with regard to effect on the sugar colonies of proposed regulations relating to Boston. Mar. 16, 1774.

Action as a result of measures taken by the Congress at Philadelphia tending to harm W. I. trade. Jan.–Feb., 1775.

June, 1779–Aug., 1783. (224 pp.)

This volume has some material on the supply of lumber and provisions from N. Am. during the war, and also deals with naval defense of St. Lucia and the Leeward Islands.

Mar., 1794–Dec., 1802. Indexed. (393 pp.)

This book seems to contain little relating directly to America. The main topics are trade, and the establishment in 1798 of a Marine Police Institution to protect shipping in the Thames. The single exception is a long report of Sept. 24, 1799, on the present stagnation of foreign demand for sugar and coffee, which relates in part to trade with America.

Apr., 1803–July, 1804. Indexed. (81 pp.)

Sept., 1804–July, 1827. (428 pp.)

For the War of 1812 nothing was found beyond material on convoys.

May, 1785–Dec., 1792. Indexed. (223 pp.) Minutes of Standing and Certificate committees of West India planters and merchants.

These minutes are not complete for either committee. There are also a few minutes of general meetings. Trade with Br. N. Am. and its regulation are taken up by minutes for Apr. 5, 1787, Mar. 15, 1791, and Feb. 28, 1792.

Feb., 1793–Apr., 1801. Indexed. (342 pp.)

This volume is a continuation of the preceding one, and relates mainly to commerce, and opposition to the movement to abolish the slave-trade. There are a few references to trade with America.

Jan., 1792–June, 1804. Minutes of a subcommittee appointed by the Standing Committee.

They deal with opposition to the movement for abolition of the slave-trade.

Oct., 1799–July, 1800. Minutes of a subcommittee of West India merchants.

ARCHIVES IN THE ISLANDS.

The preface of this book has mentioned the Report on Records in the West Indies which Professor Charles H. Hull, of Cornell University, wrote after visiting many of the islands in the winter of 1905-1906. A copy of his manuscript, of which only a part was printed in the Second Report of the Royal Commission on Public Records¹ was, with great kindness, placed by him at the service of the Department of Historical Research in the Carnegie Institution of Washington, for the purposes of the present survey. Use has been made of it, without much textual quotation, in the pages which follow. We here quote from it the following paragraphs of general statement, which are as applicable to the conditions of 1925 as to those of 1905-1906.

"In general the archives of the British West Indies contain two classes of papers: the political records, generally in the custody of the Colonial Secretary, and the non-political records, generally in the custody of the Registrar.

"The political records include the journals of the council, sometimes in one series, sometimes in two (legislative and privy), the minutes of the assembly, the manuscript laws, and in some cases the letter-books of governors and of committees to correspond with the colonial agent. But there are few letter-books preserved in the colonies dating before 1781.

"The non-political records are of two chief classes. One comprises such papers, relating chiefly to the ownership and transfer of property, both real and personal, as the law required to be filed or recorded—these are always in the custody of the Registrar. The other comprises the proceedings, papers, and judgments of the courts—these are sometimes in the custody of the Registrar, sometimes at the court-house.

"In many cases the files are incomplete, because of damage by fire or hurricane, and not a few of the volumes that are preserved bear traces of neglect in the past. There are few lists and no calendars available.

"The law usually requires the payment of fees for the search of the records, or at least for the search of those in the keeping of the Registrar, but in general the insular governments show a willingness to waive that requirement in favor of a properly accredited student engaged in bona fide historical investigations, not of a genealogical nature. Such a student will meet everywhere with a courteous reception; but he must not expect of overburdened officials, absorbed in current problems, that detailed knowledge of the older records which he has found in European archives."

It is also worthy of note that the Second Report of the Royal Commission on Public Records contains a "Memorandum on Official Records in the West Indies", communicated by the Secretary of State for the Colonies in 1911,² and a "Note on the West Indian Records", communicated in the same year by the late N. Darnell Davis, C.M.G., formerly auditor general of British Guiana.³

Students desiring to make personal investigations in the archives of any of the islands should apply first to the governor (in the case of Antigua, the Bahamas, Barbados, Bermuda, Grenada, Jamaica, or Trinidad) or to the administrator (in the case of the lesser or dependent islands). Persons desiring to obtain copies of documents or information from them should either apply to the officials indicated in the relevant passages of the text which follows, or, when no special indication of this sort is given, to the colonial secretary.

³ Ibid., pp. 119-120.

ANTIGUA.

The minutes of both assembly and council show that in the early days of their history these bodies from time to time took note of the state of the colony's archives when hurricane caused sad damage, or continued neglect threatened irreparable loss. A sequence of reports with praiseworthy recommendations finds place in the minutes, but action continually halted short of accomplishment. In 1809, for instance, a committee was appointed to see that certain recommendations as to the safety and arrangement of the records were carried out. Then as now the military buildings were used. Some papers were above the arsenal, and it was proposed to use the armory as a record-room. The success of this effort can be judged from the report of a similar committee only two years later, which urged that the recommendations be carried out as soon as possible, "as the Deficiency of fastenings and of several Window Shutters renders it [the depository] a Receptacle for drunken and diseased Persons, from which circumstance a shocking nuisance is created, and the dreadful Effects of Fire are seriously to be apprehended". Instead of following later endeavors that were more or less futile one may simply note that among the traditions strongly maintained in this part of the world neglect of historical records not in daily use has ever stood prominent. Danger from fire still exists, and although the manuscripts that remain are no longer used as pallets by the indigent, on the other hand official committees have long ceased to be troubled as to their condition or indeed as to their very existence. During the course of the present examination the custodian of some of the most valuable records acknowledged that he looked upon them for the first time. They are infested with vermin, and covered by dust and filth. Some papers still remain in the arsenal, but they are only a small part of what once existed, and it was said that but for the interest taken in them by one official nothing would have survived.

Any application to work among the archives at St. John's should be made to the governor of the Leeward Islands, who resides there. If copies are wanted the register can furnish them, as he is custodian of records in the arsenal and of the old legislative papers at the court-house.

THE ARSENAL, ST. JOHN'S.

Some years ago a quantity of papers in the ordnance vaults were examined and roughly classified. They are now in the old arsenal. Sturdy of aspect, and barred by a series of doors, this depository seemed to promise a fireproof interior. Once within, however, a glance showed an open window guarded sparsely by iron bars, through which passed a refreshing breeze. As the building is in a corner of an enclosed quadrangle of police offices one may venture to hope that the danger of a lighted match being tossed upon loose papers and wooden furniture by the window may be somewhat minimized.

Most of the manuscripts lie in a deep wooden cupboard spanning one end of the room. Volumes mingle with bundles of papers assorted roughly by classes but not by dates. This material comes from two sources, one judicial the other executive. Of the first, chancery and common pleas form the major strains, while courts of ordinary and vice-admiralty are comparatively small adjuncts. The amount of local and intercolonial correspondence of the governor's office is not small, but nearly all of it is too recent for our purpose. Judicial papers on the contrary reach back to the seventeenth century.

With one exception, which shall be noted in due course, the contents of this vault for us are limited to three bundles of papers of the court of vice-admiralty. They may be briefly characterized as an armful of historical scraps without any arrangement, but valuable fragments for all that. No registers were seen, and the loose papers can be no more than a tiny remnant of the archives of that important court. The earliest document noted is a bond of 1687; as the seventeenth century opens we find material in irregular waves; and at the close of the eighteenth we are left stranded. For the War of 1812 there is nothing. We have to do then with remnants of an historical mosaic covering roughly two centuries, of which the substance has been so rent that the most we can do is to point to bits of color and to isolated pieces of design. In spite of the routine of judicial procedure several of these samples afford relief from monotony, and in more than one direction the range is wide. There are French certificates made out in Martinique and Guadeloupe, papers in Dutch with small clear seals, from St. Eustatius, Spanish documents from sundry parts, English depositions by Danes at St. Croix, and even an occasional Quaker affirmation. On the other hand cases of murder and piracy on the coast of Africa lie side by side with seizures of petty articles that would not crowd a merchant's pocket.

The agencies of destruction have been capricious, and the material, as noted above, is in irregular waves. Some of the periods of comparative plenty are 1745-1747, 1756-1758, 1777, 1796-1799. The earliest paper relating directly to the northern colonies is an affirmation of Joseph French, Quaker, in the cause of Capt. Isaac Royall against Samuel Lillie of Boston, and bears the date of Dec. 21, 1720.

In the course of a voyage to Pennsylvania the brigantine Vernon came into the hands of the admiralty authorities at Antigua. She had coal on board, and a deposition of Peter Tufts, Jan. 18, 1745, states that it was commonly carried as ballast in voyages from Ireland to Philadelphia. According to him, it was not only necessary for firing, but his Majesty's officials at the Quaker port were lenient when any surplus was left. What the authorities at Antigua thought of Mr. Tufts's premises does not appear, but they differed strongly from his conclusions.

During the same year four American privateers were cruising together in W. I. waters. They were the brigantine Greyhound, Richard Jeffrey commander, the sloop William, Nathaniel Richards commander, both of N. Y., the Queen of Hungary, of Boston, James Grushy commander, and the Prince Charles of Lorraine, of R. I., Simeon Potter commander. The Postillion of Cadiz was sighted, and after a long chase, during which some members of the quartette sailed much better than others, she was captured and brought to Antigua. Then the confederates fell out over the spoils, and various depositions attest to their wrangling.

A case of another type came before the court two years later. From stocks on the Piscataqua had come a vessel christened the Ann, which was soon captured by a French privateer. Two New Englanders, Luke Mills and William Walden, apparently were examining British captures at Antigua late in 1747, and claimed to recognize the Ann even though alterations included the name Le Diable. Their joint deposition of Dec. 9, 1747, abounds in details of naval construction which they alleged distinguished this ship from those built elsewhere. It may be noted here that in these papers are many claims for salvage arising from recaptures.

Apparently most of the material relating to seizures during the American Revolution has been destroyed, for there are comparatively few cases in that period. An account of Judge Edward Byam of the court of vice-admiralty with the register, Feb. 1, 1779–Sept. 30, 1785, furnishes us with a long list of ships. There is nothing beyond the names to denote their nationality. A handful of insurance policies is interesting. Most of them are dated 1779, and deal with short voyages only. A typical policy of that year on £1000 from Antigua to St. Lucia totalled £84-8-3, insurance alone being at 8 per cent. commission and the policy accounting for the rest. Some were much higher.

Two years after the close of the Revolution a Canadian captain from St. John, N. B., made bold to break his voyage at a New England port, to fill his water casks and do a bit of trading. Clearance was at first granted without trouble, but this visit of an individual from a settlement of United Empire Loyalists was not to end in such an insipid fashion. The captain received a call from a person who declared himself the successor of the complaisant collector, and intimated that he was not in accord with the latter's attitude. One official visit followed another, and finally the captain was told that his ship was seized. At this point the New Brunswicker acknowledges that he leaned over the bulwarks and threatened to blow out the collector's brains if he dared to come aboard. The collector beat a hasty retreat, and marshalled his reinforcements. In the meantime a compatriot warned the captain of certain plots forming in that locality against him. As a result he cut his cables and worked the ship out of the harbor, just distancing a light craft sent in pursuit. At Antigua he made a formal deposition of his losses, detailing the number of hogsheads and so many feet of cable left on the New England shore, but there is nothing in the document to suggest that he had any intention of returning for them.

Another aspect of certain admiralty cases is shown by a letter to Campbell Brown at Antigua from Willing and Francis, dated Philadelphia, Oct. 27, 1797. This contains instructions to buy a number of sugar boilers or cauldrons, the cargo of a captured American vessel, and now for sale in Antigua. Authority is given to draw on them for $22,800, but a subsequent letter shows that such a sum could not be raised in the island by bills of exchange.

The above examples by no means form a complete list. They are noted simply as illustrating various sides of cases that came before the court of vice-admiralty at St. John's. Many of course in which American interests are concerned do not present any new features, and a still larger proportion give no hint as to nationality.

In the same vault was found a governor's letter-book. Beginning and end are missing, the actual dates being Sept. 6, 1822–Nov. 3, 1823. In it is copied a memorandum sent to the governor by the acting collector, dated Sept. 6, 1822, a part of which is as follows: "During the intercourse between the American and British Governments under orders of His Majesty in Council, permitting the Vessels of the United States to bring certain Articles to the British West India Islands, it appears by Records in this Office in the years 1810 and 1811 that Articles prohibited by the said Orders in Council to be imported, were brought from America and allowed to be entered at this Port for exportation, on the principal Officers of the Customs taking sufficient security that none of the said prohibited Articles so brought were landed here." The case of the schooner Millenium is instanced, and the acting collector argues that the practice should be continued even under later regulations; otherwise American vessels will go to the "neutral islands".

THE COURT-HOUSE, ST. JOHN'S.

Such of the old legislative records as still exist are to be found in a series of wooden cupboards in an upstairs corner room. The files have disappeared. Books of minutes have been and are still being eaten by insects and rodents, and the shelves are in a very filthy state. Many of the assembly minutes can no longer be examined. The volume covering the Seven Years' War, for example, is so fragile that any attempt to turn its leaves would result in their disintegration. It naturally follows that in several instances portions of books, especially at the beginning and end, are only useless masses of fragments. Every time such a volume is even opened the situation is made worse, so the dates in the list of assembly minutes must be regarded as approximate rather than absolute.

The volumes of assembly minutes average about 300 pages, some of the earliest volumes being rather smaller. Even when they are paged most of the corners are often missing, so no attempt is made to give the individual pagination.

Apart from the listed items these records have some importance for a comparative study of colonial development, though in this respect they are far less valuable than those of Barbados. Strong local tendencies are seen along certain lines. A good example is found in the first volume of assembly minutes, where we note that eight years after the battle of Sedgmoor the planters of Antigua were determined that they should not be oppressed by free quartering. It was laid down that every person billeting a common soldier was to be paid at the rate of four pounds of sugar per day, and that in this respect a captain should count as six privates, a lieutenant four, and an ensign three. This subject comes up frequently in the following century.

Another example is furnished by a dispute between governor and assembly at the close of the seventeenth century. The assembly wished to constitute the courts as in Jamaica, and proposed to copy exactly the laws of that colony, changing only the necessary names. Governor Codrington considered that it would be advantageous to make certain changes, but the assembly clung stubbornly to its idea of a legal transplantation without pruning or grafting. Along constitutional lines many further examples could be given. These records also have much interesting material on trade, legal or otherwise, colonial currency, and the economic life of the planter. For many years official financial reckoning was in terms of pounds of sugar or sometimes of tobacco.

A considerable proportion of these minutes consists of documents entered therein. At first there are messages passing between council and assembly, which form the bulk of the earliest journals. Next come messages and addresses of the governor, committee reports, sundry despatches and orders in Council from England, a varying amount of intercolonial correspondence, letters from naval officers, and others from the colonial agent. Such elements naturally vary in proportion from time to time, but they always constitute a factor of considerable value.

MINUTES OF ASSEMBLY.

Feb., 1693–Dec. 3, 1698. This book is incomplete at each end, but the paper is in good condition, showing clearly the results of protection from damp, even though such protection has been accidental. For several years the minutes were little more than a record of messages interchanged with the council. This makes them a source for the lost council minutes.

In 1695 a tax of 3*d.* a ton was levied on incoming shipping, to be used in the protection of trade against the French.

A letter from Bastian Bayer, Joseph Martyn, and Richard Cary to the assembly, dated London, May 2, 1696, shows that they had tried to have orders issued for the two men-of-war bound for New England to shift to the Leeward Islands during the winter months, but were unsuccessful.

An interesting point is raised by an incomplete letter from the assembly to the Lords ——— [perhaps Lords Justices] at the close of 1698, which expresses distrust of the correctness of minutes sent home, and accuses the governor of forwarding a garbled copy.

Jan. 2, 1698/9–Dec. 30, 1701. This is in bad condition, and could not be fully examined.

Jan. 7, 1701/2–Aug. 3, 1704.

July 28, 1707–June 9, 1711. Too brittle to be fully examined.

June 21, 1711–July 27, 1713. There is some material on defensive preparations.

Dec. 13, 1713–Dec. 7, 1716.

June 6, 1717–Jan. 7, 1721/2.

Jan. 9, 1721/2–Feb. 27, 1724/5.

Mar. 4, 1724/5–Sept. 21, 1728.

Oct. 2, 1728–July 12, 1734.

July 23, 1734–Jan. 3, 1736/7.

Sept. 13, 1739–Dec. 3, 1747. Contains some material on colonial defense, and hindrances to trade.

Dec. 10, 1747–Sept. 29, 1755.

Jan. 29, 1756–June 30, 1763. This volume could not be examined. It is almost beyond repair.

July 21, 1763–May 11, 1770.

A message from the assembly to the governor in council, relating to the prospect of a renewal of the trade between the French islands and N. Am., has the following passage: "But of all the reports that have reached us none seem to be matters of so serious consideration as the following that St. Lucia is to be made a free port and that they publicly at Martinique and Guadeloupe avow the design of admitting the Inhabitants of North America to import directly such commodities into their Islands as are necessary for the support and improvement of their Colonies and to carry away their Rum and Molasses to the manifest detriment of our English Islands. These reports have been transmitted hither by several persons whose characters will not admit of a supposition that they have been deceived themselves or are willing to deceive others." Aug. 4, 1763.

Nothing was found on the Stamp Act. There is a long report in 1767 on custom-house fees and their effect on trade.

May 24, 1770–May 12, 1775.

June 29, 1775–Nov. 26, 1778.

On Feb. 3, 1776, a committee was appointed to draw up a loyal address to the king, expressing their "abhorrence of the rebellious proceedings of His Majesty's Colonists on the Continent of America". Measures to obtain provisions and lumber from other sources are shown. Some papers relate to captures of American vessels by the local armed sloop Reprisal and by other armed vessels. In 1778 there is material on hasty measures for defense.

Dec. 10, 1778–Dec. 23, 1780.

• Sundry material on American and French prisoners in the island; defense; correspondence on French naval and military forces and their movements; difficulty of obtaining sufficient provisions; the 2nd battalion of the 60th (Royal American) Regiment.

Jan. 3, 1781–June 4, 1783.

Account of expenses incurred in Antigua for defense, Mar. 1, 1776–Dec. 31, 1782.

Sept. 24, 1783–Mar. 23, 1789. (Beginning missing.)

May 8, 1793–June 11, 1795.

Both council and assembly requested the governor in 1793 to admit temporarily provisions and lumber in American vessels. He finally gave way at the close of the year.

July 9, 1795–Aug. 24, 1797. (Beginning missing.)

Nov. 28, 1797–July 17, 1800. (Beginning and end missing.)

Aug. 7, 1800–Feb. 16, 1804.

May 23, 1805–Mar. 9, 1809.

Some papers deal with the importation of American provisions, and others with the question of placing a bounty on salt fish from Br. N. Am.

With the opening of the nineteenth century the amount of European and other correspondence spread on the minutes grows larger.

Apr. 6, 1809–Feb. 27, 1812.

Message of the council to the assembly, transmitting, with comments, copy of a British order in Council, Apr. 12, 1809, on the regulation of certain trade matters. June 29, 1809. (Pp. 41–44. Enclosure copied.)

British order in Council, Aug. 16, 1809. (Pp. 99–102.)

Account of powder-duty, Jan. 1, 1808–Dec. 30, 1809, giving names of vessels, and of captains, tonnage, and distinguishing between British and American ships. (Pp. 158–170. Usually these accounts do not give the nationality of the vessels, and in such cases they are not noted.)

Report on bounties and duties on fish, Mar. 29, 1810. Followed by (1) a detailed account, giving port, vessel, etc., of bounties paid on fish imported in British vessels from Br. N. Am. during 1808; (2) an account of money received by the collector from tonnage-dues and duty on fish imported in American vessels, July 24–Sept. 22, 1809; and (3) tonnage duty alone, Jan. 8–Mar. 19, 1810. (Pp. 195–200.)

British order in Council on trade. Feb. 7, 1810. (Pp. 207–211.)

Account of money received for tonnage-dues and duty on fish, Apr. 2–Aug. 8, 1810, giving names of vessels and captains, and their tonnage. The total amounted to £3800–3–1. (Pp. 332–335.)

These are prominent items; but there is further material of a more general nature on the regulation of trade.

Mar. 12, 1812–Oct. 14, 1813.

Account of powder-duty, Jan. 1–Sept. 19, 1810, distinguishes between British and American vessels.

“List of Vessels Condemned to the Captors, which have been brought to the Island of Antigua, from the Commencement of the American War." Names of vessels, persons to pay duties, and particulars of cargoes are given. This list was furnished by the deputy registrar in admiralty. There is no date, but it apparently belongs to the close of 1813. (Pp. 428-431.)

An item at page 433 gives the amount of duties on American commodities imported voluntarily under neutral flags, July 1, 1812-Sept. 30, 1813, as £3313 13s. 4d.; while £3399 13s. 2½d. were due Sept. 30, 1813, from sundry persons, on American commodities sent into the island in various vessels which had been condemned as prizes, but no part yet received by the collector or treasurer.

Nov. 11, 1813-July 4, 1816.

British order in Council on the regulation of trade. Nov. 30, 1813.

Id. Dec. 16, 1814.

Report and resolutions of a joint committee on "the present distressed state of the Colony, arising from the total suspension of all commercial intercourse with Vessels arriving from the United States of America". July 19, 1815.

A. Browne, colonial agent, to the assembly. In an interview with Mr. Goulburn he has been unable to obtain any relaxation of the Navigation Laws. Montague Place, Oct. 19 (1815). Followed by a letter from Goulburn, stating "that the circumstances of that Colony do not appear to His Majesty's Government to be such as to warrant them in dispensing by their own Act, with the Navigation Laws of the Empire".

MINUTES OF COUNCIL.

Legislative and executive powers were combined for many years, and in the Leeward Islands the privy councils played a less powerful rôle than to the southward.

June 9, 1796-May 24, 1798. Letters from the colonial agent, addresses, reports, and messages are spread on the minutes in great variety.

On a return of powder-duty, 1795, it is stated that the duty on all American vessels permitted to trade here is from that date to be commuted to three shillings per pound. (The part for June-July, 1797, has been torn out.)

Apr. 9, 1801-Sept. 29, 1803.

A report of a joint committee on the state of the coinage traces exchange and currency problems from 1756. E. g., in 1756 exchange between Antigua and G. B. was 50 per cent.; after the close of the "American War" it rose to 185 per cent., and for some time after 1783 was in the neighborhood of 175 per cent. At this time "in addition to the clipped and sweated Gold already in circulation some ingenious Citizens of the Infant American Republic were good enough to coin light Joes, in imitation of those of Portugal for the use of the sugar Colonies". There are comments on the influence of the present state of the currency on American trade. This report, dated Mar. 10, 1803, is followed by tables showing the value of gold and silver, their relative proportion in Antigua and in places connected with it by trade, and the advantage to be gained by investing a certain sum to be sent to America in gold or silver according to certain rates.

Aug. 1, 1805-Mar. 3, 1808. Some of the material on trade with America duplicates what has already been noted in minutes of the assembly.

A return of powder-duty received, May 2, 1805–Dec. 31, 1806, gives names of ships, their captains and tonnage, and whether British or American.

Feb. 28, 1811–Feb. 4, 1813. Contains some material already noted in assembly minutes.

Mar. 4, 1813–Sept. 29, 1814.

MINUTES OF PRIVY COUNCIL.

1809–1831. Until 1816 there is scattered correspondence and other material on trade with the U. S., and the effect of sundry efforts to regulate it. Nothing was then found until the circular collection of documents in 1830, once again opening W. I. ports to U. S. shipping.

ACTS.

1761–1772. No material directly bearing on U. S.

1782–1798. No direct material.

1804–1814. Partly duplicates the next volume.

Act imposing a duty on certain articles imported in vessels of friendly nations, according to a British order in Council of Apr. 12, 1809. June 13, 1809. (Extended June 14, 1810.)

Act imposing certain duties on articles imported in vessels of friendly nations, under British order in Council of Feb. 7, 1810. Nov. 12, 1810. (Revived, altered, and continued by act of Dec. 6, 1811.)

1810–1826. Act imposing duties according to British order in Council of Oct. 26, 1812. Feb. 5, 1813.

Act imposing duties according to British order in Council of Nov. 30, 1813. May 19, 1814.

Act imposing duties according to British order in Council of Dec. 16, 1814. Mar. 2, 1815.

Act imposing a duty on all goods sold by non-resident traders. Apr. 26, 1821. (Renewed May 23, 1822, June 5, 1823, June 17, 1824, July 14, 1825, and in a different form July 27, 1826.)

COLONIAL SECRETARY'S OFFICE.

A thorough search for the old despatches, with the aid of a member of the staff, was quite fruitless in that respect. Almost nothing of the kind remains until we reach the second half of the nineteenth century.

One huge volume found on the top of a cupboard has much useful information of an economic nature. In it are entered yearly returns under certain headings. The chief divisions are: names of owners of land, arranged alphabetically; produce shipped, paid away, or otherwise disposed of, distinguishing between sugar and rum; number of acres of land in possession, under cultivation, or waste; amount of sugar and rum produced; and tax on sugar, rum, and land. These headings vary somewhat from time to time. The period covered is Jan. 1, 1794–Dec. 31, 1850.

BAHAMAS.

The archives of the Bahamas are kept in the public offices at Nassau, the capital of the colony. Their present situation and general condition point to the prevalence in the past of a state of things in which there has been neither an official to whom was committed the special care of archives, nor any common place for their safe-keeping. Documents originating with any branch of the government service, or bearing upon matters connected with its work, are generally deposited in the office rooms occupied by it. Two of the departments have adjunct storage-rooms, to which many documents have been sent in order to get them out of the way. In these various places they have been put away in very different sorts of receptacles, witnessing to widely varying degrees of appreciation of their value. In several of the repositories there is some evidence of a creditable attention being devoted in recent years to preservation of what they contain, but many of the same documents and volumes that are now in safe-keeping testify to a serious lack of it in former times. The incumbents of the various offices are the natural custodians of the records and documents deposited in their respective departments.

There seems to have been a great loss of documents in the Bahamas, and many that are extant are badly disintegrated. Three main causes may be assigned for this: (1) the laxity of those responsible for their keeping, as to preserving official sets of papers complete—in a few cases there has been deliberate destruction of things considered useless or burdensome; (2) the climate, which favors both natural deterioration and the ravages of insects; (3) the American and Spanish occupations. The Bahamas were first brought under a permanent orderly government in 1718. From that time to this they have continued in the possession of the British with the exception of the two brief periods mentioned. The American occupation lasted only a few days (in 1776), but as Commodore Hopkins carried away a governor and some of the inhabitants as prisoners, he may also have carried off some of the archives. The Spanish forces held possession of the island of New Providence for a period of two years, 1781–1783. The present search revealed no documentary evidence as to the effect of these changes of rulers upon the archives. It is not clear whether the earlier records were largely carried away by escaping colonists and never brought back, or seized and destroyed or carried away by one body of invaders or the other. In only two departments, however, namely, that of the registrar of records and the house of assembly, are there to be found any considerable number of things of an earlier date than 1780.

Permission to examine the archives in any particular office is commonly granted by its custodian, with little formality in the case of dates prior to 1816. The registrar of records requires a fee of one shilling, but for one fee will allow a protracted search to be made.

GOVERNOR'S OFFICE.

Some of the most important archives of the colony were in 1903 in the offices in the basement of Government House, mostly in two large wooden boxes lined with tin. Sir William Grey-Wilson, however, coming to the islands as governor in 1904, made better provision for their preservation, and began a work of rearrangement and systematization.

The despatches of the governors to the Secretaries of State for the Colonies are here, but they begin only with the year 1829. Before that time the retiring governors seem to have taken them away on departing from the islands. Miscellaneous letter-books of the governors are present from 1838. Despatches of the Secretary of State to the governors date from 1795 to the present time, but so few remain for the first twenty-five or thirty years that most of them have been tied up in one bundle of ordinary size.

MINUTES OF THE PRIVY (OR EXECUTIVE) COUNCIL.

These are contained in folio volumes bound in leather, showing effects of exposure to both insects and dampness. Those relating to the period ending in 1815 are:

2. 1802-1805.
3. 1805-1813.
4. 1813-1825.

COLONIAL SECRETARY'S OFFICE.

The colonial secretary has the custody of several important sets of papers, which are received into his office for deposit, and kept, in a fair state of preservation, in the rooms occupied by that official and his clerks; but the earliest of these are of 1832. Much less favorably preserved were (in 1905) the papers in the annexes to his office, two vaults on the first floor of the Public Library Building. Among these last were noted, of date previous to 1816: a roll containing signatures of the members of the council, 1797-1809; a manuscript containing returns of grants of crown land, 1813-1823; a patent of George III. granting a great seal to the Bahamas, 1767; a license for a brig to make a trip to Hayti, issued by Governor Cameron in 1801; and a folio volume containing accounts of exports and imports from Feb. 2, 1796, to June 25, 1800.

RECEIVER GENERAL AND TREASURER'S DEPARTMENT.

In 1894 the then receiver general and treasurer caused nearly all of the old records to be destroyed.

OFFICE OF THE REGISTRAR OF RECORDS.

Next to the House of Assembly this office was reported as providing the best facilities for the care of its archives, though some of the earlier volumes, which had gone quite out of use, were threatened with destruction by the climate. The record office, formerly under the custody of the colonial secretary, was made a separate department in 1862. By the same act, 22 Victoria c. 15, a new system of classification was introduced. Before that time wills and crown grants of land were usually kept in distinct sets of volumes, but documents of other kinds were likely to be set down in the order in which they were received.

There are 219 volumes of the public records proper. These include the oldest archives in the Bahamas, some of them being dated as early as 1703, and they extend down to the present time. Of the period ending in 1815, the following volumes were noted:

A volume containing miscellaneous deeds. 1723-1762.

Record Book, containing records of bonds; appointments of military officials; instruments of pardon to slaves convicted of capital crimes; wills; and grants of land. 1760-1772.

A volume containing inventories of private effects. 1753-1787.

A similar volume. 1787-1796.

A small folio volume of about 100 pages, containing the record of all slaves freed in the Bahamas between 1740 and 1834.

A volume marked A¹, containing records of land grants in 1789-1791, in the period when incoming Loyalists were being settled on the crown lands of the Bahamas.

A volume marked C¹, ditto. 1789-1790.

A volume marked C², containing wills. 1797-1806.

There are three large folio volumes of indexes to the above series of volumes, citing the documents under the names of the persons concerned in each.

A small trunk in the office, containing the marriage registers for the period 1799-1850, accompanied by a complete index.

A small folio volume, colonial secretary's book. 1733-1751.

A folio volume, records of the court of ordinary. 1772-1823.

Two small trunks filled with papers of the court of chancery before 1862, held by the governor as chancellor.

A small folio volume, minutes of the privy council. 1789-1802.

A small folio volume, records of slave trials. 1785-1789. This gives brief statements of the cases, the decrees of the court, and sometimes a part of the evidence.

Manuscript volumes of the laws of the colony, as follows:

2. (Vol. I. missing.) Laws passed in 1780-1789.
3. 1792-1793.
4. 1795-1798.
5. 1798-1801.
6. 1802-1805.
7. 1805-1806.
8. 1808-1813.
9. 1814-1822.

VESTRY ROOM OF CHRIST CHURCH PARISH.

The following volumes are mostly in fair condition. Some of them have been transcribed.

One volume, folio, register of baptisms in Christ Church parish, 1733-1791; register of marriages, ibid., 1753-1803.

Five volumes, folio, minutes of the vestry of Christ Church parish. 1741-1837.

SURVEYOR'S DEPARTMENT.

This office preserves no manuscript records, but is the depository of plats of grants of crown lands and of settlements. There are 21 large folio volumes of certified plats of original crown grants, one or two volumes for each of the larger islands. They give the boundary lines of all such grants since 1785, stating, in days of slavery, whether to a white or to a free black. There are two plans of the town of Nassau, both made by order of the assembly of the colony, one in 1768, the other in 1788, and three plans of Hog Island on one sheet, dated 1803.

LIBRARY OF THE HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY.

The committee room of the house of assembly contains the archives that are in the custody of that body. These are in a secure building, and lodged in substantial cases, yet some of the earlier papers have suffered from neglect or the effects of time and climate. The principal archives found here are: Original manuscript volumes of the votes (journals) of the house of assembly, as follows:

Feb. 4, 1760–Aug. 8, 1766.
 Nov. 18, 1766–Feb. 15, 1771.
 Apr. 20, 1784–Mar. 13, 1788.
 Oct. 6, 1795–Nov. 30, 1798.
 Oct. 22, 1799–May 20, 1800.
 Mar. 16–Dec. 28, 1802.
 Nov. 15, 1803–Apr. 5, 1805.
 Oct. 29, 1805–Dec. 18, 1811.
 Nov. 3, 1812–Dec. 22, 1814.

Index to votes of the house from 1781 to 1834.

A large folio volume containing copies of the votes of the house. It is dated Feb. 4, 1761–May 11, 1784, but the records are missing for a period of about nine years, beginning in 1771.

A volume like the above, containing the votes for the period May 12, 1784–Sept. 29, 1794.

There are also some transcripts of the votes for a part of the nineteenth century.

Printed Votes of the House, volumes covering periods as follows:

1794–1798 (two copies), 1794–1799 (one copy).
 1799–1800.
 1800.
 1801–1804.
 1804–1808.
 1809–1811 (two copies).
 1812–1814 (two copies).
 1815–1817 (five copies).

A folio volume of copies of letters received by the “commissioners of correspondence” of the Bahamas. 1792–1803.

A folio volume of their minutes. 1795–1833.

A volume of minutes of the trustees of the Public Lot.

Account-book of the trustees of the Public Lot.

Printed volumes of the laws of the Bahamas, as follows:

A volume for 1764–1798, incomplete.
 A volume for 1799–1800 (two copies).
 Vol. I. 1729–1805. A compilation.
 Vol. II. 1805–1808.
 Vol. III. 1809–1813 (two copies).
 Vol. IV. 1814–1821.

Bahama Gazette, first newspaper published in the Bahamas. Vol. I., 1784–1785. Also vols. IV. (1787), VI. (1789), VII., VIII., X.–XV., XVII. The volumes are now bound, but many numbers are missing.

Journals of the House of Assembly of Jamaica, printed, vols. I.–XIV.

LIBRARY OF THE LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

The records of the legislative council are kept in presses in the chamber in which that branch of the legislature meets. They are securely housed in a dry place, and appear always to have been kept dry, but suffered somewhat from neglect at one time. The Votes of the council were printed for the first time in 1856. For the earlier dates, to 1815, there are the following manuscript volumes:

June 8, 1790–Sept. 6, 1793.
Sept. 10, 1793–Dec. 24, 1801.
Mar. 16, 1802–Dec. 28, 1810.
Oct. 22, 1811–Nov. 27, 1823.

ARCHIVES OF THE SUPREME COURT.

The papers and records of the general court (now the supreme court) are deposited in the office of the registrar of that court. The walls of a large room are lined halfway round with tall cupboards and book-shelves, most of which are filled with archives, fairly well arranged. The documents are mostly tied up in bundles, which are labelled and placed in pigeon-holes in the order of time. The documents for the different classes of cases—criminal, civil, admiralty, etc.—are for the most part kept in separate presses. Some of the old papers of this office have been intentionally destroyed. One large cupboard is filled with papers of the general court, dating from 1789 to the present time, but they state in each case little more than the minimum respecting the suit and the court's judgment on it. There is a folio volume of records of judgments of the general court, 1789–1809, but it was not the custom of the court to render written opinions; also minutes of the court in the exercise of its criminal jurisdiction, 1788–1896.

A chest in this office contains 1601 wills, 1722–1883. Two metal trunks are filled with papers of the court of ordinary. There is a parchment roll of the counsellors and attorneys that have been admitted to practise at the bar of the general court. The admiralty papers kept here belong, with a few exceptions, to the latter half of the nineteenth century.

OFFICE OF THE MARSHAL OF THE SUPREME COURT ON THE ADMIRALTY SIDE.

The greater part of the admiralty papers are (or were in 1903) kept in this office, in a cramped little room in a corner of the police court building, where they were ill protected from rain, not at all from insects and other vermin, and were rapidly deteriorating, some of them disintegrating or quite illegible. Most of the material deposited here belongs to the years 1792–1815, the period of greatest activity in the history of the vice-admiralty court of the Bahamas. Privateering and wrecking are the main concerns. There are papers of almost every conceivable kind connected with commercial navigation of that period—arguments and speeches of advocates, sentences and decrees of court, libels, ships' registers, clearances, manifests, bills of lading, captured correspondence in English, French, Spanish, and Portuguese, log-books, journals of voyages, etc. The documents pertaining to each individual case are collected into a separate package, with or without a wrapper, and tied up, most commonly with a label.

There are here a number of thin manuscript volumes of minutes of the vice-admiralty court, nearly all in paper covers. One of them runs from February, 1770, to June, 1778; another from December, 1786, to January, 1788; there is a nearly complete series of them from May, 1792, to July, 1805, and another from July, 1812, to June, 1813.

BARBADOS.

The amount of political records prior to 1816 that now exists in Bridgetown is comparatively small, especially when one considers that the island had then been a part of the British Empire for nearly two centuries. It is customary to attribute most losses to the hurricane of 1831. Many records undoubtedly disappeared at that time; but climate and insects on the one hand, and human indifference, neglect, and wilful destruction on the other, have taken heavy toll. For this period Barbados has preserved no governors' despatches or letter-books, no records of the custom-house or of the court of vice-admiralty, no files of its council or assembly. In brief we are almost wholly confined to minutes of the council and assembly and some of their acts, and none of these three series is complete.

It will be noted that comparatively little has been listed below for those periods of the eighteenth century when European warfare overflowed into colonial areas. This is largely due to the fact that English colonists in most of the West Indies viewed such events from a defensive viewpoint. Upon any declaration of war they prepared for defense, sometimes feebly, sometimes with vigor; made representations to the governor or to the king regarding the need of troops and further naval protection; and usually showed that they wished for as little disturbance of their channels of trade as possible. The Seven Years' War and the American Revolution, therefore, appear as periods of political and economic defensive measures. The disappearance of despatches and of records of the court of vice-admiralty of course sadly blurs the local picture. In minutes of council and assembly, however, we find entered some correspondence with admirals, and other papers on defense, the French naval force, and activities of privateers.

Viewed as a whole the items relating directly to American history are not numerous, and the information is confined mainly to commercial lines. It would not be proper, however, to dismiss these records without some indication of the indirect material they contain, much of which is of no small importance for students of certain lines of colonial development. One concrete example from a large number is furnished by the governor and council acting as a court of chancery. This practice was in full bloom in 1641, for an entry under October 13 of that year states, "By this and several of the Early Entries the Governor and Council who were chosen and appointed by the Gov'r seem from the first settlement to have assumed and practiced a Judicial power to hear and determine all matters of Complaint, Errors, Grievances and other Equitable causes, and which it is presumed continued till the Establishment of the several Courts". No separate register was kept, so we find a large amount of work performed by the council acting in this capacity spread at large among the ordinary minutes. In 1652 a special court of chancery was instituted, but the act was repealed in the following year, and the former practice resumed. It is plain, therefore, that any study of courts of chancery in the thirteen colonies must take into account their existence in Barbados and certain other islands of the West Indies, as well as their later history in Nova Scotia, and the subsequent transfer from Halifax to Quebec in 1765 of the same institution of governor and council as a court of chancery employed at Bridgetown in the first half of the seventeenth century.

Other divisions of the judicial establishment are equally fruitful in material of a collateral nature. In addition there are the relations of governor, council, and assembly, where individual pretensions and rival claims resulted in contests not only interesting as segments of local history, but which also played their part in the formation of precedents. The treatment of Quakers and Jews, the large field of shipping, problems of currency, relations with the foreign islands, smuggling and piracy—these and many other topics were matters in which the English colonial world was deeply interested. Although the mainland colonies viewed such problems from a different angle and naturally at times moved to quite another solution, yet the fact that they were common factors of colonial life formed a bond, less tangible than the commerce that united them, but whose existence was no less real. Intercolonial communication was for the most part easier by water than by land, and was wont to follow the routes of trade. With these two facts before us we can easily see why dwellers along the shores of New England often had a clearer idea of some of the West Indies than of Georgia and the Carolinas, and the Halifax merchant was apt to know better the wharves of Basseterre and Bridgetown than those of Quebec and Montreal. News of the colonial world that went with vessels laden with rum and molasses and by brigs freighted with provisions and lumber reacted on colonial life, and its traces are found in contemporary legislation. Little of this mutual influence appears in plain view: only occasional bits can be listed; but for any student of colonial development it adds much to the value of the registers and bundles of old papers lying in various depositories at Bridgetown.

MINUTES OF COUNCIL.

As a matter of convenience we may take up these records in four series, as follows:

I. Original books of minutes. Most of them are very fragile, and some portions have already fallen to pieces or have been riddled by insects. To examine such volumes in detail would be to assist greatly in their destruction.

II. From 1818 to 1828 the late Judge Lucas had the original minutes transcribed into large volumes, which average about 500 pages. He thus performed a notable service, but it must be noted that his copies are incomplete in two respects, neither of which is serious. In the first place not every item of the original minutes was included. This is not important, and the American student need not concern himself about it at all, for certainly everything of value to him is transcribed, the chief omissions being routine items and repetitions. On the other hand, the present search brought to light two originals unknown to Judge Lucas, belonging to the years 1719 and 1755. A note in his transcripts deplores the apparent loss of these minutes for most of 1755 as a serious imperfection in the records. The writing of these copies is not of the best quality, and the paper has become yellow and brittle. In fact portions of the transcripts are in no better condition than some of the originals. Each volume has a table of contents. For the average student this aid will probably be of doubtful value. These transcripts are at the Bridgetown Public Library, with the exception of volumes 1, 2, 3, 5, 10, and 35, which are in the possession of Attorney General Sir Charles Clarke.

III. A few duplicate minutes of council have been received from the Colonial Office.

IV. In the last twenty years the registrar has tried to have a full transcript made of the oldest original minutes. Gaps in the latter were filled as far as possible from the Lucas set. This enterprise has been halted by withdrawal of the appropriation.

A comparison of lists shows that a complete set of minutes does not exist, even when those at the Public Record Office are taken into account. Probably a still more serious loss is that of all the accompanying papers for our period.

The present examination was made from the two series of transcripts, with the exception of the few items that have not been copied. The lists for I. and II. are modifications of those drawn up in 1905 by Professor C. H. Hull, to whom grateful acknowledgment is here made.

All of these minutes, with the exception of the Lucas transcripts noted above, are in the nominal custody of the colonial secretary, but are kept in the vaults of the registrar's office, on the first story of the government buildings. These vaults would likely offer only a fair resistance to fire.

Deposition of William Arnold (or Arnoll) of Boston, lately master of the brigantine Friendship, as to his capture by pirates in Aug., 1718. (P. 275.)

* Actual dates present; beginning or end of the volume missing.

Deposition of Joseph Bloodworth, captain of the American snow Sea Nymph, owned by Stephen "Delansee" of N. Y., lately taken by the pirate ship Royal Rover, Walter Kennedy commander. Jan. 1, 1719/20; followed by the deposition of Thomas Evans, mate of the Sea Nymph. (Pp. 500-506.)

14. Feb. 16, 1719/20-Aug. 2, 1720.

15. August 15, 1720-Oct. 28, 1721.

16. Oct. 28, 1721-Jan. 21, 1723/4.

17. Jan. 22, 1723/4-Apr. 17, 1733.

for the minutes between vols. 17 and 18 see vol. 33.

18. Oct. 28, 1735-Dec. 8, 1740.

The first 84 pages contain sundry papers of a committee "to Inquire and examine into the present State, Condition and Trade of this and the rest of the West India Settlements". The first two letters, dated Oct. 27 and 28, 1735, give many details of W. I. commerce and that of Barbados in particular, with comments thereon. Only small portions relate directly to trade with the northern colonies, but the material as a whole is interesting for the commerce of the sugar islands.

19. Dec. 10, 1740-Apr. 6, 1745.

20. Apr. 6, 1745-Feb. 18, 1745/6.

21. Feb. 18, 1745/6-Dec. 3, 1746.

22. Dec. 3, 1746-Apr. 26, 1748.

23. Apr. 26, 1748-May 13, 1752.

Address to the king by the council and assembly, on commerce between the foreign sugar plantations and the northern colonies. Oct. 29, 1751. (Pp. 501-504.)

24. May 13, 1752-Sept. 21, 1761.

25. Oct. 1, 1755-Dec. 20, 1758.

26. Sept. 21, 1761-Apr. 28, 1767.

27. Apr. 28, 1767-May 25, 1773.

There is some material on imperial legislation for putting customs in America, and the execution of the laws there relating to trade, in the hands of resident commissioners. 1767.

28. June 8, 1773-Sept. 28, 1779.

Long extracts from governors' instructions are entered before the American Revolution, and continue through that period. General material relates to privateers, means to prevent trade with rebels, an address to the governor by the assembly on interruption of commerce with the rebellious colonies, and defense against the French.

Answers of a committee to numerous queries on Barbados, its produce, imports, exports, trade with various regions, etc. Oct. 26, 1773.

Measures to prevent any shipment of gunpowder or other warlike stores from Barbados to N. Am. Sept., 1775.

Imperial proclamation for suppressing rebellion and sedition. St. James's, Aug. 23, 1775.

Correspondence of the governor with Vice-Adm. James Young on measures to remedy the scarcity of provisions, especially of corn. Apr., 1776.

29. Oct. 27, 1779-May 15, 1781.

30. June 13, 1781-Jan. 16, 1787.

Contains some material on the regulation of commerce between the Br. W. I. and the U. S.

31. Jan. 16, 1787-Dec. 22, 1796.

32. Jan. 19, 1796-May 28, 1811.

Contains material on embargoes and other regulations affecting trade with the U. S.; protests against such restrictions; and importation of fish from Br. N. Am.

33. May 28, 1811-Dec. 22, 1812; May 8, 1733-Oct. 28, 1735.

Petition of the council and assembly to the House of Commons, relating to trade, and containing some allusions to commerce with the northern colonies. Nov. 13, 1733. (Pp. 326-328.)

34. Jan. 2, 1821-Apr. 15, 1825. A note at the beginning of this volume states that the minutes intervening between vols. 33 and 34 have been lost.

Duplicate Council Minutes.

One bundle received from the Colonial Office contains portions from C. O. 412. These minutes, which range from 1729 to 1782, are only fragmentary.

Recent Copies of Council Minutes.

1. 1609-1667. There are only three pages of extracts of minutes, covering the period Oct. 13, 1641-Jan. 4, 1653/4. The remainder of the book is filled with extracts from printed English calendars of papers dealing with the early history of the West Indies, and of Barbados in particular.

2. "1652-1671." Feb. 7, 1653/4-Apr. 19, 1671. (554 pp.)

Oct. 10, 1684-Nov. 20, 1689. (578 pp.)

Nov. 20, 1689-June 9, 1696. (578 pp.)

At page 3 is the petition of James Smith, captain of the Mary, who had come from Va. to Glasgow, and on the return voyage instead of reaching Boston had been taken by a French ship, and finally arrived at Barbados. Nov., 1689.

MINUTES OF ASSEMBLY.

All assembly minutes in Barbados previous to 1737/8 have disappeared, as have also accompanying papers until comparatively recent years. The earliest minutes are very incomplete. During the years 1907-1909 the originals were copied as far as 1818, on heavy paper of the best quality and bound in volumes averaging about 200 pages of text. Many blank pages are left, especially in the earlier volumes, corresponding to gaps in the manuscript. There is no index.

The first printed minutes in the possession of the assembly begin in 1838, but at the public library the set starts in 1823.

The original manuscripts still exist, but are very fragile. The present examination was made from the copies.

Addresses of the governor, proclamations, petitions of the assembly, of various bodies, and of individuals are among the important elements entered. From about the beginning of the American Revolution much correspondence with the colonial agent is also found. Many speeches appear in the later volumes.

These records are in the custody of the speaker of the assembly, to whom any application with reference to them should be made.

1. Feb. 17, 1737/8-May 12, 1741.

2. Dec. 15, 1741–Apr. 28, 1745.

Address of the council and assembly to the king, on the trade of Barbados with the northern colonies, Ireland, England, etc. Nov. 2, 1743.

3. Apr. 29–Nov. 1, 1745.

4. Nov. 1, 1745–Oct. 13, 1749.

5. Oct. 20, 1749–Jan. 21, 1756.

6. Feb. 18, 1756–Aug. 18, 1761.

Material on the Seven Years' War is plentiful, but is confined to the W. I.

7. Sept. 21, 1761–Aug. 4, 1767.

Vote of thanks to the assembly of S. C. for aid granted to sufferers from recent fires in Barbados. Apr. 28, 1767.

8. Sept. 1, 1767–May 12, 1772.

9. June 3, 1772–Sept. 6, 1774.

Several speeches relate to trade and to the manumission of slaves.

10. Oct. 4, 1774–Feb. 17, 1778.

Speeches, addresses, and correspondence with the agent relate at times to distress in the W. I. as a result of measures to suspend trade with certain northern colonies, and to operations of American privateers. There is also some correspondence with the admiral on that station.

11. Apr. 18, 1781–Apr. 23, 1782.

12. July, 1782.

13. Oct. 29, 1782–Nov. 29, 1785.

Many addresses, petitions, and letters. The publication of the treaty of peace and of subsequent orders in Council regulating trade with the U. S.; petitions for freer commerce with America, and arguments showing the need for more lumber and provisions than could be imported in British vessels manned by British seamen; a petition to the governor and legislature of Barbados by Loyalists in E. Fla.

14. Jan. 17, 1786–Dec. 18, 1787.

Memorial from the colonial agent on landing of corn at Barbados by an American vessel. Oct. 29, 1785. (Pp. 12–15.)

15. May 11, 1796–Nov. 9, 1802.

Letter from the committee of correspondence to the agent, on the export of sugar to America from Barbados. Mar. 12, 1800.

Proposal of the agent to extend the free-port bill to Barbados, and resulting problem as to importation of cotton and lumber.

16. Dec. 2, 1802–June 7, 1803.

A letter from the agent, with minutes of W. I. planters and merchants in London, relating to duties.

17. Jan. 15, 1805–Jan. 27, 1807. (With this volume begin extracts copied from the Barbados Mercury and the Bridgetown Gazette, to supplement gaps in the originals.)

18. Nov. 20, 1810–Nov. 28, 1815.

There are a few references to economic results of hostilities with the U. S. (e.g., the difficulty of getting an ample supply of staves), and to privateers.

19. Jan. 17, 1816–July 28, 1818.

ACTS.

All of the old acts are nominally in the custody of the colonial secretary, but are kept in the vaults of the registrar. There are no original loose acts prior to the nineteenth century. Original entry-books before 1783 seen by Professor Hull are not now in evidence. The earlier books have since been copied, and originals have probably drifted to some obscure corner.

Acts. 1650-1682. Recent copies. (526 pp.)

" 1682-1698. " " (453 pp.)

This last volume has been wrongly labelled as "Minutes of the House of Assembly". There is no direct material for American history. One act (Dec. 10, 1684) relates to pirates, and there is also material on the treatment of Quakers, Jews, and negroes, the administration of justice, etc.

Duplicate acts. 1735-1795. (C. O. 412:70.)

" " 1768. (C. O. 412:71.)

These two items are only duplicates of material already examined at the Public Record Office.

For the period 1800-1815 there are two volumes covering the years 1805-1825, and original, loose acts for 1801-1805, 1808-1815. The items listed below are among these loose papers, kept in a large tin box.

These were checked with a volume of The Public Acts in Force . . . Between the 8th April, 1800, and the first year of the Reign of King William the Fourth, published in 1844, and known as "Taylor's Laws". A table of acts not then in force is at pp. 178 et seq. of this book, and the information found there is given in parentheses below. It will be seen that only two acts of the list were then in force.

"An Act to remit the payment of the Tonnage Duties by the Masters or Commanders of Ships or Vessels arriving at this Island laden wholly or in part with Military or Naval Stores for the use of His Majesty's Army and Navy in the West Indies, and not taking in other loading here or breaking bulk otherwise than by landing such Stores." Nov. 12, 1805.

An act laying a duty on all brandy, gin, and other spirituous liquors imported into this island. Feb. 2, 1808. (Expired.)

"An Act laying a Duty on all Ships or Vessels belonging to the subjects of any State in amity with His Majesty importing the articles hereinafter mentioned and also laying a duty on certain of said articles." June 5, 1809. (Relates to lumber, live stock, and provisions. Repealed.)

"An Act laying a duty on certain Articles of the Growth or Produce of the United States of America, imported into this Island in Ships or Vessels belonging to the Subjects of any State in Amity with His Majesty." Sept. 18, 1810. (Expired.)

An act to continue the preceding act. Nov. 5, 1811. (Expired.)

An act laying a duty on all brandy, gin, and other spirituous liquors imported into this island. May 12, 1812. (Expired.)

An act to continue the preceding act. Nov. 14, 1815.

THE RECORDS.

The registrar's office contains probate records, land records, and transcripts of the registers of parishes; the original parish records have often perished in hurricanes or otherwise. These records have value for New England and other genealogy rather than for history. Some extracts from them are given in an article by G. Andrews Moriarty, jr., "Barbadian Notes", in the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, LXVII. 360-371.

BERMUDA.

While it did not prove practicable to investigate all possible depositories, the principal materials appear to lie in the following classes:

I. Papers in custody of the colonial secretary, preserved in the Public Building.

II. Parish records.

III. Family papers.

IV. Corporation records.

MATERIALS IN THE PUBLIC BUILDING.

The colonial secretary has the custody of all official documents relating to the central government of the islands, except such legal records as are preserved in the registrar's office. The secretary's office, and consequently the safes in which papers entrusted to him repose, are situated in the Public Building at Hamilton, a dignified structure erected in 1840, and containing not only the offices of the governor and secretary but also the council chamber and certain other public offices.

The materials in this building consist of several hundred bound volumes of manuscripts,¹ which are accessible to searchers by permission of the colonial secretary. While supposedly covering the full period of British occupation of the islands, the collection is very incomplete. Up to the year 1782, when Secretary Henry Tucker put an end to the practice of removal of records by outgoing office-holders, and commenced systematic preservation, no classes of documents exist in any completeness except those which were necessary for the administration of property. No letters or despatches from the governors exist for dates prior to 1814, and the despatches of the home government to the governors commence in 1809. Except as otherwise noted, the documents are in good condition. There is in the colonial secretary's office an unpublished list, recently made, entitled "Index to Record Books", which covers 422 volumes. While the numbering of the volumes is consecutive in arabic numerals, they are classified in groups according to subject, and sometimes bear group numberings in roman numerals. Both general group numberings will be adhered to in the following description. In many cases the index also supplies dates covered by a particular volume. Most groups include index volumes, and many individual volumes have their own indexes as well. Occasionally cross-indexes are found. In general, the indexes seem to have been carefully made.

A. Richard Norwood's Survey of Bermuda, 1663.²

B. "True Copy of Norwood's Map of Bermuda, A. D. 1802, by John Van Norden."

1-16. 1781-1852. Protests.

Protests of ships' masters, filed in case of capture, wreck, or other misadventure. Supply details concerning vessels, cargoes, ownership, nationality, circumstance of capture, convoy, etc. Vol. 16 is an index to vol. 1-15, and supplies some particulars concerning the 2500 entries indexed.

² Apparently the original or an early copy of Norwood's second survey (the "Bermuda Domesday"), made in 1662 and 1663. 91 pp., bound. This corresponds to Lefroy's volume VI. See Memorials of Bermuda (London, 1879), by Maj.-Gen. Sir J. H. Lefroy, a former governor, I. xx-xxv.

17-29. 1782-1899. Miscellaneous.

Legal documents, including warrants to survey goods imported and settle salvage, commitments, licenses to teach, powers of attorney, bonds (of revenue officers and others), certificates of naturalization, bills of sale, acquittances of executors, debentures, assignments, and, in particular, returns of imports and exports of slaves, statistics of manumissions, slave marriages, commitments of runaway slaves, slaves escheated, taken in execution and sold for taxes, and statistics of free colored population. Volumes indexed, with exception of vol. 29, which is itself a "General Index of manumissions and bills of sale of slaves" contained in vols. 17-26.

30-34, 34 A. 1782-1901. Proclamations.

Entry-books of proclamations, issued according to royal instructions or on governor's own authority, concerning meetings of assembly, embargoes, peace and war, apprehension of criminals, regulation of trade, etc. Proclamations concerning trade especially important, sometimes supplying detailed lists of duties.

35-40, 397. 1782-1901. Administration and Guardianship.

Entry-books of administration and guardianship, renunciation of executorship, deeds of conveyance, etc. Difficult to use, and more useful for genealogy than for history. There are very interesting copies of old deeds.³ Vol. 397 is an index to vols. 35-39.

41-52. 1721-1879. Commissions.

Entry-books of commissions issued by royal warrant or by governor's own authority, to various civil officials, including naval officers, treasurers, clerks of assembly, lawyers, judges of assize, justices of the peace, parish rectors, receivers general, controllers of customs, deputy agents, registrars of vice-admiralty, etc. Vol. 52 serves as index to ten earlier volumes.

53-79, 62 A, 79 A, 392-396. 1648-1881. Wills.

Entry-books of wills of date prior to 1700, including administration papers, bonds, inventories, etc.⁴ Vol. 53 (1648-1685) consists of folios restored and interleaved and rearranged by Lefroy, and includes documents of great interest, for example, Roger Wood's will, 1653, and inventory of his estate made by Norwood, 1654. Inventories often include detailed valuations. Original index inaccurate. A later index in Lefroy's hand incomplete. Contents of succeeding volumes similar. Separate indexes of wills and of full contents. Vols. 58, 59, and 60 are listed by Lefroy as "Wills, Nos. 4, 5, and 6." Vols. 62 A, 79 A, and 392-396 are indexes and registers.

80-84, 84 A. 1783-1903. Writs and Forms.

Entry-books of writs and various forms, including warrants for cartels to transport prisoners,⁵ licenses to vessels to trade at friendly ports in war time, returns of slave population, and "sea passes".

³ E. g., in vol. 35, copies of a group of deeds bearing on the sale, in 1758, by Diamond Sargent, of York County, Massachusetts Bay, to Robert Traill, of Portsmouth, N. H., for 750 pounds sterling, of a third part of the island of Miquelon, "which island was guaranteed to the said Diamond Sargent by Governor Phillips of Nova Scotia about six and thirty years ago".

⁴ After 1700 the related papers receive separate classification.

85-96. 1782-1901. Inventories.

Entry-books of inventories, illustrating in considerable detail, with valuations, all properties belonging to estates, including slaves. Vol. 85 is an index to vols. 86-96.

97-143, 399-403. Deeds.

Entry-books of deeds, in some cases containing other material. Vol. 101 contains earliest deeds, and also protests, depositions, powers of attorney, articles of agreement, petitions, proceedings of council, and some court records. It is not chronologically arranged, and has no index. Vol. 103 is similar in content but has "Index to Deeds, Bonds, Protests, etc., etc., in this Book taken June 21st, 1780". Vols. 98-100, 102, 104-106 (1761-1814), contain nothing but deeds, and each volume has an index, agreeing with the general and cross-indexes. Later volumes not examined. Vols. 97, 399-403 are general and cross-indexes.

144-162 A, 162 F. 1779 to date. Mortgages.

Entry books of mortgages, with bonds, cancellations, and transfers. Earliest volumes in poor condition, though not absolutely illegible. Arrangement not strictly chronological. Nos. 162 A, 162 F are indexes and cross-indexes.

163-181. 1847 to date. Marriage Records.

182-221. 1694-1904. Minutes and Journals of Council and Assembly.⁶

This series, from 182 to 197 inclusive, is in bad condition. Leaves are loose, and the books have to be tied to keep them intact. Only those volumes have been listed that are prior to 1816, and these had to be listed from a memorandum in the office of the colonial secretary, not from the originals in the room below.

182. Minutes of privy council.⁷ 1700-1708.

⁷ Legislative and privy councils were identical in personnel until 1888.

215. Records of minutes of privy council. 1802-1804.

216. " " " " " " 1808-1810.

222-224, 398. 1758-1917. Grants.

Entry-books of grants, often with relevant papers, such as correspondence or instructions. Vol. 222 contains papers on sale of crown lands and revenue arising therefrom. Vol. 398 forms a general index to the other volumes.

225-236. 1693-1905. Affidavits and Bonds.

Entry-books of affidavits and bonds, concerning mainly maritime commerce and intestate estates, but including bills of lading and exchange, protests regarding piracy and privateering, accounts of stores of war, discharges of bonds, powers of attorney, letters of administration, proclamations, bills of sale, warrants, commissions, and court proceedings. Frequently refer to trade with continental colonies. Vols. 232, 234 (1743-1760) are made up almost entirely of protests. Vol. 235 (1766-1779), more miscellaneous, contains many deeds and gifts. Vol. 230 contains an indenture between Edward Archer of Pembroke and Alexander Parris of Charleston, S. C., conveying 3020 acres of land near Port Royal River to Parris. Vol. 236 contains two orders for payment on account of subsistence for American prisoners, 1781. All volumes except 233 and 236 are indexed.

237-244. 1700 to date. Action Books.

These volumes contain court records in civil actions only. Apparently complete in this respect, but contain no other material.

245-247. Through 1830. Slave Registrations.

Registrations of slaves, made by proprietors or agents, giving in each case name, sex, color, employment, age, and place of origin, and sometimes disposition and death. Vol. 245 bears no dates; vol. 246 is "the Second Triennial Registration of slaves in the Bermudas, under the Act entitled 'An Act for the Complete Registration of Slaves, passed the 24th day of March, 1827', 1830". Total numbers given. Vol. 247 continues 246.

248-250. 1705-1765. Vice-Admiralty Papers.⁸ (Very incomplete.)

Vol. 248 (1705-1746) contains instructions to privateers, appointments of naval officers, depositions on illegal trade, and some court records. No chronological arrangement. Contains deposition on sloop Margaret from Virginia, supposedly carrying corn but discovered to have a quantity of tobacco. Vol. 249 (1708-1725) contains papers on twelve trials, including that of David Vaughan of the brigantine Industry of Boston. Interesting details of cargoes, etc., given. Vol. 250 (1762-1765) contains record of the trial of brigantine Fairholm.

257. 1808-1821. Powder Fund.

Gives dates, names, tonnage, nationality of vessels, and amounts collected. Many American vessels listed.

258, 259, 266. 1783-. Accounts of Crown Lands Quit-Rents.

Contain accounts of quit-rent returns, description of crown lands, and accounts of disposals of crown lands. Vol. 266 is a sealed volume which has not been examined since coming into the custody of the secretary, but is known to follow vol. 258.

⁸ According to Mr. Winslow Bell, all admiralty records were kept by justices of the peace or special registrars until 1909. At that time they were merged under a general registrar of the islands; but many are still in the hands of their former custodians, and are very difficult of access.

262-263. 1789-1841. Chancery Proceedings.

Records of proceedings in chancery, including an account of chancery fees for 1798-1799.

264. "Copies of papers of date later than A. D. 1650, collected and sorted by General Lefroy, May 1874."

Miscellaneous papers (some of dates prior to 1650) including council minutes, court records, and letters on shipbuilding, Quakers, tobacco, schools, whale-fishery, etc.

265. 1810-1837. Despatches and Orders in Council.

Include commission to governor for issue of letters of marque, 1812; instructions regarding same; and order in Council authorizing importation of specified goods.

277-289. 1612-1713. Colonial Records.

These thirteen volumes form one of the most valuable parts of the collection, and correspond to the nine volumes described by Lefroy in the introduction to his Memorials of Bermuda, I. xv-xxvii. The work of restoration has been performed with great skill and success. Those manuscripts or portions of manuscripts which have been printed in the Memorials are frequently, if not always, indicated by marginal markings, a fact which to some extent lessens the inconvenience of Lefroy's failure to give exact references for his printed documents. The contents of these volumes may be judged so accurately by the selections made by Lefroy for his Memorials, and from the brief descriptions above referred to, that it remains only to establish more definite identification between Lefroy's numbering and that now in use in the colonial secretary's office, and to indicate what classes of material, if any, have been insufficiently emphasized in the Memorials.

277, corresponding to Lefroy's vol. I. 1616-1640. Contains also much on tobacco culture and trade, parish and church difficulties, records of civil actions, correspondence between the company and governors, and various general levies.

278. 1622-1633. Contains Books A, B, C, D, and E, of which the four latter correspond to Lefroy's Fragments B, C, D, and E. A contains letters, proclamations, affidavits, warrants, receipts, certificates, and proceedings of general assizes. Fragment E contains also proclamations, indentures, oaths of office, accounts of general levies of 1630 and 1631, arbitrations, settlement of pews in Southampton Church.

279. 1631-1634. Corresponds to Lefroy's Fragment F (Governor Wood's Letter-Book).

280. 1636-1661. Corresponds to Lefroy's volume II.

281. 1647-1661. Corresponds to Lefroy's volume III.

283. 1661-1676. Corresponds to Lefroy's End B (volume V.).

284. 1647-1683. Corresponds to Lefroy's volume IV., Fragment I.

Contains list of original adventurers for plantations of the Summer Islands, 12 Jac. I., 117 names.

285. 1676-1689. Corresponds to Lefroy's volume VII.⁹

286. 1677-1692. Corresponds to Lefroy's volume IX.¹⁰

⁹ It was from this volume that vol. 58 (Wills, No. 4) was detached.

¹⁰ This volume however bears the number VIII. in the group numbering of the colonial secretary's office.

287. 1655-1671. Corresponds to Lefroy's Fragments G and H. Shipping instructions referred to by Lefroy include protests, sales,¹¹ licenses to the magazine ship, articles of agreement on portioning of prizes, inventories of plunder, etc., acts of the general assembly relating to schools, tobacco, pay of soldiers, treatment of slaves, exportation of coin, refusals to accept public office, etc.
288. 1677-1713. Corresponds to Lefroy's volume VIII.¹² The latter part of the volume, concerning which Lefroy fails to particularize, is a "Book of Bonds, Bills, No. 5", Dec. 5, 1707-Apr. 24, 1713.
289. 1612-1623. Corresponds to Lefroy's Fragment A.
290. 1720-1726. Court Records. Records, with related papers, of proceedings in the general court sitting in the capacity of court of assizes, general gaol delivery, and common pleas.
- 291-315. Confidential Letters.
- 316-384. 1696 to date. Acts and Resolves.¹³ Apparently complete in manuscript,¹⁴ including laws not confirmed. Some originals, and some copies; overlapping frequent.
- As noted above, no despatches from the Colonial Office were found prior to 1809, and even after that date the series is incomplete. They do not belong to the numbered series of volumes, and are kept in the colonial secretary's room. The first volume covers the years 1809-1816. Among the items noted are instructions (Mar. 1, 1811) for strict enforcement of laws against the slave-trade; packet communications; treaty of peace with the U. S.; reduction of colonial charges, and prohibitory colonial duties. A note from Thomas Lack (Board of Trade) to Henry Goulburn (Colonial Office), July 7, 1815, deals with the renewal of trade relations with the U. S., and states that their lordships are "not at present prepared to recommend any alteration in the laws by which this intercourse is regulated, as these appear to them to be fully adequate for all present purposes, and the more especially because any extension of those laws would involve a greater departure from our Colonial system than has hitherto been deemed advisable in time of peace".

PARISH RECORDS.

These are especially difficult of access, since in most cases the older records were retained by the rectors or parish clerks, and therefore suffered the fate which commonly overtakes family papers. There is at present a movement in Bermuda to collect what remains of these records, to store them in the Public Building, and to supply copies to the parishes. The existence of records was established in three cases, although it is not to be assumed that others will be discovered. What records do exist consist mainly of diaries kept by the rectors. These were personal diaries, but contain records of ¹¹ Including that of the Speedwell of Salem, 20 tons, 470 pounds.

baptisms, marriages, burials, and sometimes births. It was from these diaries that the periodical reports of parish populations were made up. These diaries at times contain items of some historical interest.

St. Peter's Church, St. Georges Parish.

Copy of Rev. Alexander Richardson's personal diary. 1756-1772, 1778-1801. During the intervening period he was at St. Eustatius. The original of this diary is in private hands.

Port Royal Parish.

Earliest records are of 1623.

Southampton Parish.

Records commence in 1626.

Pembroke Parish.

Six sheets of the rector's diary for 1746.

FAMILY PAPERS.

There would appear to be valuable collections of family papers extant; but they are not easy of access, and it did not prove possible to subject any to actual inspection. The papers of the Peniston and Godet families are at least among the more valuable sets. Miss Millicent Godet of Paget possesses the Godet papers.

CORPORATION RECORDS.

Minutes of proceedings of the board of corporations for Hamilton, found in Minute-Books A-K, running from the date of incorporation (1795) to present time. These books also contain copies of important correspondence of which record is desired; accessible to searchers for particular records, but notes taken are subject to examination. Records of St. George not examined, but it is understood that they commence in 1797, and are incomplete.

BRITISH GUIANA.

No inspection of the archives of British Guiana was made for the purposes of this volume. Some information respecting them was, however, communicated to the Royal Commission on Public Records in 1911 by the late N. Darnell Davis, C. M. G., formerly auditor general of British Guiana, and was printed in 1914 in the Second Report of that commission, vol. II., part II., p. 120. It may be useful to quote here, from that page, Mr. Davis's two paragraphs upon the subject.

"The records of Essequibo and of Demerara, at first distinct Colonies, and subsequently embodied into one Colony, are kept in Georgetown, the capital of British Guiana. The records of Berbice, when a distinct Colony, were kept in New Amsterdam, in Berbice. Since these Colonies were joined into the Colony of British Guiana, the records of the Administration and of the Legislature have been kept in Georgetown, in the offices of the Government Secretary, and of the several Departments of the Government. The legal records of Berbice are, however, still deposited in the Registrar's Office at New Amsterdam, other legal records being preserved in the office of the Registrar, in the Victoria Law Courts, in Georgetown.

"A number of records were, some years ago, taken out of the Public Buildings in Georgetown, and deposited in two out-buildings specially built to hold them. Some of these papers were used for the British case in the Boundary dispute with Venezuela. The papers included a number of documents containing records of births, etc., at a time when the capital of Essequibo and Demerara was at Port Island. I do not know whether the documents in the out-buildings have yet been transferred to the several Departments to which they properly appertain."

BRITISH HONDURAS.

No inspection of the archives of British Honduras was made for the purposes of this volume. A brief statement respecting them was, however, made in the course of a Memorandum on Official Records in the West Indies communicated by the Secretary of State for the Colonies, in May, 1911, to the Royal Commission on Public Records, and was printed in 1914 in the Second Report of that commission, vol. II., part II., p. 116. It may be useful to quote here the paragraph respecting British Honduras in that communication.

"The Governor reported (April 1906) that the older records were in better condition than might have been expected, but that the ink was generally much faded; that a fire-proof room, opening from the office of the Registrar General (who was keeper of the Records), was approaching completion, and that provision of two fire-proof closets was contemplated. As regards current records, most official records were printed and in good order, and might be expected to last, but as regards written records the Governor feared the durability of the ink. He proposed to experiment with certain fluid carbon inks and to have the use thereof adopted in the Record Office if the result of the tests was satisfactory."

DOMINICA.

In the town of Roseau political records are found in two localities. At the administrator's office a few of the older books are located in a cupboard on the ground floor, but most of them in this cupboard are later than 1830. In a building just across the yard another cupboard holds despatches and minutes of privy and legislative councils of varying dates.

At the court-house existing records of the assembly are in two cupboards on the ground floor, as noted below. A small room upstairs houses a collection of valuable fragments. It is the most unsuitable room in the building for the storage of records. A door and three windows leave little wall space, and rickety wooden cases were installed instead of strong shelving. The resulting congestion, and lack of appreciation of the material, led to the well-known method of obtaining more space by means of a bonfire. During the year just preceding the present inspection, many volumes and loose papers were deliberately burned, among which, according to local recollection, were some records of the court of vice-admiralty. Official opinion now views the incident with a certain amount of regret, and there is no intention to continue the practice. The question is whether the same cycle will repeat itself when the present personnel changes and memory grows dim. The fact that some of the most valuable old records of the colony are allowed to lie in disorder on the floor of this room at the court-house, and that others shown in their mildewed condition the evidence of past neglect, is not likely to inculcate in the minds of younger officials a high regard for their value. Another discouraging feature is that none of these depositories is anywhere near fireproof.

Under the circumstances it is rather surprising that there are at least samples of so many classes of records. Early files of the councils have vanished, as have also proclamations and customs papers. Nearly every other series has at least a representative.

As one might expect, the archives of this island frequently show that popular sympathy with illicit trade was strong and almost universal. Suspected informers were fortunate if they escaped with a minimum of tar, feathers, and a severe beating.

ADMINISTRATOR'S OFFICE.

DESPATCHES FROM THE COLONIAL OFFICE.

These are unbound, and are in large bundles in a wooden cupboard. The first is labelled "1785 to 1827", but contains a variety of papers. The earliest despatch is dated July 12, 1811.

Certain circular despatches noted briefly here have been treated more fully under St. Lucia.

Liverpool to Lieut.-Gov. Barnes. Circular. Instructions to prevent the entrance via America of foreigners from those parts of Europe under French control. Mar. 21, 1812.

Bathurst to Gov. Ainslie. Circular. Sends order in Council of July 31, ordering the detention of any U. S. vessels together with their passengers and effects. Aug. 1, 1812. (Enclosure present.)

Goulburn to Pres. Corlet. Circular. Sends declaration of the Prince Regent on origin of the war with the U. S. Jan. 11, 1813. (Enclosure missing.)

Bathurst to Gov. Ainslie. Printed circular, enclosing an order in Council on the issue of licenses permitting importation and exportation of certain articles, and instructions regarding the same. June 23, 1813. (Enclosure present.)

Sir Francis Laforey to same. Circular. No vessels homeward-bound to sail without convoy, under penalty. The Cressy, Carlisle Bay, Barbados, Apr. 30, 1813.

Bathurst to same. Circular. Sends order in Council of Nov. 30 on importation and exportation of certain specified articles in neutral vessels. Dec. 17, 1813. (Enclosure present.)

Same to Pres. Lucas. Circular. Instructions that henceforth any "Relaxations of the Colonial Policy" as to certain imports should take place only under exceptional circumstances. Dec. 23, 1815.

Address of assembly to the governor, urging that the port be opened to American ships, in order to avert the famine threatened as a result of the recent hurricane. Oct. 4, 1816.

Bathurst to Gov. Whittingham, no. 5. Approves opening of the port following a hurricane, but regrets that lumber had been admitted in addition to provisions. Dec. 27, 1820.

Same to Huntingdon. Circular. In consequence of special duties on British shipping in American ports, asks if there are any "discriminating Duties, on Foreign Ships and Goods in favour of British Navigation levied in the British West India Islands under the authority of the Colonial Governments". Dec. 30, 1822. (One enclosure, from Board of Trade, dated Nov. 18.)

Id. Circular. Sends order in Council of July 21, "imposing certain duties on American Vessels and Cargoes entering the British Ports in the West Indies and North America in the cases therein specified". July 31, 1823. (Enclosure present.)

Id. Circular. Sends letter from Board of Trade respecting heavy charges on English trade and shipping in the Br. W. I. and Br. N. Am., and requests information. June 4, 1824. (Enclosure, dated Mar. 16, speaks of keen competition, and of trade of the U. S. and of other countries with S. A.)

Same to Maj.-Gen. Nicolay. Circular. Ports of the Br. W. I. are to be closed to ships of the U. S. from Dec. 1 next. Aug. 12, 1826. (Enclosure from the Treasury present, dated Aug. 2.)

Id. Circular. Details of negotiations with the U. S. on trade restrictions. Aug. 19, 1826. (15 pp.)

Id. Circular. Sends letter from Board of Trade on the interpretation of recent trade regulations. Apr. 18, 1827. (Enclosure present, dated Apr. 17.)

Huskisson to officer administering the government. Circular. Sends, with detailed comments, an order in Council of July 16 "regulating the Commercial Intercourse between His Majesty's Possessions abroad and Foreign Countries". Sept. 18, 1827. (Triplicate. Enclosure missing.)

Same to Nicolay. Circular. Sends papers "respecting the Privateers, bearing Commissions from the Government of Buenos Ayres, that infest the West Indian Seas". May 3, 1828. (The enclosures are from the Foreign Office and from St. Kitts. The latter says, "they are mostly manned by Americans, and frequently commanded by them". He also mentions Saba and St. Eustatius, and the employment of the Dutch flag.)

Murray to same. Circular. Sends papers on admission of vessels from the U. S. into ports of the Br. W. I., etc. Nov. 10, 1830. (Enclosures missing.)

LETTER-BOOK, DESPATCHES TO THE COLONIAL OFFICE.

June 24, 1822–July 28, 1824. (Unpaged.)

(Huntingdon) to Bathurst. No. 33. No tonnage or light dues are levied in Dominica, and American ships are only liable to the same duties as British vessels. Mar. 12, 1823.

ENTRY-BOOKS.

Three entry-books contain copies of despatches from the Colonial Office, and of replies thereto, 1824–1830. No material for our purpose was found among the replies from Dominica.

DUPLICATE DESPATCHES.

Four volumes of duplicate despatches, Dominica to the Colonial Office, have been presented by the latter in recent years. They cover the period 1814–1840. As this material had already been treated in the portion of this book relating to the Public Record Office no examination was made.

MINUTES OF PRIVY COUNCIL.

"Vol. 3." June 9, 1789–Feb. 22, 1800. (243 pp.)

Minute on a petition of planters, merchants, and other inhabitants, stating: "that the Colony stands very much in need of lumber of all kinds, and of Horses and mules, with which there is very little probability of this colony being supplied by British vessels before or during the hurricane months, from the number of private and public french ships of war now cruising on the coasts of America, and between these islands and His Majesty's American colonies. That as his Honor's proclamation of the 23rd of June last, now

- stands, the articles thereby allowed to be imported, must be purchased with ready money, or such bills of exchange as the venders may chuse to receive; which latter mode of payment seldom takes place: in either of which cases the island remains in a very distressed state: in the first, the island is drained of all its current cash; and in the latter, Bills, from the late stagnation of credit in Britain, are with diffidence and difficulty received; while the article of rum, the planters' principal resource for the payment of contingent expences, remains an unsaleable article. The petitioners therefore humbly submitted whether their wants and distresses would not be alleviated and supplied if his honor's proclamation was extended to allow the free importation of all kinds of lumber, and of horses and mules from the united states of America; and permitted the free exportation of rum of the produce of this island in payment of such articles as are or shall be allowed to be imported in American bottoms: . . . the board were of opinion, and advised his honor, to issue a proclamation allowing the importation of scantling, shingles, staves, heading, and hoops only (these articles not being generally imported from the british american colonies) for the space of three months from the date of the proclamation." July 31, 1793.
- Order for medical care to be afforded to subjects of the U. S., captured on board vessels taken as prizes of war. Feb. 8, 1794.
- Mr. Higginson, who has arrived from the U. S., without credentials, to obtain copies of proceedings in Admiralty upon American vessels condemned in the island, is to be allowed to have such transcripts as he desires on paying for the same. July 11, 1794.
- Gov. Ricketts of Barbados to Lieut.-Gov. Bruce. In compliance with a wish expressed in a letter from the British consul at Philadelphia, he suggests, "whether, as the political Situation of America is still very unsettled, it might not be expedient to encourage the Merchants, and other Inhabitants, to collect and store up, if possible, at a reasonable rate, as considerable a Quantity of Provisions as can be obtained and preserved, in order to defeat the Mischiefs which might flow from the imposition of a fresh Embargo, or from the adoption of any other violent Measure, by that Country". Resolved that a proclamation issue to open the port for four months for certain articles of provisions, live stock, and lumber, and for the exportation of rum in payment. July 24, 1794.
- A report, on a petition from planters and others for the opening of the port to American vessels, states: "That the Board have found from Experience that neither the Trade from our own Colonies in America, nor from the American States in British Bottoms in time of War, is extensive enough to supply the Colonies: the Profits on that Trade being small, the Duties in the American Ports high, and the Danger great. That we have also found from Experience that to allow British Vessels in time of War to import American Articles from the West India Ports belonging to Powers of Europe in Amity with us, has not afforded, if any, but a very slender Assistance." It was therefore recommended that the port should be opened as requested for a limited time for the importation of certain provisions, live stock, and lumber, and the exportation of rum. Dec. 16, 1794.

In an address from the assembly to the governor, entered on the minutes, one paragraph is as follows: "The principle of the Law [the regulation of gold and silver currency in the colony] was further justified by the situation of the Colony with regard to the United States of America. To those States are the Inhabitants of this Island indebted for the very necessities of Life, and the only article which can lawfully be given in Exchange for the Supplies received from them is Rum, other articles of Produce being prohibited from exportation in their Vessels. This circumstance leaves a large Balance in favor of the American States, which must be either paid in Cash or Bills of Exchange and hence it is obvious that the lowering the value of money here will induce them to prefer the former species of payment, the consequence of which must be the deprivation of the Colony of the Current Coin, the sinking of the Rate of Bills of Exchange to the mutual Injury of Government, and lowering the price of Rum to the distress of the Colony." Feb. 20, 1799.

Although proclamations are rarely entered, this volume contains many recommendations and orders for keeping open the port for American vessels and goods.

"Vol. 4." Apr. 15, 1800–Nov. 18, 1806. (350 pp.)

Recommendations and orders as to proclamations keeping the port open to American vessels and goods continue in this volume. An itemized list of articles to be admitted is furnished, but the actual proclamations are not entered. The period of renewal was usually for four months, the terms varying from time to time, both as to imports and exports, according to local needs. On Apr. 28, 1801, for example, the list of imports was enlarged, and molasses was added to exports.

"Vol. 5." Jan. 16, 1807–Sept. 13, 1823. (303 pp.)

According to the minutes, proclamations keeping open the port to American vessels were renewed for thirty-day periods until late in 1808, when a blockade of the French islands was ordered. After that date apparently the regulations were relaxed only for short periods, following the hurricanes. At times sugar and coffee were added to the list of goods exported in payment.

MINUTES OF LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

Feb. 14, 1799–Nov. 11, 1806. (Unpaged.)

Nothing was found relating to the U. S. This book is very mildewed and worm-eaten.

Dec. 4, 1806–July 21, 1812. (Unpaged.)

Message from the governor to the council and assembly, on the importation of fish, lumber, etc., in neutral vessels, and a bounty on salt fish from Br. N. Am. May 30, 1809. Followed by copy of a British order in Council of Apr. 12, 1809, on certain trade regulations in the W. I.

Message from the lieutenant governor to the council, forwarding British order in Council of Feb. 7, 1810, extending those of Apr. 12, Aug. 16, 1809, and Jan. 10, 1810. Requests "an early determination as to the imposition of the duties on the United States American Trade". May 28, 1810. Enclosure entered, dealing with the regulation of trade.

COURT-HOUSE.

MINUTES OF ASSEMBLY.

These volumes are in a cupboard in the main room on the ground floor. They are unpagged, but average about 400 pages each. The early numbers have suffered much from mildew.

A large cupboard on the opposite side of the room is filled with loose papers of the assembly, rough journals, and miscellaneous documents. Some draft minutes were seen as early as 1806, but a brief search showed no loose files earlier than 1824.

Mar. 13, 1787–Mar. 15, 1793. Nothing for U. S. history was found, but a thorough examination was impossible, as the book is partly illegible from mildew.

Apr. 11, 1793–Dec. 6, 1797. Nothing found for U. S. history. Beginning and end wanting. This book has also suffered from mildew.

Mar. 14, 1798–May 7, 1802.

Address to the governor, respecting the currency. Feb. 20, 1799. (Already noted as entered on minutes of privy council.)

May 11, 1802–Oct. 24, 1806.

Nov. 26, 1806–Feb. 16, 1813.

Importation of fish from the U. S. and from Br. N. Am., bounties on the latter, and exportation of part of it to the French islands. Sept. 9, 1808.

This volume also contains certain orders in Council already listed in minutes of council. It is incomplete at both beginning and end.

Apr. 17, 1813–Nov. 28, 1815.

Dec. 5, 1815–Aug. 18, 1818.

At the beginning of this volume, and separate from the minutes, are returns of all neutral vessels entered at Roseau, Apr. 5, 1812–Jan. 5, 1815, with an account of their cargoes. There are some American vessels in the list, even in 1813.

A general report, adopted Nov. 8, 1816, says among other things that at the time of the arrival of the pamphlet of the Bishop of London, "At this period all was plenty and comfort in Dominica our Port was crowded with American vessels our stores were filled with American produce and a pound of Coffee which is our staple commodity would barter for four pounds of salt fish". The report urges that American vessels and goods should be freely admitted. Nov. 8, 1816.

Another report states: "the total Interdict laid . . . on all Commerce with the United States in Vessels belonging to that Nation has borne particularly hard on this Colony; since it has been fully proved by experience that the British Settlements in North America are utterly incapable of furnishing the West Indies with the essential Articles of Flour, Grain, Lumber and live Stock; while the severe Imposts laid on British Vessels in the Ports of the United States render the Prices of Supplies obtained in that Mode so exorbitant, that the almost ruined Planter is totally unable to afford to make the Purchase." Again it was urged that American vessels be freely admitted. Aug. 22, 1817.

ENTRY-BOOKS OF ACTS.

These volumes are also at the court-house. At the time of examination they were found in an upstairs room. The date given in each case is that on which the governor signed the bill.

1772-1778. (Pp. 127-435; the first 126 pages of the book are missing.)

An act laying certain duties on goods and merchandize imported. Oct. 24, 1775. (Relates to salt fish, lumber, provisions, etc. Continued by acts of Oct. 30, 1776 and Sept. 6, 1777.)

The book closes with a copy of the articles of capitulation between the Marquis de Bouillé and Gov. Stuart, Sept. 7, 1778. These articles, in English and French, were ratified and signed by the members of the Council.

1803-1817. (462 pp.; the end of this volume is missing.)

"An Act to raise and Levy certain Rates and Duties on salted and pickled Fish imported into this Island and a Tonnage Duty upon all Ships or Vessels importing the same and certain other Goods and Merchandizes therein enumerated." Dec. 19, 1809.

"An Act for raising and levying certain duties and for applying the said duties upon the importation into this Island of certain Goods Wares and Merchandises herein enumerated being the growth or produce of the United States of America." Nov. 29, 1810.

An act to impose a duty of two and one-half per cent. on certain goods imported by non-residents. Mar. 30, 1811.

"An Act for raising and levying certain duties upon the Importation into this Island of certain Goods Wares and Merchandises herein enumerated being the Growth or Produce of the United States of America pursuant to an Order of Council made on the sixth day of September One Thousand Eight Hundred and Eleven and for applying the said Duties." Jan. 30, 1812.

1805-1822. This is largely a duplicate of the previous volume, and has nothing further for the history of the U. S.

1822-1836. (671 pp.)

An act for raising and levying duties upon certain imports. Sept. 5, 1822. (Schedule B deals with imports from America and the foreign W. I. The duty on Indian corn or meal was taken off by act of Apr. 20, 1823.)

"An Act for raising and levying a further Duty upon the Importation of certain Goods Wares and Merchandize . . . and for levying a Tonnage Duty on all Vessels of the United States which shall enter the Port of Roseau with Articles of the Growth, Production or Manufacture of the said States." June 11, 1824.

MINUTES OF THE COURT OF VICE-ADMIRALTY.

These volumes were also found in an upstairs room at the court-house. The leaves of the first are so brittle that they can hardly be touched. No loose papers were found.

1769-1793.

Material in this volume relating to the U. S. may be divided into certain categories. Prior to the American Revolution one finds from time to time orders for, and reports by, boards of survey, on vessels and cargoes damaged during the voyage. Some of these belonged in the northern colonies, others traded to them.

Beginning in 1775 there are entered many deputations from officers and crews of British ships to George Lawford, secretary to Vice-Adm. Young, respecting any future prize money. The names of the crew are given in each case, and these deputations are endorsed as recorded also in the "Book of Admiralty Proceedings in Antigua commencing November 5, 1772".

Proceedings for the period 1776-1778, until the capture of the island by the French, account for about eighty pages. A large part of this yields definite information, most of the ships being libelled as belonging to the rebellious colonies. The names of several French ships also appear.

Between the close of 1778 and the year 1783 there is of course a hiatus. From 1784 to 1793 the material is very indefinite. Actions were taken against ships and cargoes, their "tackle apparel and furniture", but usually the nationality is not mentioned.

Feb. 7, 1778-June 23, 1786. This is a copy of part of the previous book. The paper is stronger, but is badly worm-eaten.

Aug. 13-Dec. 12, 1793. No direct material was found. The cover is labelled "1793-1815", so this loose fragment is only a part of the volume. The remainder was probably destroyed in the recent bonfire of the records.

Register of the Court of Ordinary. Apr. 28, 1769-Dec. 30, 1798. This book of course deals with the administration of estates, and does not relate to the U. S. It shows, however, the practice of such a court in colonial times. It is interesting to note that during the period of French occupation the only change was the substitution of the name of the French governor as the chief official. Business continued as usual.

GRENADA.

No political records of French rule are found at government offices in the town of St. George's. It is presumed that they were removed to Martinique. Thus we find nothing prior to 1764, and a hiatus between 1779 and 1784.

The main depository is a building that faces the office of the colonial secretary, and in fact may be considered as part of it. Interior and fixtures are entirely of wood. The cupboards contain files of a comparatively recent date. In case of fire the destruction of this building and its contents would be a matter of only a few minutes. At one side of the room is a row of boxes, most of which are of tin, filled with earlier papers mingled with active insects of the present day. These boxes are not numbered, and any arrangement of their contents is of the most casual nature. In them were found proclamations, and files of the council and assembly. One end of the building is spanned by a shelf filled with bound volumes, largely manuscript. Here are the minutes of council, letter-books, and entry-books hereafter described. Nearly all have suffered from insects. The paper of some of the registers of council minutes is dark and very brittle: their condition is so fragile that they can stand very little of the most careful handling. After examination these books were piled flat at one end of the shelf.

At a distance of a few hundred yards is the office of the registrar. In a vault on the ground floor, well lighted and ventilated, are such minutes of the assembly, acts, and loose papers of the court of vice-admiralty as were found. While this vault is not absolutely fire-proof it would likely hold out if help arrived promptly.

At Grenada the colonial secretary is also registrar general, so any application with regard to these records should be made to him.

No custom-house records were found. For the period before 1830 despatches from the Colonial Office are limited to one small entry-book, and an occasional copy in minutes of the council and the assembly. Despatches to England are entered in early letter-books and also in two books of duplicate despatches, lately received from the Colonial Office, and which begin in 1814. As material in these last volumes has already been dealt with at the Public Record Office they were not examined.

The material listed will show, it is believed, that the archives of Grenada have considerable direct value for the history of commercial relations with the United States. For the student of wider phases of colonial evolution they are still more important, especially for the years 1764 to 1776. By the combination of letter-books, and minutes of council and assembly one can follow the problems of an area that extended from Tobago to Dominica, relations of the government of Grenada with its foreign neighbors, constitutional difficulties which found their counterpart in distant parts of the empire, and an economic life set with many a point of interest for other British colonies.

SECRETARY'S OFFICE.

PROCLAMATIONS.

Two of the tin boxes in the colonial secretary's office contain, among other papers, original loose proclamations. Although fairly numerous they by no means form a complete series. A large proportion of those before the nineteenth century are either entered or mentioned in minutes of the general (later the privy) council. These minutes were checked by notes made from the original proclamations. When material for American history began to overlap, listing from the registers was stopped, though checking continued. Thereafter only those proclamations were noted from the minutes that were not found among the loose papers. They are marked in the list by an asterisk. It must therefore be clearly understood that proclamations in the subjoined list come from two sources, and are only placed together for the sake of convenience and greater coherence.

Incomplete as they are, these papers are valuable for any study of commercial relations with the United States. The reasons for their promulgation, set forth in detail in petitions copied into the early minutes of council, of course need no comment. It may not be so well known that their terms varied considerably from time to time, apt to overstep occasionally—at the governor's peril, of course—the stern wall of imperial enactment on the one hand, and swaying to temporary needs of the colony on the other.

The council records also show how the pathway of such action became progressively smoother. At the outset there were impressive petitions reinforced by much discussion at the council board. These only obtained the admission of American provisions and lumber for a very limited period, and confined such trade to British-built and owned vessels. As time went on, however, formal petitions tended to be replaced by verbal representations, and debates by a mere recommendation that the expiring proclamation should be renewed. Then the ports were opened to American ships, the list of specified articles was from time to time enlarged, and the export of rum and molasses allowed as an economic necessity. By 1797 only two proclamations sufficed to cover the entire year. After a time they were no longer copied in council minutes.

Finally, after Austerlitz and the death of Pitt, the proclamation of June 28, 1806, shows that the colony had resigned itself to abnormal economic conditions.

Parallel with the opening of ports to American vessels went another series of proclamations of the same date, permitting the importation of similar articles from other colonies in the West Indies and South America. The terms of these also varied according to political and economic conditions. This type was of course earlier in its origin. A few examples have been noted, but no list made, since for the greater part of the period under examination such proclamations simply formed a parallel series.

Proclamation of the Massachusetts Bay Act, for the information of merchants and others interested in trade with that province. May 27, 1774.

Proclamation extending the embargo on all ships and vessels in harbors of the island, but declaring that permission will be granted to any vessel to leave provided it has no lumber or provisions on board. Nov. 4, 1775.

Proclamation of martial law, an embargo, and appointing persons to administer the oath of allegiance to all males between sixteen and sixty. May 18, 1778. (There is another proclamation of martial law on June 18, 1779.)

Proclamation permitting the temporary importation, in British-built and owned vessels, of American provisions from any island of the W. I. belonging to a European power. June 12, 1787. (By a proclamation of July 26 lumber was added to the list, and in this form other proclamations were issued on Aug. 3 and Dec. 1, 1788, Mar. 2, and Apr. 22, 1789.)

"No. 1." Proclamation permitting until Mar. 1 the importation in American vessels of such articles as are now by law allowed to be imported in British vessels. Jan. 1, 1794. (A list of the articles is given. Similar proclamations, varying slightly at times, were found bearing dates of Mar. 3, May 6, Aug. 5, Oct. 1*, Nov. 4*, 1794; Jan. 8, Feb. 28*, July 16, Sept. 17, Nov. 24, 1795; Jan. 25, Apr. 2, June 15, Oct. 6*, Dec. 20*, 1796; June 23*, Dec. 23*, 1797; June 21, Dec. 21, 1798; July 8, 1799; Feb. 12, Aug. 18, 1800; Feb. 19, 1801; Feb. 19, Aug. 19, Nov. 24, 1802; May 19, Nov. 16, 1803; May 16, Nov. 1, 1804; Feb. 18, Aug. 12, Aug. 17, 1805; Feb. 17, 1806. Modifications which were made from time to time related chiefly to the importation of salt fish and meat and the exportation of rum and molasses.)

"No. 4."* Proclamation of a general embargo for fourteen days. Jan. 9, 1794. (Finally lifted by proclamation of Mar. 24, 1794.)

"No. 6." Proclamation for carrying on trade with Santo Domingo. Feb. 13, 1794. (Permits the importation into that island of lumber and provisions in American vessels according to existing regulations.)

"No. 13."* Proclamation giving further time for appeals to be made from sentences of condemnation against ships and goods belonging to subjects of the U. S. "in many of Our Vice Admiralty Courts in the West Indies". Sept. 19, 1794.

Proclamation declaring an embargo. Mar. 27, 1802. (Taken off by proclamation of Apr. 1, 1802.)

Proclamation laying an embargo on all vessels bound for Europe. June 17, 1803.

Proclamation declaring an embargo. May 9, 1805.

" " " " June 27, 1806.

Proclamation opening the ports to American vessels carrying certain articles until the end of the present war or until six months' notice has been given. June 28, 1806. (Another proclamation of the same date relates to the importation of American lumber and provisions in British vessels from other colonies in the W. I. or S. Am.)

Proclamation enlarging the terms of that dated June 28, and allowing the exportation of rum and molasses in American vessels. July 14, 1806. (These terms were again enlarged by proclamation of Nov. 29, 1806.)

Proclamation specifying duties payable by foreign vessels importing provisions. Dec. 1, 1811.

Proclamation extending permission for the importation, in British vessels, of certain specified provisions, lumber, and naval stores from other colonies in the W. I. and S. Am., until Dec. 18, 1812. June 18, 1812.

Proclamation respecting the collection of duties on articles of American growth, enumerated in the British order in Council of Nov. 30, 1813. Feb. 18, 1814.

MINUTES OF COUNCIL.

At the outset these records embraced the entire "Southern Caribbee Islands" of Grenada and the Grenadines, Tobago, St. Vincent, and Dominica. The next step, which omitted lieutenant governors of the other islands from the list of members but made little other change in the minutes, was the institution of a separate council for Grenada and the Grenadines. The general council then had little excuse for further existence, and its meetings soon stopped. On Mar. 4, 1793, the remaining series was split into separate minutes for privy and legislative councils.

Some of these books are in bad condition, and the paper is dark and very brittle.

For further information see also Proclamations, above.

General Council.

Dec. 13, 1764–Aug. 26, 1768. (109 pp.)

The governor's speech to the assembly on Apr. 15, 1766, marks the beginning of that body. On Dec. 10, 1766, the minutes record legislation to prevent abuses in, and for the encouragement of, the trade in lumber from America.

Council for Grenada and the Grenadines.

Mar. 30, 1767–July 24, 1776. This is a large unpagged book, whose commencement and final pages have suffered badly from insects.

July 27, 1776–Sept. 14, 1778. (Unpagged.) This is the only volume for the period of the American Revolution.

There is some material on defense, particularly towards the end, including the proclamation of martial law in 1778. As items of more direct incidence for American history the following were noted:

A petition to the governor from merchants and other inhabitants of Grenada, asking that licenses might be issued to armed vessels to protect their commerce from depredations of American privateers, many of whom were said to reside in Martinique. This was read and approved at the meeting on Apr. 16, 1777.

A petition to the governor from certain merchants of St. George's, Grenada, setting forth that American privateers with connivance in the French islands had caused much damage to trade; that to protect their commerce they had at considerable expense armed two of their ships, the Howe and the Revenge, "on a trading Voyage", in the course of which two American vessels, the sloop Orange and the schooner Rebecca, with their cargoes, had been seized, condemned in the court of vice-admiralty and sold; and praying that at least a part of the proceeds might be allowed them as a compensation for their heavy expenses. July 14, 1777.

Speech of the governor to council and assembly, referring to many outrages committed by a "number of Rebel and Pirate Vessels", and to the able manner in which defensive measures had been organized in Tobago. Aug. 12, 1777.

Jan. 6, 1784–May 4, 1790. (Unpaged.)

Gov. Mathew's instructions, entered at the first of the volume, relate in part to trade. Minutes of the following dates deal in part with the scarcity of flour, etc., and the advisability of allowing temporary importation of American produce: June 2, 11, July 25, 1787; June 10, Aug. 22, 1788; Feb. 28, Apr. 21, 1789; Apr. 26, 1790.

{ June 15, 1790–Sept. 4, 1792.
 { Mar. 4, 1793–Jan. 23, 1801. Legislative council only. } (Unpaged.)

Legislative Council.

Jan. 24, 1801–Oct. 31, 1818. (Unpaged.)

A despatch from the Colonial Office, Mar. 21, 1811, relates to importation of British and foreign fish into the Br. W. I. A joint report of council and assembly deals with this subject, and gives, from customs papers now missing, statistics of all fish imported from the U. S. and from Br. N. Am. in the period Jan. 1, 1805–Dec. 31, 1810, with retail prices, and their recommendations. These papers are entered on the minutes for June 13 and Aug. 20, 1811.

Privy Council.

Jan. 28, 1793–Feb. 18, 1805. (Unpaged.)

A petition to the governor from merchants, for the admittance of lumber and provisions in British vessels, etc., and a proclamation allowing the temporary importation of certain specified articles of American production or growth, from any island in the W. I. under any foreign European power. Feb. 12, 13, 1793. A similar petition and proclamation are dated July 8, 1793.

Petition to the governor by planters and others, urging that the ports be opened to admit American vessels. Aug. 22, 1793.

Petition to the governor by the assembly, on the alarming scarcity of provisions, followed by a proclamation to open the ports for the importation "in American Vessels of all such Articles as are now by Law admitted to be imported from America in British bottoms", until Jan. 1, 1794. Aug. 23, 27, 1793.

Petition to the governor by merchants, and a proclamation extending that of last August until the first of next March. Dec. 31, 1793; Jan. 1, 1794.

Similar petition and proclamation extending the term until May 1. Mar. 3, 1794.

Circular despatch from the Colonial Office on the admission of articles from the U. S. Sept. 5, 1804.

July 16, 1805–Nov. 22, 1833.

A despatch from the Colonial Office relates to the importation of fish from the U. S. and Br. N. Am. Mar. 21, 1807.

COUNCIL FILES.

Most of these papers are tied in bundles, labelled with their dates. They are kept in tin boxes in the same room adjacent to the colonial secretary's office that also contains the books of minutes. They begin in 1793, and there is something for nearly every subsequent year, though the files are very incomplete. Nearly all belong to the legislative council. Privy council material consists for the most part of petitions. Formal communications from the assembly to the legislative council form the bulk of the papers. There are also speeches of the governor or lieutenant governor, addresses in reply, petitions, etc.

On the whole these files are largely formal in character, and have little material for American history. A few items are noted below.

Signed petition to the lieutenant governor from planters, merchants, and other inhabitants, praying that the ports may remain open to American vessels bringing provisions, especially salt fish, and every kind of lumber. Mar. 3, 1793. (With it are three letters from the lieutenant governor to council, dated at different times in 1794, asking the opinion of the board whether the proclamations which kept the ports open to American vessels should be renewed.)

Assembly to council, forwarding bill levying duties [on American produce] agreeably to the British order in Council of Nov. 30, 1813. Mar. 24, 1814.

Message from the lieutenant governor to the assembly, transmitting copies of a despatch and a report of the Board of Trade approving of his refusal to admit lumber imported in American vessels. Oct. 18, 1815. (Enclosures present.)

GOVERNORS' LETTER-BOOKS.

The division of the early volumes is not an exact one; it means rather that the preponderance of letters is civil or military as the case may be. Civil letters are mainly to the Colonial Office, Board of Trade, Treasury, lieutenant governors and other officials of British and foreign islands in the West Indies, and to private individuals.

The later separation into "Colonial" (West Indies) and "Home" (despatches to England) is a definite one.

There is little direct material for American history here, but for those who are interested in colonial development as a whole these books are important, and should be read along with minutes of the council and the assembly.

Nov. 25, 1764–Jan. 13, 1767. Military letters.

Nov. 25, 1764–Nov. 23, 1765. Civil " "

Nov. 23, 1765–Apr. 16, 1768. " "

Apr. 2, 1770–July 25, 1771. Civil and military letters.

Apr. 10, 1770–July 26, 1771. Contains a larger proportion of private letters than the preceding volume.

{ Feb. 7, 1793–Dec. 31, 1794. } Colonial letters. Entry-book of correspond-{ Oct. 5, 1792–May 7, 1795. } ence with the Colonial Office.

The last part has some material on the importation of provisions and lumber from the U. S.

Dec. 16, 1795–Apr. 5, 1796. Colonial letters.

May 3, 1796–Mar. 22, 1797. Mainly Home correspondence.

Mar. 11, 1797–Feb. 20, 1799. Colonial letters.

{ Mar. 15, 1797–Apr. 29, 1801. } Colonial letters.

Jan. 17, 1805–July 7, 1810. Home correspondence.

There is some material in this volume—notably a despatch to the Colonial Office, July 1, 1806—on the importation of lumber and provisions from the U. S., and on the question of placing a duty on fish from the U. S. and a bounty on that from Br. N. Am.

Aug. 21, 1810–Oct. 15, 1814. Colonial letters.

Apr. 14–Oct. 14, 1813. Home and Colonial correspondence.

There are also two entry-books of correspondence of the governor with the assembly and council, consisting almost entirely of addresses to the assembly and replies by the latter. The dates are Mar. 15, 1797–June 24, 1803, and July 26, 1810–Mar. 28, 1827.

REGISTRAR'S OFFICE.

MINUTES OF THE ASSEMBLY.

These volumes bear the title "Votes of the General Assembly of the Islands of Grenada and the Grenadines". The paper of some of the early books is so brittle that the leaves will fray at the slightest touch. The amount of direct material for American history is very small.

Apr. 15, 1766–Dec. 24, 1767. (334 pp.)

Mar. 12, 1768–Aug. 11, 1770. (173 pp.)

At the beginning there is entered a letter to the assembly from Richard Maitland, agent, stating how he and Mr. Long prevented the W. I. collectors from being placed under the North American board, as had been intended. London, Oct. 23, 1768.

Mar. 9, 1772–Jan. 26, 1776.

Jan. 27, 1776–June 22, 1779.

Speech of the governor on the American Revolution. Mar. 15, 1776.

Address of the assembly to the king, on the cessation of trade with America. Apr. 10, 1776.

Feb. 2, 1784–July 2, 1787. (554 pp.)

Sept. 17, 1787–Nov. 6, 1792. (462 pp.)

An interesting item for the general history of this period is furnished by two long and detailed reports in the form of queries and replies relating to slavery and the condition of slaves in the island, various factors affecting the sugar industry, comparisons with the French islands, etc. These were made by the assembly to the committee of correspondence on request of the agent. May 28, 1788.

Apr. 28, 1813–Aug. 17, 1816.

ASSEMBLY FILES.

A few papers of the assembly were found mingled with those of the council. They are not at the registrar's office, but at the depository of the colonial secretary, and are listed here for the sake of convenience. The only direct material noted was in 1797.

Message from the lieutenant governor on "the practice of clearing out Foreign Vessels with Sugar and other articles for foreign Countries contrary to Law" by local customs officers. Feb. 27, 1797.

Signed petition to the lieutenant governor by merchants and other inhabitants of St. George's, praying that the importation of salt provisions in American vessels might be allowed. Mar. 1, 1797. (Copy.)

Petitions to the lieutenant governor by merchants and others, for permission to land provisions and lumber from the American brig Hannah of Falmouth. Oct. 21-27, 1797. (Copies.)

REGISTERS OF ACTS.

1767. (Incomplete.)

1789-1803.

"An Act for granting to His Majesty a Tonnage Duty . . . and also imposing Certain Duties on Dried or Salted Cod and other Fish." Nov. 17, 1809.

"An Act for laying a Tax upon Transient Traders." Aug. 29, 1810.

An act to repeal the act of Nov. 17, 1809, and to substitute other duties. Feb. 6, 1811.

An act for granting to his Majesty certain duties. Apr. 12, 1812. (Relates in part to American articles.)

An act for granting to his Majesty certain duties. Mar. 20, 1813.

Id. Apr. 15, 1814.

COURT OF VICE-ADMIRALTY.

These papers are arranged by cases and tied in bundles placed chronologically on wooden shelves in the vault. They begin in 1785, and there seem to be few gaps, that for the years 1810-1813 being the longest. For the period before 1830 there are less than two bushels of these packages. No registers or docket-books were found.

An examination of several bundles, including the earliest dates and those for 1814-1815, revealed the names of only three American vessels. Not only is American material very scanty, but the evidence in general is vague and inconclusive. In many cases the name of neither the ship nor her captain is to be found. Papers were made out ordinarily with reference to "the Vessel, her Tackle, Apparel, and Furniture".

JAMAICA.

In recent years some transcripts from Spanish archives have been made for the Institute of Jamaica, but indigenous material does not antedate British rule. In comparison with other islands of the British West Indies the archives of this colony rank high as regards both quantity and historical value. It is true that early correspondence with the home government has disappeared, except such items as are found imbedded in legislative minutes; and that proclamations, records of the custom-house, and of the local treasury for the period covered by this book could not be found. On the other hand, as the following lists show, there are still extensive and important collections. Of these the political records include minutes and journals (but not files) of council and assembly, laws, and volumes reflecting the activities of the committee of correspondence. Non-political records comprise papers of the courts, and various series dealing with property, vital statistics, slavery, and the parishes.

Under each repository the proper official to whom application should be made for information or copies has been indicated. It should be understood, however, that this is only a secondary step in the case of personal work, the first of course being an application to the governor, describing clearly the classes of records and the period embraced by the investigation for which permission is requested.

CLASSES OF RECORDS.

The manuscript records of a date earlier than about 1815 which are to be found in the archives of Jamaica consist of the following kinds:

1. Records of births, marriages, and deaths.
2. Records relating to the ownership, transmission, and administration of land and other property. (Deeds, patents, wills, powers of attorney, etc.)
3. Records relating to the ownership of slaves: registers and records of manumissions.
4. Manuscript laws of Jamaica.
5. Court records of a civil character.
6. Records of the court of vice-admiralty, and papers relative to prize cases.
7. Journals of the assembly.
8. Journals and minutes of the council.
9. Parochial and local records.
10. Miscellaneous records.

REPOSITORIES.

The manuscript records above referred to are to be found in general in the following repositories:

The Record Office, at Spanish Town. (Classes 1-4 of the above classification.)

Headquarters House, Kingston. (Classes 8 and 10.)

Supreme Court, Kingston. (Classes 5 and 6.)

The Institute of Jamaica, Kingston. (Classes 3, 7, 8, 9, and 10.)

Parochial boards of different parishes. (Class 9.)

(Spanish Town.)²

The present Record Office was established by law 6 of 1879, as a continuation of the office of the island secretary, which had existed since the year 1659. The nature of the archive was not affected by this change, since its functions remained the same, namely: the enrolling in proper registers of all deeds and conveyances, patents, wills which have been admitted to probate, annual produce accounts of estates and accounts current of executors, administrators, trustees, attorneys, agents, and persons acting in a fiduciary character, as well as the custody and preservation of the authenticated printed (formerly enrolled) laws of the island. Law 23 of 1886 required a register of all friendly, building, and similar societies to be kept at the Record Office. Transcripts of the rules and regulations of these societies, when certified by the attorney general, are filed in the Record Office as well as the annual general statements of the funds and operations of the societies. These statements are published in the Jamaica Gazette, to which they are forwarded by the deputy keeper of the records.

¹ Papers of the court of ordinary and the court of error are at the Record Office, but for the sake of convenience they are described with other papers of civil courts.

² Spanish Town (Santiago de la Vega) was the capital of the island from 1664 to 1872, excepting the years from 1755 to 1758. In 1872 Kingston was made the capital, but the Record Office still remains at Spanish Town.

Abstracts or notes from the registers may be taken by persons interested in searching the records, but copies of all public records must be made and certified as true copies and sealed with the seal of the office at the cost of the person desiring the same. The cost of these copies is 1s. 6d. per legal sheet of 160 words.

The chief justice is ex-officio keeper of the records; the deputy keeper also holds the office of registrar general.

The number of volumes in this archive, exclusive of registers of births, marriages, and deaths, was in the summer of 1916, 2286. They are kept in good order and properly cared for by the staff.

Application for copies of documents may be addressed to the deputy keeper of the records or the assistant deputy keeper.

I. RECORDS OF BIRTHS, MARRIAGES, AND DEATHS.

In early days, civil status records of the Church of England were required by law to be kept at the island secretary's office (now called the Island Record Office) at Spanish Town; in some cases they date as far back as the second half of the seventeenth century. Public provision for the registration of births and deaths only came into force in April, 1878. The following table shows, approximately in some cases, the earliest dates at which the respective records begin:

Parishes	Baptisms	Marriages	Burials
Kingston	1722	1721	1722
Port Royal	1728	1727	1725
St. Andrew	1664	1668	1666

2. RECORDS RELATING TO THE OWNERSHIP, TRANSMISSION, AND ADMINISTRATION OF LAND AND OTHER PROPERTY.

This class of records includes registers of all deeds and conveyances, patents, wills admitted to probate, produce accounts of estates, accounts current of executors, administrators and trustees, bonds, and similar records which by law were required to be filed in the office of the island secretary, or, after 1879, in the Island Record Office.³

The antiquity of these records and their essentially economic character render them a source of information of no small value to historians. It was not feasible, however, to make any detailed study of these documents, and as their general nature is sufficiently apparent from the titles, only a mere list of them was considered to be necessary.

Title of records	Date at which they begin	No. of vols. in the series	Vols. of indexes	Remarks
Wills (proved in Supreme court)	1661	1-137	5	Vol. I. is a transcript.
Wills (proved in resident magistrate's court)	1870	1-13	1	At first called district court.
Deeds	1664	{ 1-985 1-216	61	Two series. Vols. I.-V. of old series are transcripts. Indexes: 31 of grantors, 30 of grantees.

3. RECORDS RELATING TO THE OWNERSHIP OF SLAVES : REGISTERS ; RECORDS OF MANUMISSION..

These bear a close relation to the previous class of records. The material of this kind is as follows :

Repository	Title of records	No. of vols.	Dates	Remarks
Record Office	Records of manumission	66	1747-1833	Vols. I.-IV. of this series are missing. Vol. V. (original, beginning 1747) is in bad condition. There are two vols. of indexes: I., 1779-1819; II., 1819-1833.
Record Office Institute	Slave returns Kingston: memorandum of slaves sold	141 1	1817-1832 1738-1743	Original, with signatures of vendors, witnesses, etc.
Institute	Kingston: register of slaves [manumitted]	1	1744-1795	Appears to be the index to other books, to which there are references, e.g. , "Enrolled Liber 12, fol. 8". The dates of entry are 1761-1795, but the dates when freedom was granted run back to about 1744. The upper right-hand corner of the leaves has been torn off.
Institute	Port Royal: sale of slaves	2	{ 1783-1794 1800-1806	Contain receipts for slaves sold. The first vol., 191 sales; second vol., nos. 5-278. Is no. 234 in Cundall's Bibliographia Jamaicensis .

In addition to the above volumes, data concerning the number of slaves will be found in the parochial tax-rolls, described under class 9. The slave population was such an important factor in the economic and social life of the colony that nearly all the records of the island necessarily refer more or less frequently to the condition of this class.

4. MANUSCRIPT LAWS OF JAMAICA.

There are two manuscript series of the laws, both preserved at the Record Office. The series of official enrolled laws is the more complete of the two; the other collection was recently transferred from the office of the attorney general. A description of these two series follows:

A. Enrolled Laws of Jamaica.

Vol.	Dates	Remarks
I.	1681-1725, Jan. 28, or later.	Transcript, certified Dec. 24, 1846. At beginning and end there are many lines and words omitted, as well as in the body of the book, probably because the original vol. (not to be found now) was illegible in those places. Comparing this manuscript vol. with the printed Acts of Assembly . . . from 1681 to 1737 (London, 1738), a copy of which is preserved in the Record Office, it will be found that the manuscript vol. begins with law no. 2 of the printed edition, p. 15, an act for regulating servants, 1681. All laws before 1703 are undated in the manuscript vol.
II.		This volume is missing.
III.	1735, Apr. 13-1747, May 28.	Transcript, certified Nov. 28, 1846.
IV.	1748, Apr. 30-1759, May 5.	Transcript, certified July 27, 1847, and made from a copy of the year 1761.
V.	1759, Oct. 5-1767, Dec. 21.	Original. Ff. 170-172 transcribed.
VI.	1767, Dec. 10-1774, Dec. 24.	Original. Ff. 42 and 47 transcribed.
VII.	1774, Dec. 24-1781, Jan. 12.	Original.
VIII.	1780, Dec. 30-1788, Jan. 10.	Original.
IX.	1787, Dec. 22-1791, Dec. 9, or later.	Original. Now has 216 ff. One or more folios lacking at end.
X.	1792, Mar. 10-1796, Dec. 21.	Original. 222 ff., of which the last 3 are transcribed.
XI.	1797, Aug. 4-1801, Mar. 15.	Original.
XII.	1801, Mar. 15-1804, Dec. 18.	Original. 269 ff.
XIII.	1804, Dec. 18-1809, May 20.	Original. 264 ff.
XIV.	1809, Nov. 29-1813, Dec. 4.	Original. 272 ff.
XV.	1814, Nov. 23-1818, Dec. 19.	Original.
XVI.-XXVII.	1819-1870.	These twelve volumes bring the series to a close.

This series is continued by the set of printed laws, officially authenticated, from 1871 to date.

B. Certified Copies of the Laws, formerly in the Office of the Attorney General.

This series, turned over by the attorney general to the Record Office in September, 1916, is made up of contemporary copies, certified by the island secretary as notary public. They were not originally bound, each law being on separate sheets of paper, which were later bound into volumes. The laws in these volumes are not always arranged chronologically.⁴ Each of the manuscripts has a note in pencil: "Duplicate B. T. Acts—Jamaica" (whence it may be inferred that they came from the series in the London Public Record Office now classed as C. O. 139), and a number and date following. All except no. 341 of this series, which is a bundle, are bound volumes.

Serial number	Dates	Remarks
341.	1705-1790.	A package made up principally of laws written on parchment, and a few on paper. Those on parchment, besides the large wax seal, bear the signature of the speaker of assembly, clerk of council, and governor. This package contains one law approved Aug. 15, 1705 (copy on paper), and the following on parchment: 15 approved Nov. 10, 1716; 4 approved Aug. 31, 1717; 3 approved Aug. 16, 1729. Several other laws, on paper, of 1771, 1778, 1789, and 1790, and a list of acts passed May 6, 1732, are also to be found in this package.
342.	1746, May 1-1747, July 2.
343.	1748, Apr. 30-1750, Nov. 17.
344.	1752, Oct. 21-1788, Dec. 6.
345.	1761, Apr. 4-1762, Nov. 24.
346-348.		Missing.
349.	1801, Mar. 11-15.
350.	1801, Nov. 19-Dec. 12.
351.	1802, Oct. 29-Dec. 18.
352.	1803, Dec. 22.
353.	1804, Nov. 15-Dec. 18.
354.	1805, Nov. 15-Dec. 23.
355.	1806, Oct. 21-Dec. 19.	From this volume on, all are indexed.
356.	1807, Sept. 22-Nov. 28.
357.	1808, Oct. 28-Dec. 1.	Also contains council minutes, Nov. 23, 1807-Nov. 18, 1808, bound in at end of volume.
358.	1809, May 8-20.	Also council minutes, Dec. 1, 1808-Apr. 27, 1809.

Serial number	Dates	Remarks
359.	1809, Nov. 29-Dec. 14.	Also council minutes, Oct. 31-Dec. 14, 1809.
360.	1810, Nov. 14-Dec. 15.	Also council minutes, Dec. 15, 1809-Dec. 15, 1810.
361.	1811, Nov. 14-Nov. 26.	Bound in at end are statistics of vessels entered at and cleared from Nassau, New Providence, during the quarter ending Dec., 1809.
362.	1812, Oct. 27-Dec. 11.
363.	1813, Nov. 9-Dec. 4.	Also council minutes, Oct. 26-Dec. 4, 1813.
364-381.	1814-1832.	These eighteen volumes bring the series to a close. The minutes of council are bound in at the end of the volumes.

Of the early laws of Jamaica there are several printed editions, which have been carefully listed and described by Mr. Frank Cundall, secretary and librarian of the Institute of Jamaica, in "The Press and Printers of Jamaica prior to 1820", a paper contributed by him to the Proceedings of the American Antiquarian Society for October, 1916.⁵ Many of these editions are rare, and it may safely be set down that they are all, to a greater or less extent, incomplete. The manuscript collection of the enrolled laws of Jamaica, therefore, contains some unpublished laws or portions of laws. A comparison with the printed Acts of Assembly . . . from 1681 to 1737 (London, 1738), revealed the fact that from this particular collection, no doubt one of the most complete of the printed editions, a number of laws were entirely omitted, and many others were given only by title. Professor C. H. Hull, in his notes on the archives of Jamaica, states that many of the laws "are not included in any of the printed editions of the statutes of Jamaica". Unfortunately, the time at the searcher's disposal did not permit him to investigate the approximate number and the general nature and importance of these laws not printed; and as the printed editions of the early statutes, with the exception of the one above mentioned, were not to be found at the Record Office, the difficulty of carrying out this comparison was increased. It is probable that the laws omitted from the different printed editions were left out simply because they had been repealed. Some light might, however, be thrown upon the question of disallowance of acts passed in Jamaica by a comparison of the printed and unprinted laws. The whole matter is one well worth investigating, and a complete edition of all the early statutes of Jamaica would be interesting and valuable, particularly if the texts were properly annotated. Such a compilation would be particularly useful to the student of the legislation of the continental colonies of Great Britain during the same period.

VESTRY MINUTES.

At the Record Office are preserved the vestry minutes of the parish of St. David, as follows:

1785, Jan. 1-1793, June 29.

Consists of minutes of justices and vestry sitting together, 1 vol. 9 vols.

1793-1801.

MISCELLANEOUS.

In this office are also two poll-books, containing the lists of qualified voters for members of the assembly, of which vol. I. covers the years 1803-1843.

COURT-HOUSE.⁶
(Kingston.)

The records of the supreme court of judicature (also called the grand court) and of the court of chancery are to be found at the Court-House, Kingston, but it did not prove feasible to make any systematic examination of them.

After the earthquake of January, 1907, these records, together with those of the court of vice-admiralty, consisting of several hundred large folio volumes, were transferred to the Wolmer's Free School building, and in 1910 to the first floor of the eastern block of public buildings, King Street, where the supreme court and registry, the attorney general's office, the law library, and the Kingston court are located. For the sake of brevity this is called the Court-House. On being transferred to the Wolmer Building the volumes of old court records were completely disorganized, and on the second removal to the new Court-House they became still more confused. As many volumes were very old the covers and first and last leaves were in a great many instances torn off. Time and dampness had already done their share in destroying the volumes, when the two removals came to their aid as new factors of destruction. Yet this does not tell the whole story. The volumes, about three thousand in number, were placed in a small room and piled up to the ceiling, one row in front and another behind, upon rude shelves erected along the walls and in the centre of the room, without the least semblance of order. In this position, it would have been well nigh impossible to have examined and listed the volumes, about one-third of which had lost their covers and first leaves, for in addition to the difficulties mentioned, there was hardly space enough for a person to walk between the shelves. The heavy volumes so arranged (or disarranged) on the rude wooden shelves proved too heavy for them, and during an earthquake shock, as the investigator was informed, the shelves broke down at the farther end of the room, so that more than one-half of the volumes fell one upon another in a huge pile, and the work of examining the records became only a secondary difficulty, the main problem being how to get at them. It must also be said that dust had accumulated very thickly on the volumes, and this fact together with the semi-darkness of the room added materially to the mechanical difficulties of the problem. With the aid of a servant books were selected here and there from the room, so as to get from such sample volumes some idea of the kind and antiquity of the records. It was discovered that the ancient records (for there were also some court records of the latter half of the nineteenth century) were those of the supreme court of judicature, of the court of chancery, and of the court of vice-admiralty. The last will be described in due course. At this point a brief statement is furnished of what was discovered regarding the two kinds of records first mentioned.

5. COURT RECORDS OF A CIVIL CHARACTER.

Supreme Court of Judicature.

Of this court volumes of judgments, beginning, "Be it remembered", etc., dating as far back as 1704, and proceedings from 1710, were noted. Of these two classes about twelve volumes between 1704 and 1760 were examined. Nearly all were in a deplorable condition, partly destroyed by dampness and rough handling. Their partially mutilated condition made it difficult to determine the exact dates. The following volumes were noted:

Judgments.	1704-1705.	(In very bad state.)
Proceedings.	1710-1711.
Proceedings.	1711-1712.
Judgments.	1712.
Proceedings.	1713.
Judgments.	1734-1737.	(198 ff., first 13 wanting.)
Judgments.	1738-1739.	(187 ff., first 20 wanting.)
Judgments.	1738.	(First and last folios wanting.)
Proceedings.	1743-1749.
Proceedings.	1754-1758.	(Ff. 1-6 wanting.)
Judgments.	1757.

In an adjacent room were deposited about three or four hundred volumes of vendition books, which date back to about 1784.

Court of Chancery.

The records of this court were mingled with those of the supreme court of judicature and the court of vice-admiralty, and the difficulty of examining them was almost insuperable. They include order-books, minute-books, fee and file-books, masters' reports, general proceedings, and enrolled decrees.

A chronological rough list of order-books, minute-books, and enrolled decrees was found, by chance, in a volume of recorded judgments of 1739-1741. It is said to be in the handwriting of Mr. M. S. Bennett, a former registrar of the supreme court, and is on a sheet of Whatman paper water-marked "1839". The latest order-book listed began Oct. 4, 1842, and was apparently still incomplete when the list was made. Of the 76 order-books which had been made since their beginning, July 6, 1682, only nine seem to have been missing then.

Of the early order-books only the following were found:

- XX. May 25, 1750-Oct. 30, 1753.
- XXI. Nov. 1, 1753-Feb. 3, 1757.
- XXII. Feb. 14, 1757-Feb. 2, 1759.
- XXVI. Aug. 2, 1765-Mar. 31, 1767.
- XXVII. Apr. 1, 1767-Dec. 31, 1768.
- XXVIII. Jan. 3, 1769-Aug. 31, 1771.
- XXX. Apr. 2, 1773-Oct. 31, 1774.
- XXXIII. Jan. 3, 1780-Dec. 31, 1781.

But one fee and file book before 1781 was found (Apr. 23, 1772-Nov. 12, 1776); and a hasty examination of a large pile of unarranged reports of masters in chancery revealed no such reports before that date.

Mr. Bennett's list enumerates only five volumes of minute-books, covering the periods Dec. 18, 1704-June 2, 1715, and Jan. 2, 1720/1-May 11, 1724. The following volumes were found:

- 1697-1704.
- Aug. 26, 1703-Nov. 20, 1704. "No. 3."
- Feb., 1716/7-Dec. 8, 1720. (Lettered "chancery Minute Book, no. 10.")
- Nov. 24, 1724-May 17, 1734.
- Nov. 21, 1747-Apr. 5, 1750.

A volume lettered "No. 1, Index to General Proceedings 1663-1756" (on Whatman paper, water marked "G R", undated), contains an "Alphabet of Records, from Liber 1, which commences the 18th September, 1663, to Liber 60 which ends the 26th June, 1759". There were, in fact, 62 volumes, 9 and 22 being each in two parts. Of all these books of proceedings only the following were found:⁷

XV. Sept. 12, 1707.	XLIV. Oct. 11, 1746.
XXIIb. Sept. 23, 1721.	LI. Dec. 13, 1750.
XXVIII. Sept. 25, 1739.	LV. July 16, 1752.
XXXIII. Apr. 12, 1742.	LVI. Jan. 2, 1753.
XXXV. July 21, 1743.	LX. Oct. 2, 1756.

Upon the conclusion of Liber 60 apparently a new series, of similar scope, was started under the designation of "Records". This was continued until 1837, extending to 504 volumes, most of which are extant. Vol. 84 covers the period Sept. 1-Nov. 3, 1781. Of the volumes antedating it, the following seem to be missing: 1, 2, 6, 10, 16, 18, 30, 40, 42, 50, 53, 73, 74, and four of the six that should be numbered from 77 to 82. Some of the extant volumes are damaged.

Of the enrolled decrees, as of the general proceedings, there appear to have been two series. Only the second, some volumes of which are lettered "B", was listed in 1842 by Mr. Bennett, who appears to have found that series then complete in forty volumes, extending from May 17, 1762, to Dec. 12, 1814. The following volumes of enrolled decrees, before 1782, are now in the Court-House:

A. May, 1686-Dec., 1688.	B. I. May 17, 1762-Nov. 29, 1766.
1710-1713.	II. Mar. 5, 1767-Mar. 16, 1771.
1731-1734.	V. Nov. 10, 1774-Sept. 14, 1776.
1747-1750.	VII. Dec. 4, 1779-June 2, 1781.
1750-1753.	VIII. Mar. 16, 1781-June 2, 1783. ⁸

*Court of Ordinary.*⁹

Registers. Vols. 1-10, dating back to 1796.

Citations to appear before the court of ordinary. Vols. 1-8, dating back to 1764.

*Court of Error.*⁹

The court of error or court of appeals was composed of the governor, members of the privy council, and the chief justice and associate justices of the supreme court. The following volumes of proceedings were found:

I. 1709, Aug. 2-1740, July 1.	First 3 leaves damaged, partly illegible. Begins with "Extract of Her M. Instructions to His E. Capt. Genl. of the said island for constituting a court of appeal—Entered in the Patent Book, Lib. 15 fol. 119, the 8th Nov. 1709".

⁸ These are Mr. Bennett's dates. But vol. VIII., in its present mutilated state, appears to begin July 6, 1782.

⁹ Papers of these courts are at the Record Office, Spanish Town, but have been dealt with at this point for the sake of greater convenience.

- 1747 (or earlier)–1752, Feb. 24. First 24 leaves wanting.
- IV. 1784, Dec. 2–1787, Nov. 14.
- V. 1782, Nov. 25–1784, Dec. 9.
- VI. 1787, Nov. 14–1798, Dec. 11. This vol. is lettered IV.
- VII. 1799, Dec. 14–1802, Dec. 2.
- VIII. 1802, Nov. 23–Dec. 15.
- II.[sic] 1793, Nov. 27–1804, Dec. 11.

Inside this last volume is a copy of "Rules for the Court of appeals adopted at a session of the Court on the 4th February 1746 and divers other rules and instructions up to 1838" (15 pp.).

6. RECORDS OF THE COURT OF VICE-ADMIRALTY AND PAPERS RELATIVE TO PRIZE CASES.

These records were in the same condition as those of the supreme court and court of chancery. It was therefore impracticable to list them in an adequate way. As many of the volumes were noted as time permitted, and the bundles of prize cases were examined at some length.

In one of the bundles of prize cases, an undated list and partial index of these records was found. This list is as follows:

"Appendix."

"Classification of Papers in Admiralty Office."

- Class A. Libels and suits, numbered from 1 to 1565.
- Class B. Libels and suits, not numbered. 1769–1855.
- Class C. Ten bundles of claims, numbered from 1 to 10.
- Class D. Thirty-nine bundles of ships' papers in connection with various suits, and which might be of use in lieu of those destroyed.
- Class E. Four bundles of affidavits in various suits.
- Class F. Four bundles of stipulations.
- Class G. Ten bundles of briefs, numbered 1–10. 1767–1859.
- Class H. Indictments for piracy and murder. 1700–1800.
- Class I. One bundle of monitions in various suits.
- Class J. Three bundles of powers of agency, etc.
- Class K. Six bundles of interrogatories.
- Class L. Seven bundles of examinations.
- Class M. Thirteen bundles of accounts of sales.
- Class N. One hundred volumes of general proceedings of prize courts, letters of marque, indexes to suits, etc.

From an examination of material at the Court-House it was apparent that all these classes of records were still in existence, although greatly damaged and in many cases almost destroyed, by dampness, duck-ants, and improper care and handling. All except class N are in bundles (over 200 large packages), and are in a room opposite that containing volumes of supreme court, chancery, and vice-admiralty records. The description will first deal with the bundles (classes A–M), and afterwards with the volumes.

The papers in these bundles are not put up in any order. They were wrapped up without care being taken to keep different matters separate. Labels in many cases are now illegible or missing, and the documents themselves have been partially destroyed by duck-ants and by dampness.

Corresponding to class A (the distinction between A and B is not clear, except that A are numbered) are the following lists or indexes: "From 289 to 953. List of prizes and seizures as above—Old list, 1796–99”; and “From No. 954 to no. 1565, December 1799 to November 1801” (18 pp.). These lists give name of vessel, captor, when libel was filed, and decision (date included) whether condemned or dismissed.

There is an index of 45 pages to class B, on the same watermarked paper as the general list noted above, giving by year the prize vessels, and the decision of the court.¹⁰

An examination showed many cases of American ships between 1776 and 1782, that is to say, ships either American-built or American-owned or trading with the American colonies. There were also a number of vessels holding letters of marque from the American revolutionary government. The following is a partial list of American vessels captured, 1776–1782, compiled by examining the ship's papers seized with each vessel.

Schooners: Betsey, Hopewell, Lady Carolinc, Nancy, Two Brothers. Sloops: Charlotta, Flying Fish, Mary, Pacifique, Phebe.

1777.

Brigantines: Anne, Lucretia. Schooners: Adventure, Chowan, Dispatch, Friendship, Hannah and Elizabeth, Harriett, Marianne, Roger, Wild Cat. Sloops: Betsey, Dolphin, Hornet, Lydia, Rover.—Julian (or Juliana), La Esperance.

1778.

Brig Free American. Brigantines: Britannia, Hiram, Ketty, Recovery. Schooners: Abigail, Betsey, Betsy Orrick, Defiance, Dolphin, Experiment, Hannah, Martha and Mary, New Constellation, Rainbow, Riche. Sloops: Catherine, Dove, Fanny, Happy Couple, Hirondelle, Interruptet, James, Jaspar, Kitty, Maurice, Ushant.

1779.

Brigantines: Defiance, Guadelquiver. Schooners: Acteon (privateer), Basto, Chance, Hope, Liberty, Milford, Polly. Sloops: Experiment, Dolphin, Jeany.

1780.

Brig Chester. Brigantines: Achilles, Adriana, Elizabeth, Friendship. Schooner Chatham. Sloops: Fortune, Hector, Livingston.

1781.

Brigantines: Betsey, Charming Polly, Fayette, Havannah, Hope. Schooner Harriett. Sloop Argo.

1782.

Ships: Marquis de Bouillé, Minerva. Brigantines: Active, Hibernica. Schooners: Eagle, Neptune.

There are very few papers before 1776. Among them are cases of the snow Kitty (1768) and the sloop Resolute (1773), neither of them American; depositions in the case of a vessel called the Three Friends (1762); and articles against the sloop Jupiter, of Rhode Island (1764).

The ship's papers when they were seized (which was the usual thing) were attached to the libel, and they are of the greatest interest, for they constitute a first-hand source of information concerning the trade carried on by that vessel. Frequently there are small bundles of private correspondence which were seized. Many of these letters refer to matters of commerce, and would repay a careful examination. An inventory of goods carried by the vessel is frequently found.

Class H is a small bundle labelled, "Indictments for piracy and murder, 1700-1800—Admiralty sessions". A package was found containing "bails on granting letters of marque and reprisal against the ships and vessels, goods, etc., belonging to the American colonies, King of Spain or to any of his vassals, etc., the French King or any of his vassals, etc., 1779-1783".

Of class N a list or index was found giving the contents of each volume. As the items in this list were not arranged in any order, they are here classified as follows:

"Class N. List of one hundred volumes of Bound records in Admiralty Office."

From the preceding list a fair idea can be obtained of the volumes (as distinct from bundles) of vice-admiralty records which were in existence, and are still extant, although in many cases they are greatly damaged or partly destroyed. For the most part these volumes are simply thin writing- or memorandum-books of folio size with cardboard covers. In the list many dates overlap, which can partly be explained by the fact that some of the transactions were first made out in a rough form and were afterwards copied.

At the Institute of Jamaica there is a "List of prize vessels 1800 to 1801", 35 folios, giving name of vessel, nationality, captor, sentence, etc.

HEADQUARTERS HOUSE.

This building is occupied by the office of the colonial secretary. It was purchased by the War Office in 1814 for the use of the general officer in command of the troops, and was from that time on known as General's House or Headquarters House. Since 1872, when the seat of government was removed from Spanish Town to Kingston, it has been the colonial secretary's office. In this building the legislative council sits and has its offices. The manuscripts in this building of a date earlier than about 1815 are journals and minutes of the council, a volume labelled "Minutes of the Council of War", and proceedings of the commissioners for forts, fortifications, and barracks. These volumes are all in charge of the colonial secretary's office, not of the legislative council, and application to consult them or for transcripts should be addressed, therefore, to the colonial secretary.

It was hoped that correspondence of governors and lieutenant governors with the home government during the period covered by the investigation would be found in Headquarters House, but the colonial secretary reported that no correspondence or registers prior to 1800 existed in that office. Professor Hull in 1905 did not find this correspondence. It seems clear, therefore, that no correspondence of the governors of the island before 1800 is to be found in the local archives. On the other hand there is no record of its destruction or despatch to London to be filed away there.

8. JOURNALS AND MINUTES OF THE COUNCIL.

The proceedings of the council of Jamaica are recorded under two titles—"Journals" and "Minutes". The journal covers those periods, during the sessions of the assembly, in which the council was deemed to be acting as a branch of the island legislature; the minutes record its activities as the governor's privy council, acting independently of the assembly, and usually, though not perhaps always, during the quiescence of that body. The minutes are less formal and of more varied content than the journal, and set out at length many letters to and from the Lords of Trade in the eighteenth century.

*Minutes of the Council.*¹⁴

Vol.	Dates	Remarks
I.	1661, June 18-1672, July 2.	Copy on paper watermarked 1801. 260 pp.
II.	1672, Aug. 4-1678, Sept. 3.	Copy on paper watermarked 1801. 323 pp. According to a memorandum copied from the original "Council Book Vol. 2nd" minutes of the following dates were missing: 1678, Sept. 3-1682, May 14, and 1682/3, Feb. 14-1683, Sept. 5.
III.	1682, May 14-1687, June 1.	Copy on paper watermarked 1801. 378 pp. On p. 30 there is a note which reads: "At the end of Book 105, marked Council Book Vol. 2d is the following memorandum— viz : The Minutes of Council from the 14th February 1682-3 to the 5th September 1683, wanting." The minutes for Sept. 5 are, however, recorded. At the end there is another memorandum which reads: "From the 1st June to the 21st Sept. 1687, in which time Mr. Eggleton the Deputy Secretary died, the Council met 4 times but the Minutes were not entered; and the notes being taken in short hand the succeeding Secretary could not make them out."

10. MISCELLANEOUS RECORDS.

“Minutes of the Council of War.” 1695–1703. One volume, which is in a deplorable condition. From what could be made out a great variety of matters are dealt with besides those relating to war. There is something about quartering soldiers on private individuals, and many statements of accounts. No internal evidence was found that these minutes were those of a body called the council of war; the proceedings open like those of the privy council, with the presence of the governor and members of the council only. In privy council minutes there are occasionally found minutes of a “Council of War”. It is likely that this volume is simply the original book of council minutes for 1695–1703 noted above,¹⁸ which happened to begin with a council of war and for this reason was so labelled, the volume of council minutes which the searcher took for the original being simply an old copy.

Proceedings of Commissioners for Forts, Fortifications, and Barracks. Sept. 15, 1769–Nov. 25, 1772; Sept. 30, 1773–Dec. 10, 1783. (Two vols.) This body, created by act of Dec. 31, 1768, was composed of the governor, five members of the council, and six members of the assembly, who were appointed “for ordering and inspecting the works in and about the forts, fortifications and barracks of this Island”. The books contain principally accounts.

THE INSTITUTE OF JAMAICA.

(King Street, Kingston.)

The Institute of Jamaica was established by law 22 of 1879, which transferred to it the libraries of the old house of assembly and of the legislative council, both of which bodies had ceased to exist in 1866. Besides a library, the Institute maintains a museum and an art gallery. In the last are to be found many old portraits, autographs, prints, etc. The library consists of two departments: the general collection (downstairs) and the "West India Reference Library" (upstairs). The latter consisted in 1916 of:

1. Jamaica books.	1739 vols.
2. Jamaica newspapers.	504 vols.
3. West Indies (excluding Jamaica).	1375 vols.
4. West Africa.	133 vols.
Total	<hr/> 3751. ¹⁹

There are many rare and valuable works on Jamaica in this library, as is shown by the Bibliographia Jamaicensis (1902), and Supplement to Bibliographia Jamaicensis (1908), published by the Institute, and prepared by its accomplished secretary and librarian, Mr. Cundall.

In addition to printed works, there are in the Institute of Jamaica, as we have seen, a great many manuscripts. These appear to have been in the possession of the house of assembly (principally) and of the council, and were transferred, together with the printed books belonging to these bodies, in 1879 when the Institute was created. The Institute is also making copies of the council minutes, the originals of which are at Headquarters House, and has already copied the first eight volumes. Transcripts of documents from Spanish archives, relating mainly to the period of Spanish occupation of Jamaica, are being made for the Institute by Miss Irene A. Wright of Seville.

7. JOURNALS OF THE ASSEMBLY.

The house of assembly, which ceased to exist in 1866, had possessed a very valuable library, which was transferred to the Institute of Jamaica. Together with the printed books were transferred the original manuscript volumes of journals of the assembly, and other manuscripts, to which we shall later refer. At some time many of the manuscript volumes were, however, destroyed, so that what was found in 1916 was far from complete, and of the volumes now in existence a considerable number lack the first or last pages or both.

The assembly began printing its journals, Votes of the Honourable House of Assembly of Jamaica, in 1749. Of these contemporary annual prints, the Institute of Jamaica possesses the volumes for the following years (printed the same year or that next following): 1784, 1787, 1789, 1790 et seq. to the year 1866.²⁰ A handsome general edition of all the journals from 1664 to 1828, based in the earlier portion on the manuscripts found in Jamaica and in London,²¹ was printed in fourteen volumes (Jamaica, 1795-1829; vols. II. and III. reprinted, London, 1824, 1827).

¹⁹ Handbook of Jamaica for 1916, p. 220. The total reported in Mr. Cundall's Jamaica in 1924 is 5600.

²¹ Cf. sessional papers of Jamaica at the Public Record Office, see pp. 218-228, ante.

The text in the early volumes of the Notes corresponds exactly to the text of the 1795-1829 edition, or Journals above cited. A rough comparison of several of the early printed and manuscript volumes of the journals seemed to prove that the text was similar, and that the only omissions in the printed edition were statistical tables of secondary interest. The following is a list of the manuscript volumes discovered at the Institute of Jamaica:

Dates of manuscript vols.	Vol. and pages of printed edition ²²	Remarks ²³
1678, Sept. 2-1679, Dec. 1.	I. 23-56.	Copy. At the other end of the vol. are journals of 1730-1731.

9. PAROCHIAL AND LOCAL RECORDS.

Churchwardens' accounts, parish of Kingston:²⁴

- 1722–1759. Copy. Begins Feb. 5, 1722/3.
- 1759–1775. Copy.
- 1775–1786. Listed in Cundall's Bibl. Jam., no. 175, as 1771–1786.
- 1778–1788. Original.
- 1835–1848. This vol. is "Account current of the City and parish of Kingston with the Treasurer of the City".

Vestry accounts, Kingston. "Orders of Vestry for stipulated sums." 1760–1792: 1 vol. Original. (No. 221 in Bibl. Jam.)

Churchwardens' accounts, Port Royal. 1766–1793. 1 vol. Original, in bad condition. (No. 226 in Bibl. Jam.)

*Vestry Minutes.*²⁵

The vestry minutes contain simply the resolutions adopted by the corporation, in the following style: "At a Vestry held. . . Ordered:" . . . They likewise contain lists of taxpayers, whose names are in all cases given. These tax-lists are principally of four kinds: (1) parish tax, giving names of tenants and landlords, rents, number of slaves, cattle, and wheels of each individual taxpayer, and amount assessed him; (2) poll tax, like the above; (3) tax on transient merchants, commanders, masters, and supercargoes, with names, places from which each individual came, and amount assessed; and (4) arrearage tax-lists. All these lists occur frequently and are extensive, the minutes proper being very short in comparison. The first list of transient merchants, etc., is of January 21, 1743/4. Resolutions of the vestry deal almost entirely with taxes, church finances, church property, charity and pensions, salaries, and appointments to office. It will be noted that vestry minutes and tax-rolls were often placed in the same book.

²⁴ The parish of Kingston dates legally from 1713.

Parish of Kingston.

- 1743/4, Jan. 8–1748/9, Feb. 24. Original. 589 pp. Contains numerous tax-rolls of transient merchants, supercargoes, etc. (the first dated Jan. 21, 1743/4), and of tenants, landlords, etc. (the first occurs May 8, 1745, and occupies 35 pp.). From a list of 1745 it appears that there were then in the parish 7749 negroes and 828 cattle. This is vol. 1 of no. 220 in Bibl. Jam.
- 1750, Apr. 23–1754, May 6. Original. Incomplete, beginning with p. 92 and ending with p. 572. Lettered, "Kingston Parish tax".
- 1754, May 13–27. Paged 590–605. Continues tax-roll which began in preceding vol., and contains also vestry minutes for May 13–27, 1754. Lettered, "Kingston parish tax, 1754 and 1768–70".
- 1763, Mar. 12–1767, July 27. Original. Incomplete, beginning with p. 15. Following the minutes of this date is an "Arrearage parish tax for the year 1763", and one for 1764. There is an incomplete parish tax-list for 1767 at end of vol. Lettered on the back, "Kingston parish tax, 1763–1767". According to a poll tax in this vol. for 1766 there were then in the parish 7850 slaves and 994 cattle.
- 1768, June 22–1770, Oct. 15. Begins with a parish tax-list for 1768, of which the beginning is wanting, the vol. lacking pp. 1–80. This list ends on p. 88. A second list (poll tax) covers pp. 141–187, and a third (poll-tax) for 1770 closes the vol., which is incomplete at end (reaches p. 402).
- 1781, Jan. 11–1788, Nov. 12. Lettered on back, "Kingston Vestry proceedings". Is vol. 2 of no. 220 in Bibl. Jam.
- 1795, Mar. 19–1805, Oct. 7. Original. Labelled, "Kingston Common Council minutes, 1795–1805". Is vol. 1 of no. 179 in Bibl. Jam. The beginning of session of Mar. 19, 1795, is missing. Vestry minutes end Jan. 11, 1803, and those of the court of common council begin Jan. 12, 1803. The latter are not a complete record of proceedings as found in the first vol. of common council minutes listed below. The present volume contains several lists of inhabitants judged fit to serve as jurors at the assize court.

Parish of Port Royal.

- 1735–1741/2, Jan. First two leaves mutilated. Consists of proceedings of justices and vestry meeting together. Contains data of number of slaves existing in the island, and many tax-rolls. There is, however, no list of transient merchants. No. 237 in Bibl. Jam.
- 1777–1788. Labelled, "Pt. Royal Church Tax, 1777", but is a vol. of vestry minutes, beginning with a list of taxpayers.
- 1788, Dec. 12–1807. Contains several parish tax-rolls in addition to the minutes.

Parochial Tax-Rolls, Kingston.

- 1774–1780. Consists of lists of taxpayers for each of the years 1774–1780. Contains no vestry minutes, and no list of transient merchants, etc. The tax-rolls give names of tenants, landlords, and rents, assessments, etc.
- 1780–1791. } Two vols., similar to the above. In no. 191 of Bibl. Jam.

There is also a volume labelled "Kingston Poll tax" (in pursuance of a local act of Mar. 15, 1792), containing lists of taxpayers for the years 1792-1805. No. 192 in Bibl. Jam.

OTHER LOCAL RECORDS.

Kingston (city and parish). Minutes of the common council. 1803-1815. 1 vol.

Port Royal. Register of freeholders. 1756-1803. 1 vol. No. 229 in Bibl. Jam.

Port Royal. Receipts for slaves sold:

1783-1794. 191 sales. 1 vol. } These two vols. are listed under no. 234
1800-1806. Nos. 5-278. 1 vol. } in Bibl. Jam.

Kingston. Register of freeholders. 1803-1832. 1 vol. No. 198 in Bibl. Jam.
The volumes entitled, Kingston, Register of slaves, 1761-1795, and Kingston, toll-book, Slaves Sold, 1738-1743, listed in Bibl. Jam., nos. 199 and 219, respectively, were not found.

Kingston quarter sessions: general court of quarter sessions of the peace of the parish of Kingston. Nov., 1770-Feb., 1798. 1 vol. Lacks four leaves at the beginning and one or more leaves at the end. Another vol. covers the years 1803-1839. No. 193 in Bibl. Jam.

Kingston. Security bonds given to the parish (from 1802, city and parish of Kingston), for the collection of taxes, for annual payments to enfranchised slaves (as required by a local act of 1774), for binding apprentices, etc. 1786-1831. One vol. No. 177 in Bibl. Jam.

At the Kingston city council inquiries revealed no early records. The parochial boards of the island may, however, possess some ancient minute-books, tax-rolls, registers, etc. In the hope of discovering this material, letters were addressed to several parochial boards, but the answers obtained were vague, and there was not enough time to visit the towns throughout the island where old records might exist. The secretary of the parochial board of St. Ann's Bay replied that the "old vestry minutes are very interesting", but gave no more information. It would be worth while to investigate what there is at St. Ann's Bay, which is one of the oldest parishes.

10. MISCELLANEOUS RECORDS.²⁶

Nov. 5, 1787-1845. 1 vol. 378 pp. Begins with copy of the will. John Wolmer was born June 24, 1736, and died Sept. 3, 1787.

Documents copied under the direction of the historian Mr. Bryan Edwards (died 1800) for the house of assembly of Jamaica, about the year 1798, from originals in the Plantation Office and the British Museum. 4 folio vols. The transcripts were sent over in packages and bound into volumes in Jamaica.

Vol. [I.] On the cover is a manuscript note which reads: "This volume contains nos. 6, 7, 8 and 9 of Mr. Edwards parcels." Pasted below this note is a clipping from a printed list which reads:

"Book 100, marked volume 4

"Book 101, volume 5, not paged

"Book 102, volume 6, not paged

"Book 103, volume 7, not paged"

The contents of this vol. of 254 pp. are as follows:

- (a) Documents relating to the trade in logwood, tortoise shells, and other commodities, carried on with the Indians of Darien and Juoatan [Yucatan], to the southward of Campeche, 1670-1677. Contains several documents on injuries done to the English by the Spaniards in the West Indies, "upon pretence of the logwood trade". Pp. 1-35. (These papers are of extraordinary interest.)
- (b) Speeches and letters of governors to the assembly of Jamaica and replies of the assembly, 1686-1688; 1691-1693. (At different places throughout the volume.)
- (c) Letters from governors to the Lords of the Committee, 1688-1691. (At different places throughout the volume.)
- (d) Letter from Lieut.-Gov. William Beeston to the home government. Pp. 96-114.
- (e) "A brief account of what happened in their Majesty's Island of Jamaica during the time the French were preparing to attack that Island and remained upon and about it in 1694."
- (f) Minutes of the council of Jamaica. Aug. 2-4, 1694. (Begin on p. 115.)
- (g) Address of the council and assembly of Jamaica to the king, concerning the state of the island. Sept. 15, 1688. Pp. 131-141.

- (h) Articles of high treason against Roger Elletson, Esq., late chief justice of Jamaica, and other documents relative to the case. 1689. Pp. 155-167.
- (i) Protest of Col. Thomas Freeman and members of the council against Sir Francis Watson as president. 1689. Begins on p. 167.

This volume has marginal notes in the handwriting of A. Aikman (some of the notes being signed by him), printer of the Journals of the Assembly.

Vol. [II.] 342 pp. A manuscript note on the cover inside reads: "This volume contains Nos. 10 and 11 of Mr. Edwards parcels." Pasted below this note is a clipping from a printed list which reads:

"Book 104, Council Book, vol. I
"Book 107, volume 4."

This volume contains the following:

- (a) Minutes of the council of Jamaica (pp. 1-96):
1661, June 18-1664, Oct. 11.
1668, July 28-1669/70, Jan. 26.
1672, session of Jan. 8.
1691, session of council of war, Feb. 4.
1691, session of June 9.
1691, Aug. 17-27.
1693, session of May 4 (first part only).
- (b) Journals of the assembly of Jamaica for the years 1682, 1683, 1686, 1687, and 1688. These journals occupy pp. 105-342. Pp. 97-104 are blank.

There is a note at the end of the vol. which reads: "No other Minutes of the Assembly are to be found in the plantation office until the year 1702. The following [sic] minutes of the Council serve greatly to fill up the chasm."

Vol. [III.] 256 pp. Lettered at the back in an old hand, "No. 3." Contains notes in Aikman's handwriting. A number of the documents in this volume are printed either in the body of the first volume of Journals of the Assembly of Jamaica, or in the Appendix to that volume. The following are the documents included in the present volume:

- (a) Commission and instructions to John, Lord Vaughan, governor of Jamaica, 1674. (Printed in above Appendix, pp. 15-20.)

Vol. [IV.] 218 pp. Documents copied in 1798 for Mr. Bryan Edwards by Samuel Ayscough, from the Sloane MSS. in the British Museum. Composed entirely of council minutes, Dec. 20, 1687-Feb. 18, 1688. There is a note at the end which reads: "The foregoing are true copyes of all the Minutes of Council since the arriveall to this Island of his late Grace the Duke of Albemarle deceased. Examined and compared this fifteenth day of March 1688—By me—J. L. Hickmann."

Journal kept by Adm. John Nevell, on what proved to be his last cruise. Dec. 20, 1696-June 25, 1697. This, the original journal, was acquired by the Institute of Jamaica at the recent sale in London of the Phillipps Collection of manuscripts, and has been published with notes by Mr. Frank Cundall in The West India Committee Circular, June-July, 1914, nos. 409-411 and 413.

Letters to Messrs. John and Thomas Eyre, merchants, Jamaica Coffee House, London. 1705-1708. These twenty-one unpublished letters are originals or duplicates (in the latter case there being often more than one letter copied on the same sheet). They deal with the trade in coffee, logwood, sugar, indigo, etc., giving prices and many valuable details regarding these products. The following is a list of the letters:

Messrs. Clerke and Parke. Jamaica, Apr. 15, June 9, 1705; Jan. 29, Mar. 5, May 11, 1706; Feb. 14, Apr. 22, June 10, Aug. 23, 28, Nov. 10, Dec. 5, 1707; May 24, June 18, July 3, Sept. 25, 1708.

William Shettlewood. Jamaica, July 22, Dec. 22, 1706.

Samuel Baker. Boston, Sept. 5, 28, Oct. 16, 1706.

Letters from J. Tyler, Kingston, to Capt. David Hamilton, Norfolk. 1746-1747. These original letters deal with private personal affairs, and also refer to matters of trade. Aug. 12, Oct. 18, 1746; Apr. 31 [sic], May 4, July 17, Oct. 15, Nov. 15, 1747.

"The State of Jamaica in the Yeare 1664 when Sr. Charles Littleton left it, and in the yeare 1670 under Sr. Thomas Modyford's government." 33 large folio pages. A note states: "This is the official copy which belonged to William Blathwayt, Secretary for Trade and Plantations. This copy is signed by 'Thomas Tothill, Receiver Generall'." At the head is a note which reads, "Extracted out of the Jamaica Book". (This was no. 1197 of the Phillipps Collection. Cf. Journals of the Assembly of Jamaica, vol. I., App., p. 49.)

Original letter from Philafricanus (Mr. Walter Johnson) to the editor of the European Magazine, London, entitled, "Progress of a Planter and Merchant in the West Indies". Kingston, Aug. 1, 1793. Explains the advantages and profits to be reaped by settling in Jamaica. Written for the purpose of inducing young Englishmen to come to the colony.

MANUSCRIPTS IN POSSESSION OF MR. NOEL LIVINGSTON, KINGSTON.

Mr. Livingston kindly permitted notes to be taken of several important manuscripts in his possession, namely:

Papers relating to the government, revenues, etc., of Jamaica. 1693-1705.

One folio vol., containing the following original documents: (a) case of Lord Archibald Hamilton, late governor of Jamaica; (b) accounts transmitted from Jamaica, 1696-1703, with the auditor's notes; (c) clause in the Jamaica act of 1703, prescribing the manner of accounting by the recorder general; and "The material differences in the Act past in Jamaica, 1703, with that past there in 1682 for raising a Publick Revenue, etc."; (d) letter of the governor of Jamaica, 1705; (e) original letter of L. Compere to William Blathwayt, 1704; (f) long original letter of Sir William Beeston, governor of Jamaica, to Blathwayt, June 18, 1698; and (g) copy of a letter from the same, July 28, 1698. (This vol. was no. 10058 of the Phillipps Collection.)

Thirty-two letters from Charles Ruddach, Jamaica, to his uncle, Charles Stewart, Edinburgh. June, 1774-Mar., 1795. Written from different places in the island, such as Pindars River Estate, Seven Plantations Estate, and Saint Toolie Estate, Clarendon. They deal with personal affairs and contain numerous references to the sugar industry, the state of labor, etc. There are also eight letters addressed to Charles Stewart by Thomas Ruddach, written from Tobago.

MONTSERRAT.

At the time of examination such political records as survive were scattered about the floor of a corner of the government office at Plymouth. Most of them were by open windows, which admitted rain as well as light and air. As a result some of the manuscripts were very damp. A severe hurricane in 1899 is said to have damaged the archives, but detailed information on this point is lacking. It was officially reported about 1909 that a small annual sum was available in Montserrat for the binding and care of the records. Perhaps this referred to the registrar's office. Despatches are entirely missing, and legislative journals show no signs of either binding or care. It is said that these records are shortly to be removed to another building. As their present condition could hardly be worse, it is to be hoped that the change will at any rate mean better protection.

MINUTES OF COUNCIL.

The early council of Montserrat was of an "omnibus" type. One is of course accustomed to find such a body acting as a court of error, of chancery, or of ordinary. In the Leeward Islands it was customary in earlier years to combine executive with legislative functions. Here, however, we find a certain criminal jurisdiction as well. As a result a large part of the minutes, especially those for the earliest years, are taken up with such cases, some of which are curious reading. One negro, for example, was tried for murder, and although declared innocent he was sentenced to a goodly number of lashes. None of this material is paged.

Oct. 5, 1759–Sept. 26, 1776.

This volume is in bad condition, and could not be thoroughly examined.

Commissions and instructions to governors are entered. A circular despatch from Lord George Germain, Dec. 27, 1775, relating to the troubles in America, is spread on the minutes. The council made no reply, but placed a temporary bonus on the importation of provisions.

Mar. 4, 1791–Mar. 21, 1795.

In 1793 council and assembly vainly tried to have the port opened to vessels of friendly nations.

Apr. 11, 1795–July 19, 1809. Nothing pertinent was found in this volume, which is incomplete at each end.

{ Apr. 8, 1809–June 17, 1809.	} This damp package is a confusion of scraps, which have the appearance of duplicates from the Colonial Office.
{ Sept. 3, 1816–May 8, 1817.
{ July 6, 1808–May 27, 1816.

MINUTES OF ASSEMBLY.

Every volume is incomplete at both beginning and end. No direct material was found. The first book has partly fallen in pieces, and is entirely too fragile for examination.

1777–1790.

Sept. 15–Dec. 4, 1790.

Aug. 15, 1793–Sept. 3, 1793.

Dec. 4, 1793–Oct. 13, 1810. (Several gaps.)

Nov. 7, 1815–May 20, 1816.

NEVIS.

Such legislative papers of Nevis as survive have been brought to Basseterre, and are stored with those of St. Kitts, q. v. There are no early despatches. A list made about twenty years ago shows two volumes of admiralty records, 1764–1805. An official note, however, to the custodian of such papers at Nevis brought the reply that a thorough search for them had been unsuccessful. As a result no personal visit was made to Nevis.

MINUTES OF COUNCIL.¹

Mar. 18, 1746/7–Sept. 28, 1752. (Incomplete at beginning and end.)

Apr. 10, 1761–Feb. 27, 1772. (" " " " ")

"A Motion was made by His Honour the President and seconded by the Honble John Richardson Herbert Esqr. that a Committee of both Houses should be appointed to prepare an Address to His Majesty expressing their disapprobation of the irregularitys committed by a sett of Rioters in destroying the Stamps." Feb. 8, 1766. (Joseph Herbert was president of the council.) The next page contains a formal message and reply.

Apr. 3, 1772–Sept. 4, 1780.

Some material relates to economic distress as a result of the American Revolution, 1776; proclamation by Gov. Burt at Antigua, warning all British subjects to be guarded in correspondence that might come into enemy hands, Apr. 29, 1777; defense, 1778; illicit trade; information of French naval movements.

1781–1782. (Fragments only.)

Mar. 5, 1782–Jan. 10, 1784.

Many papers are entered in this volume, among them the commissions of Comte Dillon and the Chevalier de Fresne as governor and lieutenant governor of Nevis. Some documents deal with trade of the island and the importation of provisions. Correspondence of President Nisbet with Lieut.-Gov. de Fresne is plentiful, much of it relating to the St. Kitts-Nevis dispute. At the end of the book is a copy of the oath taken by the principal inhabitants of the island on its capture by the French.

Jan. 14, 1784–June 11, 1791. (Beginning missing.)

Mar. 9, 1803–Aug. 8, 1809.

Aug. 12, 1809–Dec. 6, 1811.

Some proclamations, etc., deal with the regulation of trade with the U. S., and the importation of their commodities.

Dec. 14, 1811–Feb. 22, 1816.

MINUTES OF PRIVY COUNCIL.

Jan. 9–Aug. 29, 1782. (66 pp.)

Contains material on defense; articles of capitulation of Nevis, Jan. 14, 1782 (English and French); government of the island under French auspices.

Aug. 13, 1796–June 22, 1837.

Occasional material on the scarcity of provisions and lumber, the means for remedying it, and regulation of trade with the U. S.

ST. KITTS.

All political records are at the administrator's office in the town of Basseterre. No original despatches or admiralty papers survive. A few letter-books are upstairs. All legislative journals, however, are in a storage room on the ground floor. The place is dry, but it is also a fire-trap strewn with inflammable material, and the books are too tightly packed in wooden cupboards for their own good or the convenience of anyone wishing to examine them. As in the other islands of the Lesser Antilles these volumes and remnants of volumes have as a whole suffered badly from mildew, and to a less degree from insects and rodents. As a result a few will hardly stand any examination, while several others must be handled with great care. No corresponding files remain, but, as a partial compensation, for the greater part of the period under examination the minutes are very rich in the number and variety of papers entered therein.

Any application with regard to these records should be made to the administrator, at Basseterre.

MINUTES OF COUNCIL.

Nov. 7, 1709–Nov. 7, 1715.*

Dec. 31, 1715–Nov. 9, 1722.*

Nov. 22, 1722–Nov. 9, 1727.*

Nov. 20, 1727–Aug. 16, 1732.*

A message from the assembly to the council gave notice of the appointment of a committee "to Consider of the Prejudice which this Island and the rest of His Majesties Sugar Colonies in America suffer by the trade which is carryed on between his Majesties subjects in Boston and Road Island and the Subjects of the French King in Martinique Guardaloupe Highspaniola and other Places". Aug. 31, 1731. (P. 373.)

A joint committee drew up addresses to the king and to the Lords of Trade, entered on the minutes for Sept. 24, 1731.

Aug. 28, 1732–Dec. 17, 1734.*

Feb. 18, 1734/5–Apr. 2, 1741.*

Apr. 17, 1741–Sept. 26, 1745.

At the beginning are entered two letters, one from Adm. Vernon to Gov. Clarke of N. Y., Port Royal, Jamaica, Nov. 13, 1740, giving certain military and naval information, and a second from Gov. Clarke to Gov. William Mathew, N. Y., Jan. 21, 1740/1, telling what he has done to prevent supplies reaching the enemy, and making suggestions along the same lines.

British order in Council, prohibiting exports from the sugar islands to neutral islands. Feb. 19, 1740/1.

There is also sundry material on defense, convoys, and the protection of trade, etc.

Sept. 26, 1745–Mar. 17, 1749.* This volume is also badly eaten by rodents.

A long memorial by planters, etc., to the Lords Justices in Council, gives many details of military and naval forces in the English and French islands, and asks for stronger naval protection. Oct. 11, 1745.

Apr. 29, 1749–Nov. 18, 1755.

On Dec. 10, 1750, a message from the governor to the council and assembly mentions, among other subjects, "the Growing Evil of a Clandestine Trade between the adjacent Foreign Islands and North America, and with ourselves which depreciates our product, raises upon us the Value of Cash and drains us of what we have. It is notorious that in North America the Chief Consumption of the Sugar grown in the French or Danish Islands [sic], most of the rum they have is French or Distilled at Eustatia from french molasses, Great Quantities of Sugars from Hispaniola as well as the French Windward Islands and from Sta. Cruz are sent to the British Markets without paying the Foreign Duty, and I am well Informed that French Rum is Imported even into Ireland by way of the Northern Colonys and in such Quantities as to ruin the market there for ours". The message goes on to speak of the importance of the African trade to the sugar islands, and the extent the French had engrossed it—that of the Gold Coast was almost entirely lost to the English. As a result the Board of Trade was memorialized along these lines, and the memorials were entered on the minutes.

* Too fragile to be examined thoroughly.

Negotiations of the French and English commissaries are referred to in letters of the colonial agent and other papers. The agent also notes the trade of the northern colonies with the French. There is also some material on the lumber-trade of New England.

Late in 1754 there came information from Antigua that large quantities of Danish sugar were imported into England "last year under colour of being from the Island St. Thomas in Africa, which by an old Book of rates was formerly admittable into England, upon less duties than Other foreign Sugar". Co-operation of the two colonial agents was suggested in order to check such a practice.

This volume is particularly rich in documents spread on its pages.

Nov. 25, 1755–Aug. 18, 1762.

This volume has material on the following topics: defense; regulation of the export of provisions; privateers; reduction in the amount of provisions from N. Am.; maintenance of French prisoners brought to the island; co-operation with Antigua in urging the reduction and holding of Guadeloupe (1759), and later details of its capture; a description (Mar. 5, 1759) of how the French obtained supplies from the English islands: "Vessels are cleared out from St. Christophers and other English Islands Laden with Flour for Barbadoes and give bond for it's delivery there. In their way up they run into St. Vincents (the Contiguity of which to the Islands in Dispute is well known). There they dispose of their Cargoes (except a few barrells) for, which they receive in return Coffee and Cocoa with which they proceed to Barbados and there by the authority of the few Barrells of Flour they have on Board, enter their Cargos according to the Bond passed at St. Christophers by which means they procure a Certificate which is returned to St. Christophers, and their bonds in Consequence Cancelled, the same is repeated from Barbados to St. Christophers." The assembly, to whom this communication was referred, made a rather brief reply, but incidentally suggested that measures be taken "to Prevent such frequent intercourses as hath been lately carried on between this Island and St. Eustatius by Packetts going too and from these two Islands almost every day".

A detailed account by Henry Wilmot, colonial agent, Mar. 24, 1759, relates how a tax was placed on sugar in spite of the planter interest in the City and the House of Commons, and describes the strong temper of the latter for the tax. This is followed by "Reasons against laying any new Tax upon Sugar", drawn up in London.

Sept. 8, 1762–Jan. 20, 1772. This book is too fragile for examination. It has been reported that the part relating to the Stamp Act riot is badly mutilated.

Apr. 9, 1772–July 25, 1778.¹

A fire and a hurricane overshadow everything else in this volume, and the colony was kept busy repairing the damage. In Mar., 1776, there is correspondence entered on the delivery of five iron four-pounder guns for the British army at Boston, on a requisition from Gen. Howe.

July 28, 1778–June 23, 1783. The final meeting is dated July 23, but this is plainly a clerical error. All the papers entered are dated June 23.

¹ Beginning with this volume the series has been rebound, and torn leaves have undergone amateur repair. As a result the later books are in much better condition, though some of the paper is quite brittle and must be handled with great care.

There is sundry material on defense; an account of the capture of Roseau, Dominica; a deposition of James Joshua Reynolds as to supply of rebel forces in Va. by the brigantine Jane from Belfast, and further regarding letters written from Va. to persons in St. Kitts and Antigua alleged to be well disposed to their cause, Apr. 20, 1780; inconvenience of having upwards of 650 French and Spanish prisoners of war in and near Basseterre.

At a meeting on Feb. 17, 1782, are entered the commissions of Count Dillon as governor and the Chevalier de Fresne as lieutenant governor, and the articles of capitulation of St. Kitts and Nevis, dated Feb. 12, 1782, portions of which deal with freedom of trade. These documents are in both English and French.

Under May 27, 1782, are entered a joint legislative account of the separate, prior capitulation of Nevis on Jan. 14, 1782, a declaration as to the independence of Nevis as regards St. Kitts, and a protest by the former against certain financial assessments.

Many letters from De Fresne are entered, which are not only interesting for the history of French administration in that island, but also show in relief what different results were gained by a governor of that calibre from those attained elsewhere, for example at Dominica.

June 27, 1783–July 28, 1788. The paper is very brittle, and some leaves are broken.

There is material on the end of French occupation; complaints of restrictions on trade with America; proclamation by Gov. Thomas Shirley, permitting the temporary importation of American commodities from foreign islands, June 7, 1787; letter from the colonial agent, Feb. 6, 1788, giving an account of a joint interview of himself and the agent for Barbados with Pitt, on the subject of the African slave-trade, together with subsequent letters and other papers on the same topic; much information on slavery and the sugar industry, the most important items being long letters from the colonial agent in which he states that the government was trying to investigate profits on sugar under cover of queries on slavery, and his account of why France sold sugar cheaper on the continent than England.

Aug. 7, 1788–July 22, 1795.

This book has several proclamations permitting the temporary importation of American provisions and lumber in British ships from foreign islands.

Aug. 17, 1795–Mar. 19, 1799.

Sept. 17, 1799–Dec. 10, 1807.

Jan. 27, 1808–June 23, 1814.

When news of the American embargo arrived a communication from the assembly was recorded, stating that "it was from the Produce of America that the Inhabitants of St. Christopher obtained three-fourths of her food upon which they subsisted themselves their families and their slaves".

British orders in Council of Feb. 7, 1810, and Nov. 30, 1813, are entered. There is some material on measures of defense at the opening of the War of 1812.

MINUTES OF PRIVY COUNCIL.

June 23, 1790–Jan. 3, 1817. (Unpaged.)

Many documents are entered on these minutes. There are frequent applications for opening the port for the importation of provisions and lumber in British bottoms, some of which were granted.

A letter from Capt. Riou of H. M. S. Rose, Basseterre, Mar. 8, 1794, speaks of "privateers fitting out and cruising in the neighborhood of St. Thomas owned by the French Danes Americans and others and manned in Succession by the different Prisoners released and escaped from our Island".

In the minutes of Apr. 10, 1801, is copied a printed "Address of the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church to all their Brethren and Friends in the United States" on slavery, and a proclamation of the council thereon follows. The address was said to have been published in the New York Spectator, and also in the Providence Journal of June 11, 1800.

The British order in Council of Apr. 12, 1809, on the importation of provisions and lumber, is entered. Certain passages show the effect of the American embargo.

Various proclamations, permitting the importation of specified commodities, are entered or noted. In 1811 great reluctance was shown to placing a bounty on salt fish from Br. N. Am.

Aug. 28, 1817–Oct. 6, 1837.

MINUTES OF THE GENERAL COUNCIL OF THE LEEWARD ISLANDS.

Mar. 1–Apr. 23, 1798. (Unpaged.)

This volume includes St. Kitts, Nevis, Antigua, and Montserrat. The contents relate mainly to slavery. The assembly sat at the same time, and many of its addresses, resolutions, etc., are entered here.

MINUTES OF ASSEMBLY.

These have been bound and repaired in recent years. In some cases the paper is very brittle. This series is on the whole less valuable than council minutes, and documents copied therein are fewer in number. Some volumes are incomplete.

Sept. 26, 1745–Aug. 10, 1753.

Report on "the Late Attempt on the Island of St. Bartholomew and the Depredations committed there". Feb. 13, 1746/7.

Feb. 3, 1756–Apr. 15, 1761.

There is some material on defense, privateers, control of the export of provisions, and the reduction in the amount coming from the northern colonies.

Apr. 30, 1761–Sept. 7, 1769.

At the beginning of this book are a few references to French prisoners in the island, and to the expedition against Martinique.

Correspondence of council and assembly over the Stamp Act riot of Oct. 31, 1765, is entered in the minutes for Dec. 17, 1765, and Jan. 21, 1766. On the last date the council asked the assembly to appoint a committee for the purpose of drawing up a joint address to the king on the riot, and destruction of stamped paper. The assembly's reply ended, "This House will readily appoint a Committee to join a Committee of your Board in representing to His Majesty the extreme grievances and heavy burthen of the Stamp Act in order if possible to obtain a repeal of the said Act".

Oct. 24, 1769–Feb. 29, 1776.

Apr. 4, 1776–Sept. 25, 1778.

Some items relate to defense.

Oct. 1, 1778–May 7, 1781.

Some items relate to defense; naval and military intelligence; congested state of St. Kitts following the capture of St. Eustatius, there being upwards of 1400 prisoners of war in the island; and efforts to have them removed.

June 7, 1781–Oct. 31, 1785.

A letter of Adm. Rodney, June 19, 1781, deals with naval movements, and criticizes severely the surrender of Tobago. Another letter from the same source is dated the following day, and one from Prescott, July 4, 1781, both on naval and military affairs.

Defense of the island is a prominent topic. Much material on the dispute between St. Kitts and Nevis duplicates that in the minutes of council.

Oct. 8, 1790–Aug. 28, 1794.

Sept. 16, 1794–June 11, 1799.

July 12, 1799–Sept. 20, 1802.

In 1800 measures were taken to prevent disease reaching the island through American ships attached to the convoy. "The Sickness prevalent at Grenada is generally attributed to the American Vessels." Landing of French prisoners by American men-of-war is mentioned in the same year.

Oct. 18, 1802–Feb. 12, 1806.

Apr. 3, 1806–Oct. 18, 1811.

The records show in 1806 a local readiness to pay a bounty on fish from Br. N. Am., and also a reluctance to impose any duty on the same product from the U. S.

Resolutions of the next year state that famine was imminent and that American traders had almost abandoned the island, as it was impossible to pay them in bills or specie. The consequent need of permitting the exportation of sugar was urged.

Nov. 25, 1811–Aug. 10, 1816.

A few items deal with the regulation of trade.

LETTER-BOOKS.

These contain despatches from the governor to the Secretary of State, local and intercolonial letters.

July 15, 1816–Sept. 8, 1819.

Gov. Probyn to Bathurst: "A great and serious scarcity of provisions certainly prevails among these Islands, there being no vessel in the British American Trade, and a want of Capital to establish such; and unless the Merchants from Great Britain will embark in a Commerce of this description, every Calamity is to be feared from the want of the accustomed resources." Aug. 8, 1816.

Feb. 4, 1823–Oct. 20, 1825.

A despatch to Bathurst under date of Apr. 4, 1825, states that no colonial duties have been levied on American produce imported under 3 Geo IV. c. 44 and 45, during 1824.

ST. LUCIA.

The records listed below are at Castries, in the office of the administrator, to whom any application relating to them should be made. They are stored in a vault, situated on the ground floor, that would not put up a strong defense against fire. Apart from some traces of mildew they are in good condition.

A search of the registrar's office yielded nothing for our purpose.

Local conditions at the treasury, described below, made impossible an examination of in-letters of the governor's office and of the privy council.

Though St. Lucia well deserves her title of cockpit of the West Indies, and Castries has been the scene of repeated battles, fires, and hurricanes, yet her archives have suffered less from such causes than one might expect. During the English assault on Morne Fortuné in 1796 a fire ravaged the town beneath and destroyed all government records. Notarial études were in the hands of their owners, and most of them survived. In 1817 a terrific hurricane blew down Government House, burying the governor in the ruins, and injuring him so severely that he survived only a few hours. Yet apparently the despatches were not harmed, for a credible witness wrote about thirty years later, "The public records are only complete since July 1800—all those of a previous date having been destroyed by fire in 1796".¹

During the last generation government offices in Castries have been moved several times. About twenty-five years ago the loft above the present treasury was used as a general dumping-place, to relieve congestion elsewhere. At length the trap-door was nailed down, and finally the existence of these records nearly passed from memory. At the time of our visit carpenters removed the trap-door. Mere physical conditions made a thorough examination of this room impossible. Nearly two tons of manuscript volumes and files lay in confusion, scattered at random from one end of the garret to the other, where they had been carelessly thrown years before. Mingled with them were old blue-books, newspapers, odds and ends of every description, the whole heavily carpeted with dust, and with evidences of bats and other unlovely denizens of the place; while at every move to examine the documents sundry varieties of spiders and numerous specimens of the insect known locally as "ciseaux" scuttled to fresh cover. The effect of sunshine upon a metal roof made approach to the sides almost impossible. An hour's raid brought to light nearly all the old letter-books, entry-books, and minutes of council listed below. Permission was granted to remove them to the administrator's office, where they now are. Many other volumes having no relation to American history still remain, and also a large quantity of loose papers. Most of the latter are in bundles, and lie in irregular heaps of varying area and depth. A brief examination revealed files of the governor's office which form the counterpart of the letter-books, and also council papers. Some of the letters are dated 1820. Occasional despatches from the Colonial Office were noted. There are also despatches from the governor general at Barbados, but these of course are of a later period.

It will be seen that between the date mentioned by Mr. Breen and the opening date of the archives as constituted at present there is a gap of about eighteen years. For that period we lack at the least the original despatches from England, letter-books of the governor, and the first volume of "Public Acts of Government" with its ordinances and proclamations. The earliest minutes of privy council were taken from the garret, and the legislative council dates only from 1832. No custom-house papers or records of a court of vice-admiralty for the early years are known to survive. Whether despatches, etc., between 1800 and 1818 are buried under one of the dusty piles above the treasury it is at present impossible to tell. Official excavations by the aid of a prison gang would soon settle the matter; but until some such action is taken one can only wonder whether these early records of the English régime in St. Lucia still exist or if perchance they have been lost by some manifestation of that spirit of indifference towards old archives which is so apparent in the islands at the present time.

It is clear that a large part of the items bearing on commercial relations with the United States follow the main lines already noted in other islands. Two features, however, seem worthy of notice. The first is the series of despatches from the Colonial Office, which give the official British account of difficulties arising from certain duties and tonnage dues on British vessels in ports of the United States, that for a time excluded American shipping from the British West Indies. The second does not relate to the United States at all. Among students of various colonial problems, however, there may well be some for whom the results of concessions as to language, law, and religion to the "new subjects" of a conquered colony are matters of interest. For any such the archives of St. Lucia are of especial value.

DESPATCHES FROM THE COLONIAL OFFICE.

The series of original despatches starts with 1818. There are a few gaps. The entry-book for such despatches begins a year sooner. Strangely enough the copies yield better material for our purpose than the originals, for not only are there no gaps, but while many enclosures have been lost from the despatches they are usually copied in the entry-books. The latter are therefore selected for presentation, but original despatches were also examined, and unless there is a note to the contrary the material is present in both series. Original despatches are sewn in sections about an inch thick, which have paper covers but are not numbered.

ENTRY-BOOKS OF DESPATCHES.

May 8, 1817–Sept. 24, 1825. (268 pp.) Indexed.

Circular, giving tables of fees of customs officers in the Br. W. I., divided into lists for American, European, and island vessels. Downing Street, May 8, 1817. (In entry-book only.)

Despatch, enclosing note from Thomas Lack to Henry Goulburn on export of sugar from the W. I. by vessels importing provisions and lumber. The Committee of Privy Council for Trade refused their consent. Downing Street, Feb. 25, 1818. The enclosure is entered, dated Feb. 10.

Bathurst to Sir John Keane. Discusses the temporary permission at times given to import lumber from foreign islands in British vessels, and approves of the governor's refusal to allow such importation by foreign ships. Downing Street, Feb. 8, 1821.

Same to the officer administering the government. Circular despatch on duties levied in the U. S. on British tonnage and goods from the W. I. Downing Street, Dec. 30, 1823. Enclosed is a letter from the Board of Trade which recommends that diplomatic negotiations should be initiated, and states that the British government is ready to adopt a policy of equality as regards tonnage dues and duties on goods imported in foreign bottoms. (In entry-book only.)

Id. Circular despatch relating to heavy charges on English commerce and navigation in the Br. W. I. and Br. N. Am., and which were proving a serious factor in the competition with merchants and ship-owners of other countries. Downing Street, June 4, 1824. One enclosure from the Board of Trade is present.

Sept. 30, 1825–Dec. 31, 1831. (Unpaged.) Indexed.

Bathurst to Maj.-Gen. Mainwaring. As the U. S. have not placed British commerce and navigation on the footing of that of the most favored nation, the provisions of section 4 of the act 6 Geo. IV. c. 114, closing ports in the Br. W. I. to American shipping, are to be enforced. Downing Street, Aug. 12, 1826. One enclosure from the Treasury present.

Id. Circular despatch, tracing the course of negotiations since 1820 regarding duties on British shipping and commerce in American ports, and reiterating instructions to close all ports of the Br. W. I., Newfoundland, etc., to American shipping after Dec. 1 next. Downing Street, Aug. 19, 1826.

Id. Circular despatch, forwarding a report from the Board of Trade dealing with queries from some of the W. I. on the interpretation of recent regulations affecting their trade with the U. S. Downing Street, Apr. 18, 1827. Enclosure present.

Huskisson to same. Circular despatch, which treats in detail the principles underlying the statutes 6 Geo. IV. c. 114, 7 Geo. IV. c. 56, and sundry orders in Council, and describes the problems that have arisen from their practical application. The course adopted by the U. S. and other nations is described, and instructions are given on the enclosed order in Council of July 16, 1827. Downing Street, Sept. 8, 1827. (In entry-book only. The order in Council is not copied here, but in the volume entitled "Public Acts of Government".)

Murray to Maj.-Gen. Mackie. Circular despatch, forwarding, with comments, an order in Council of Nov. 5, 1830, "authorizing the admission into all His Majesty's Possessions abroad of American Ships arriving from the United States with Goods the Growth, produce or manufacture of that Country". Downing Street, Nov. 10, 1830. (Enclosed are correspondence of the Foreign Office, Pres. Jackson's proclamation of Oct. 5, 1830, circular instructions to collectors of customs in the U. S., and three papers from the British Board of Trade. No enclosures remain with the original despatch. The order in Council is not copied.)

"HOME CORRESPONDENCE."

This series of letter-books has indexes and also marginal summaries.

"Vol. 1." June 28, 1818–May 13, 1824. (274 pp.)

Maj.-Gen. Sir John Keane to Bathurst, no. 3. Describes state of the colony following the late hurricane, and gives reasons for opening the port temporarily to vessels of all friendly nations. July 27, 1818.

Id., no. 36. Despatch similar to the previous one, in consequence of another severe storm. Oct. 27, 1819.

Id., no. 55. Importation of lumber in British vessels. Only 29 American vessels of small tonnage have entered in the past twelve months. Nov. 26, 1819.

Maj.-Gen. Mainwaring to same, no. 6. Details of the importation of provisions, lumber, etc., by various channels. Sept. 7, 1821.

Id., no. 41. Forwards, with comments, an ordinance entitled "An Ordinance imposing certain Colonial duties on Articles imported under authority of an Act of Parliament passed in the third year of His Majesty's reign intituled 'An Act to regulate the Trade between His Majesty's possessions in America and the West Indies' ". Dec. 20, 1822. (Enclosure not found. Before this time such documents had ceased to be copied in minutes of the privy council, and the first volume of "Public Acts of Government" is missing.)

Id., no. 18. Sends ordinance entitled "An Ordinance imposing a Tonnage duty upon Vessels of the United States . . . and an additional 10 per cent upon the duties established upon Articles imported therein". Nov. 3, 1823. (Enclosure not copied.)

July 20, 1829–Mar. 12, 1831. Unpaged. Nothing found.

MINUTES OF PRIVY COUNCIL.

Nov. 25, 1816–Jan. 3, 1822. 412 pp.

This volume, which has some pages missing at the end, contains the first minutes of the council under British rule. It begins with procès verbaux of the nomination and summons of the privy council, and commissions of Maj.-Gen. Richard Seymour as governor, commander-in-chief, and vice-admiral. At first, except for some documents entered, French is used exclusively. A governmental order soon made English the language of the minutes, but a diminishing proportion of ordinances and proclamations are entered in French for some years. The material for American history in this series is confined to commercial lines.

Proclamation permitting for two months the importation of certain provisions in British vessels from neighboring islands, and the exportation of rum and molasses. Jan. 3, 1817. This was at the instance of a local petition.

Proclamation opening the port of Castries for three months for the importation of certain specified provisions, lumber, and live stock in the vessels of all nations in amity with G. B., in order to mitigate the disastrous effects of the hurricane of the previous day. Oct. 22, 1817. A subsequent proclamation of Oct. 25 allowed the exportation of rum and molasses, and also fixed import, export, and tonnage duties.

Proclamation extending that of last October until Apr. 22, 1818, in order to allow time for the crops to mature, and thus permit payment in produce. Nov. 19, 1817.

Proclamation reducing duties on neutral vessels and their goods, in order to "Encourage a greater influx of Foreign Vessels". Jan. 16, 1818.

Minute and proclamation adding sugar to the list of articles that may be exported in foreign vessels as payment for imports. Jan. 26, 1818.

Proclamation keeping open the port to foreign vessels importing certain articles of provisions, lumber, and live stock until Oct. 21. Mar. 26, 1818.

Minute stating that the port had been closed to foreign vessels in consequence of instructions from the Colonial Office, followed by a proclamation allowing the importation of certain articles of provisions, live stock, and lumber in British ships, and the exportation of rum and molasses in the said vessels. May 1, 1818.

Minute on the alarming economic situation, followed by a proclamation opening the port for three months to foreign ships importing certain articles, and allowing them to export rum and molasses. May 21, 1818.

Minute of a proclamation ordered, to keep the port open until Feb. 20, 1819. July 28, 1818. (Not entered.)

Minutes relating to a tax on transient traders, and discussion as to advisability of opening the port to foreign ships for the importation of provisions, etc., and the exportation of rum and molasses. Oct. 28, 1820.

Deliberations of council upon a petition of merchants, etc., and an order for a proclamation opening the port until June 30, 1821, for the importation in British vessels of certain articles of lumber from other parts of the W. I. under European domination. Nov. 14, 1820.

Apr. 11, 1822–Dec. 20, 1830. (Unpaged.)

There is little for our purpose in the second volume of privy council minutes. On Aug. 21, 1822, there was discussion of the Intercourse Bill, regulating trade of the Br. W. I. with foreign islands and with the U. S. A local ordinance on this subject was drawn up on Sept. 4.

"PUBLIC ACTS OF GOVERNMENT."

"Vol. 2." 1826–1830.

The first volume of this series of entry-books was not found, but it is clear that some of the material is in the minutes of privy council. The chief classes of documents entered are ordinances, proclamations, orders in Council, and governmental orders. There is some material on shipping, taxes on transient traders, etc., most of which is of an indirect nature for our subject, and a British order in Council of July 16, 1827, relating to trade.

LETTER-BOOKS OF LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.

These contain no direct material beyond occasional instructions from the governor to the collector and comptroller of customs to allow certain articles from the cargoes of American ships to be landed, or notifying them that proclamations relating to the importation of American produce had been extended.

"A." June 26, 1818–Mar. 24, 1820. (260 pp.) Indexed.

"B." Mar. 28, 1820–Oct. 5, 1821. (245 ") "

Oct. 5, 1821–Aug. 19, 1823. (352 ") "

Aug. 23, 1823–Jan. 21, 1825. (350 ") "

DUPLICATE DESPATCHES.

Five volumes of duplicate despatches sent from St. Lucia to the Colonial Office have recently been presented by the latter to the colony. They cover the period 1814–1840.

ST. VINCENT.

Political records at Kingstown, St. Vincent, are scanty, and it was with some difficulty that they were found at all. Certain books of council minutes are in very poor condition, the paper being dark and very brittle. Manuscript volumes of old laws are in the vault of the registrar, who is under the supervision of the chief justice. The remaining books were found at the administrator's office, in a room on the ground floor.

It should be noted that these records cover not only St. Vincent but also Bequia and the Grenadines north of Carriacou.

ADMINISTRATOR'S OFFICE.

MINUTES OF PRIVY COUNCIL.

Feb. 4, 1784–Dec. 5, 1789. (Unpaged.)

Minutes of July 4, Aug. 25, Sept. 25, Nov. 13, 1787, Feb. 3, May 23, July 30, 1789, deal in part with the question of opening the ports for importation of certain specified articles of provisions and lumber. Proclamations to that effect are at times recommended, but these were not entered, and could not be discovered in loose form.

Dec. 10, 1789–June 8, 1805. (Unpaged.) End missing.

The same kind of material as in the preceding volume is found in the following sessions: June 4, 1790; May 26, Oct. 25, 1791; Apr. 10, 1792; Jan. 23, Aug. 5, Oct. 1, 1793; Jan. 1, Mar. 25, Nov. 18, 1795; Jan. 24, 1796; Oct. 25, 1797. In the later dates mention is made of allowing American ships to enter, and in 1798 there are the cases furnished by arrival of the schooner Sea Flower from Portland and the brig Hannah from Boston.

Lieut.-Gov. Wentworth to Gov. Bentinck. Discusses the trade of Nova Scotia with St. Vincent, and refers to the transient duty of three per cent. imposed upon traders from this British colony but not upon those from the U. S. Halifax, Mar. 3, 1803.

Circular despatch from the Colonial Office on the question of opening ports of the island to articles from the U. S. Downing Street, Sept. 5, 1804. An address of the council to the governor, dated Nov. 1, 1804, and read at a meeting on Nov. 20, treats this matter in detail, gives statistics of recent imports from G. B., Ireland, and Br. N. Am., and argues the necessity of allowing the importation of salt provisions from the U. S.

May 2, 1806–Feb. 1, 1820. (Unpaged.)

The British orders in Council of Sept. 17 and Oct. 1, 1806, dealing with the regulation of the W. I. import trade, are entered. Subsequently there is correspondence and other material on the importation of provisions and lumber in neutral vessels. The question of placing a bounty on Newfoundland fish is also brought up for discussion.

The case of the American brig Alert appears under date of Aug. 12, 1808. Circular despatch from the Colonial Office, enclosing an act, etc., on trade between Bermuda and the U. S. Downing Street, Sept. 14, 1812. (Two enclosures also entered.)

MINUTES OF LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

Mar. 3, 1784–Feb. 5, 1785. (163 pp.)

Feb. 15, 1785–Jan. 17, 1787. (Unpaged.)

Feb. 7, 1787–July 20, 1792. (Unpaged.)

Also has despatch of July 20, 1791, with enclosure from Quebec merchants. Vide minutes of assembly.

Sept. 4, 1792–Dec. 30, 1796. (Unpaged.) This volume is too fragile to be examined in detail.

An address of council and assembly to the governor sets forth the alarming scarcity of provisions, and prays that the ports may be opened to vessels of every nation (France excepted) importing foodstuffs. June 26, 1793.

Jan. 25, 1797–Jan. 10, 1799. (Unpaged.) This volume is also too fragile to permit a full examination.

Jan. 11, 1799–June 12, 1802. (Unpaged.)

Oct. 4, 1809–Dec. 1, 1818. (Unpaged.)

There are notes of acts imposing tonnage duties on American vessels. 1812.

MINUTES OF ASSEMBLY.

Oct. 4, 1786–June 5, 1793. (Unpaged. Beginning and end missing.)

Regulation of trade with the U. S. Oct. 23, 1787.

Circular from Dundas, enclosing copy of memorial from merchants of Quebec. Whitehall, July 20, 1791. (The enclosure, dated Quebec, Dec. 9, 1789, deals with the importation of rum and molasses, and suggests preferential treatment of return trade as compared with that of the U. S.)

MISCELLANEOUS.

Nov. 17, 1808–Aug. 22, 1811. (186 pp.)

This is an entry-book of local and English letters. There are a few petitions and other material on the landing of cargoes.

Jan. 23, 1809–Feb. 25, 1812. (132 pp.)

This letter-book of local and English letters has nothing for American history.

REGISTRAR'S OFFICE.

LAWS.

1767–1772. This volume is imperfect.

An act for preventing abuses in the lumber-trade with America and to regulate local trade in grains, etc. Jan. 11, 1768.

1784–1787.

1787–1793. Imperfect. Partly duplicates the next volume.

1787–1796. Proclamations and acts.

There are a few proclamations of the usual character, to open the ports for the importation of certain specified items of provisions and lumber.

1797–1809. This volume has a table of contents.

An act for laying a tax on transient traders. Oct. 22, 1799. (Traders from Br. N. Am. and the U. S. were exempted from certain provisions in case they sold their cargoes wholesale. This act was altered by another of Nov. 21, 1808, in favor of traders from Br. N. Am.)

TOBAGO.

When Tobago became a ward of Trinidad (q. v.) in 1899 some records were brought from Scarborough to the government buildings in Port of Spain. These were lost in the fire of 1903. In 1915 further transfers were made, chiefly of land records and registers of vital statistics. In a vault attached to the office of the colonial secretary of Trinidad are two letter-books of despatches from the governor of Tobago to the Colonial Office, of which the earliest begins in 1829, and the two volumes of minutes noted below.

Considering the fire of 1903, the evidence of existing despatches and minutes, and verbal information offered, it was judged useless to make a trip to Tobago. Records still at Scarborough are said to be scanty and comparatively recent in date.

“MINUTES OF THE HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY, TOBAGO.”

Nov. 1, 1797–Aug. 4, 1799. (370 pp.)

During this period Stephen DeLancey was governor, and his relations with the assembly were at times very strained. The bulk of the material is of course local in its nature, but there is some relating to W. I. currency, trade with Spanish colonies, and a long, important report in Oct., 1798, on “the increase of Negroes and the amelioration of their state”, in answer to a resolution of the House of Commons of Apr. 6, 1797. It is a good description of slavery in Tobago.

A minute of 1798 says that some documents were destroyed by a fire at Scarborough in 1790. A note at the end of this book states it to have been volume “fourth of fair minutes”.

Aug. 13, 1799–June 26, 1802. (Unpaged.)

Among local items is material on trade with Spanish colonies, a bill to ameliorate the condition of the negroes, desire of the colony to remain under British rule, importation of salt provisions from the U. S., and a petition to the king by council and assembly, Nov. 17, 1800, setting forth the economic history of the island under British rule, including the effect of the American Revolution.

TRINIDAD.

On March 23, 1903, a mob set fire to the building in which government offices were housed in Port of Spain. In a few moments the building and all its records were destroyed. Archives of the registrar general were not harmed, but they deal only with land titles and vital statistics. Minutes of the Cabildo and a volume of proclamations escaped because for many years they had been out of government hands.

A few volumes of duplicate despatches from Trinidad to the Colonial Office have since been given by the latter. The earliest is for 1814. They of course simply duplicate material at the Public Record Office in London.

TOWN HALL.

By the articles of capitulation, as printed in L. M. Fraser's History of Trinidad, all records were to be left in the island. In 1813 the records of the Cabildo were extant from 1733. For many years this body continued to exist, and in 1840 it finally became the town council of Port of Spain. The governor acted as president, and the minutes of meetings are signed by all members present. With a mixture of executive, legislative, and judicial functions, in its early days under British rule, before it was shorn of much of its power, the Cabildo had a close resemblance to the council of mainland colonies.

Under Sir Ralph Woodford early minutes of the Cabildo (1733-1813) were copied and translated. Fraser used them in his history, the first volume of which was published in 1891. Now there is no trace of either copies or originals. One theory is that they may have perished in the fire of 1903, along with the manuscript of Fraser's third volume. The first volume of the existing set covers the period June 21, 1813-July 15, 1816. The material is largely local in character, and a brief search among its brittle pages revealed nothing for American history. For the first few years English and Spanish are on opposite pages; then the Spanish version stops. The volume has 180 sheets, written on both sides.

A topical index, arranged alphabetically, is in a separate book. It covers the minutes for 1813-1837.

These minutes are in the office of the town clerk, Port of Spain, to whom any application regarding them should be made.

PORT OF SPAIN PUBLIC LIBRARY.

"Proclamations. 1813-1833." This volume of 500 pages contains both manuscript and printed proclamations for the period June 17, 1813-Dec. 31, 1833.

On Aug. 10, 1813, was published an imperial proclamation of June 10 on the importation of provisions. This is the only item within the radius of United States history.

REGISTRAR GENERAL'S OFFICE.

(Port of Spain.)

Contains conveyances, deeds, wills, etc., from early times, including Tobago material. A book of Tobago conveyances of 1717 was seen. Tobago papers are in Spanish, English, or French, according to date. Old Spanish deeds of Trinidad can no longer be handled.
